Beggars Print a Paper.

It has been discovered that the Paris beggars' guild circulates a four-cent weekly in Paris, giving the news of fraternity doings, articles upon the latest discoveries of means to wring tears and cash from the tender-hearted, announcement of society affairs at which beggars may hope for a rich harvest, want ads, such as: "A member seeks a colleague able to simulate fits." "Wanted—Blind boy, curly-headed preferred, able to play the violin." The police, having found the list of subscribers, expect to be able to purge the chapel doors of watering places of many impostors.

Man Unreasonable.

Is often as great as a woman's. But Thos. B. Austin, Mgr., of the "Republican," of Leavenworth, Ind., was not unreasonable when he refused to allow the doctors to operate upon his wife, for female trouble. "Instead," he says, "we concluded to try Electric Bitters. My wife was then so weak, she could hardly leave her bed and five (5) physicians had failed to relieve her. After taking Electric Bitters, she was perfectly cured and can now perform all her household duties." Guaranteed by Allen & Woodward druggists. Price 50c.

CURE FOR BLINDNESS

VIOLET RAYS SAID TO RESTORE SIGHT.

Interesting Experiments with Electric Current in New Form—How the Treatment Is Applied.

New York.—A series of interesting experiments with the violet ray as a cure for blindness has disclosed that electricity in this weird and strangely beautiful form has possibilities before undreamed of. Heretofore it has been used chiefly to destroy bacilli and malignant, diseased tissue, but this new experiment applied it to the optic nerves of a woman who had been pronounced incurably blind by the specialists in one of the eye and ear hospitals of this city. As a result of the treatment the patient, Mrs. Charlotte Walker, is able to read the headlines on a newspaper, see the hands on a watch and pursue the ordinary vocations of life.

The fact that the nerves responded to the treatment proves that they were not entirely atrophied, as supposed by the physicians that administered treatment in the hospitals.

Whether the sight can be entirely restored will depend, according to the experimenter, Dr. S. S. Yallan, on the patient's general condition and the cause of the trouble. If there be deep-seated organic disease, affecting the entire system, the cure may not be perfected and the improvement is likely to be only temporary.

The electricity may be generated by a static machine or by a coil, the static machine being used by Dr. Yallan. Mrs. Walker sits beside it on an insulated platform. The electrode is a glass vacuum tube with an expanded bulb at the end and an insulated handle, or one having two bulbs, this being used on both eyes simultaneously. The physician applies the bulb to the temples, to the eyeballs, to the back of each ear and over the spine and back in order to reach the cervical nerves that control the eyes.

While the treatment is in progress the glass bulb is more beautiful than any flower, the ray changing from pale violet to deep purple. At the same time the patient experiences a prickling sensation more or less intense, according to the strength of the current.

"The patient was brought to me for the experiment with the violet ray by a physician in the hospital in which she had been pronounced incurable," said Dr. Yallan. "She was about 29 years old, had been blind two years and could not or would not give any history of her case that could be of any aid in treating her. There was evidence that the nerves of the eye were entirely atrophied. The woman also has rheumatic pains, which complicated her case and showed the general system was not in a healthy condition.

"After taking the violet ray treatment for a month she announced to me joyfully: 'Oh, I am going to get my sight back again! I am seeing fine! I can see people on the street. I can see the cars of the lamps.' Soon she was doing considerable housework, being able to see her way about the house."

WAS RIGHT TO GET DRUNK

Butte Judge Decides Once in Thirty Days Is Proper Average for a Man.

Butte, Mont.—"Any man who pays his liquor bill and is not too boisterous to be confined to drink once a month," said Police Judge Warren in acquitting Luther Wilson, charged with being a perpetual drunkard. The prosecuting attorney cited the fact that Wilson had been a regular offender during the past year, and asked that he be given a jail sentence.

The prisoner argued that he had never been arrested twice in the same month, and expressed the opinion that he would be confined to jail once a month. The point was well taken by Judge Warren, who said: "As a matter of fact, any man who does not create a disturbance or make a nuisance of himself is entitled to get drunk once each 29 days if he cares to. You may go, Wilson, but don't let your jail dates conflict, for if you are arrested twice in the same month you will be punished. Take my advice and stick to the water wagon until after the Fourth of July."

BECOMES BALD IN A WEEK

Young Man Loses His Hair in Remarkable Way and the Doctors Are Puzzled.

Connorsville, Ind.—Clarence Maple was arrested for alleged assault. Maple is a married man and has a family. Since his incarceration in jail he has lost his hair and now is as bald as the average man of 70 years, the only semblance of hair on his head being a growth of hair near the front. When Maple in jail possessed a heavy head of hair.

