spent last week at the home of their brother-in-law, E. H. Bellknap

Mrs. Emma Hawley has been moving to the vacant house on Mr. Cartright's place.

There is some prospect of a good sized real estate deal here. Good homes are being sought after, not only by strangers, but those who have been here for a longer time.

Miss Clair Starr, who has been at home for some time on account of sickness, is improving and intends to return to OAC shortly.

Charles Hickson, of Southern Oregon, is visiting his sister, Mrs. Clyde Tharp.

Farmers are improving their time while the good weather lasts, putting in their fall crops.

While the OAC team is battling with Berkeley on the California field, there will be a gridiron duel in progress on the local grounds. It will be the annual combat between the Junior and Senior classes and no doubt will be an interesting game. According to the precedent set by former games of the kind there will be no first or second team men allowed to play. Both teams will be composed of players who are apprentices at the business, which will make the contest all the more interesting to witness. A bunch of men representing each class may be noticed at work every evening in anticipation of the struggle.

The Juniors have the heavier line and more individual stars but whether they can advance the ball against the Juniors' formation will not be decided until next Saturday afternoon. Henrichs, the 225 pound man from Hood River certainly will do stunts at center and the remainder of the line will be taken care of by big men.

The Juniors are not fortunate enough to have so much beefsteak along the frontier but the men filling those positions will work hard in upholding the honors of their class.

It will be a game worth seeing. It will be a lineup such as never appeared on the local gridiron, when President Gearhart's men meet those of President Stieberger.

SUSTAINS BULL-FIGHTING.

Young King of Spain Classifies Terrorists with Players of the Drama.

Madrid.—King Alfonso has stamped bull-fighting with the seal of approval not to be questioned. Recently the young ruler gave forth an edict to the effect that the Scriptural injunction that on six days only one may labor was the law of Spain as well as the law of God.

Thereupon arose an outcry for fear that this might apply to bull-fighting, but promptly it was announced that since the bull-fighters did not labor on the other six days they were within the letter of the law even were it not that they were artists and not artisans.

According to the proclamation the terrorer rank with the players of the semi-sacred dramas, whose work is also exempted from the restrictions of the law, and they are officially declared to be artists, a fact which is no doubt gratifying to the heroes of the bull ring.

EARLDOM NOW EXTINGUISHED.

Death of the Seventh Earl Cowper Without an Heir Ends the Line.

London.—Francis Thomas De Grey Cowper, seventh Earl Cowper, who was lord lieutenant of Ireland from 1880 to 1882, is dead. There being no heir, the earldom is now extinct. Earl Cowper was born in 1834.

The baronies of Dingwall and Lucas, which Earl Cowper held, go to his nephew, Auberon Thomas Herbert, son of Auberon E. W. M. Herbert (third son of the earl of Carnarvon), and Florence, daughter of the sixth Earl Cowper, and the barony of Butler is shared by him with his sister, Ethel Anne Priscilla Herbert, and Lady Amabel, wife of Admiral of the Fleet Lord Walter Talbot Kerr, sister of Earl Cowper.

Cashier Saw Him.

Edward C. Stokes, governor of New Jersey, recently invited a friend to dine at a Trenton restaurant, and afterward discovered that he had forgotten his pocketbook. "I am the governor of New Jersey, and will settle this little matter when I come in again," explained Gov. Stokes to the cashier. "I'm President Roosevelt and you'll settle now," said the cashier, who was new. Happily the governor found somebody who could vouch for his honesty.