Instances have been known of a person's hair turning suddenly white when suffering from fright or grief, but the present instance is believed to be the first on record of the kind. A physician whose attention was called to the matter could not account for it, but said it was of great interest to medical science.

FORTUNE FOR WORKINGMAN

Forgotten Relative in Texas Leaves New York Laborer Over $3,000,000.

New York.—Wonderful news came to the little cottage near Woodlawn, L. I., occupied by Thomas O'Keefe and his wife, in the form of a letter from a sister in Ireland. It told him that he is heir to $3,825,000 as his share of the estate of an almost forgotten relative, who died years ago, leaving $11,500,000.

O'Keefe, until two years ago, was a section foreman of the Long Island railroad. He had been so employed for nearly 40 years, when, having acquired a modest competence from his wages of $1.20 a day and the earnings of his wife, who took in washing to aid the family exchequer, he bought a six-acre farm, which he has been working in rustic contentment. The O'Keefes were celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding when the golden news came in the letter from Ireland.

Romance surrounds the O'Keefe inheritance, but investigation by lawyers and by Douglas Conklin, cashier of the Bank of Huntington, establishes the fact that the millions have a very substantial foundation, and that from an income of $438 a year, the former section boss and present owner of a six-acre farm is about to step into one of $150,000. In 1804 Dennis O'Keefe, of Kilkee, County Clare, Ireland, left his home and shipped as a sailor. He wandered over the world, and finally settled in Texas, acquiring many acres of land, and on nearly all of it has been found in immense quantities. The oil was found years after old Dennis O'Keefe died, and since scores of lawyers have been searching for his relatives. Finally, a lawyer, named Hildreth, discovered one of the three heirs to the estate, Mrs. Maria O'Keefe Fennell, of Kilkee, Ireland. Mrs. Fennell notified her two brothers, Patrick McGuire, who lives in Ireland, and O'Keefe.

BUILDING HER OWN HOUSE

Massachusetts Woman Has Started, Unaided, a Two-Story Structure.

North Adams, Mass.—Mrs. Elizabeth Hollis, young, muscular and handy with tools, has started in to build, unaided, a two-story frame dwelling on a plot of ground recently purchased by her at Lorraine, a suburb of the city. She has already started the cellar excavation, and has a good portion of the work done. She has ordered stone, and plans to put in a heavy foundation wall.

Mrs. Hollis feels she will be forced to call for assistance when it comes to handling the heavy framing timbers, but aside from this she will put up the house and finish it without help. The Building Trade council of the city practically controls the building in the city. They will offer no objection to the woman doing the work. In fact, the council has offered to furnish a couple of men to do any work which Mrs. Hollis is unable to do, but she declines emphatically that she will get along very nicely after the heavy framing is done.

Mrs. Hollis declares she will have but little difficulty in doing the inside finishing, plastering and papering. Several men residing near her have offered to lend a hand in digging the cellar, but she prefers doing the work herself.

NO RACE SUICIDE THERE.

California Woman Becomes the Mother of the Twenty-Fifth Child.

San Francisco, Cal.—At the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John Mello, of Berkeley, Mrs. Mello says: "John, we have another." He replied: "All right, Maria."

Mrs. Mello was born in the Azores 46 years ago. She began married life at the age of 15, and has had 25 children. She has been wedded twice. Her first husband was the father of ten infants, and to John Mello belongs the responsibility of 15.

Mrs. Mello is the youngest of 20 children by her own mother, and knows of several additional half-brothers. "I don't know just how many," says Mrs. Mello; "I think ten, but maybe more."

After her marriage Mrs. Mello came with her husband to California. And before she was 16 Manuel arrived to prove to his grandfather that the family tradition was just as strong in the new land as in the old. Such was the beginning. The records of to-day show 25 children in 30 years, with seven pairs of twins among them, each time, until the last, a black-eyed boy and a blue-eyed girl.

Talking Good for the Teeth.

Somebody has advanced a new theory to account for the rapid decay of the teeth of human kind. It is due, this wiseacre says, to the decline of conversational powers. Talk exercises the jaws, and jaw exercise is beneficial to the teeth. The more talk the more benefit. Our ancestors were forced to talk because there were few amusements to silence them. Their teeth were more shapely and stronger, and they endured. Nowadays cheap entertainments of many kinds entice the teeth owners and cheap literature from an engrossing character draws them from the natural exercise that their molars and incisors so sorely need.

University Statues.
