

SUCCESS WITH POULTRY.

A Few Rules the Violation of Which Leads to Certain Failure.

To have success in the poultry business the flock must be kept healthy. Here are a few suggestions for keeping them in good condition, says a writer in American Poultry Journal:

Keep the poultry house warm and dry, for damp poultry houses are breeding houses for disease.

Scald out the drinking vessels every few days and keep them as clean as possible.

The hens should always have a dust bath handy, winter and summer. This will help keep the fowls free from lice. A little salt and pepper mixed with the mash is good for the hens.

An unsuspected draft striking the fowls at night while on the perches is responsible for many a case of cold in the head and incipient roup. Stop up the cracks in the henhouse.

A variety of food will help to keep the hens healthy and will also be good for the egg production.

The great factors in winter production of eggs are cut bone or meat, green food in some shape, clover or roots and exercise.

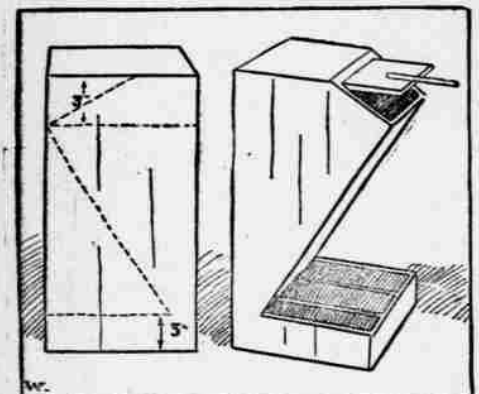

Forcing egg production is a dangerous practice if the flock is a good one. Keep them in good condition, and they will do their part.

Change the food for a day or two if the fowls have bowel disease. Half of the troubles of this kind can be traced to a lack of sharp, hard grit.

The best condition powder for the poultry consists of clean quarters, good food and pure water.

Homemade Feeder.

Now that there is such a craze for the feeding of poultry from hoppers, with the resultant saving of time and labor, any device which seems to meet the requirements of the everyday fancier is hailed as a boon. Most poultrymen are kept pretty busy attending to their pets and are willing to try anything which makes for time saving. The accompanying illustration shows a very simple three compartment food hopper made from biscuit boxes. Six boxes will make five hoppers. The method of construction is obvious, if the illustration is closely observed with especial reference to the dotted lines.

The Useful Trap Nest.

An advantage of trap nest testing of birds is that the "drones" can be sold off to the butcher and the feed bills reduced by that much. It is a fact that a third at least of the food we feed is fed to "drones"—to no purpose hens. How it would bring up the average of profit if those "drones" were all culled out and got rid of and none fed except those that had proved themselves at least fairly good layers! It is the "drones," the no purpose hens, that lower the average of income for food fed. They are fed at a loss all the time, and the good layers have to pay for their own food and the food of the "drones," too, before there is anything remaining for profit.

Which are you feeding, "drones" or great layers? Trap nests will tell you, just as the milk scales tell which are the no purpose cows, says A. F. Hunter in American Poultry Advocate.

Not for "Common Herd."

In regard to the "doings" of the "Tongues of Fire" at Salem there is much interest, and the following is taken from the "Statesman" of that city. It says:

As they grow in grace at the mission, new and strange rites and ceremonies are developed, and now some things are practiced that are not meet to be seen by profane, every day, common eyes.

After a more or less tropical meeting Thursday night, at 10:30 o'clock Mr. Ryan dismissed the meeting and asked the people to leave the hall. A few of them left. Some minutes were consumed in the dozen or more of the faithful getting from their seats to the dias and prostrating themselves; the little Hanson girl began to "write" in her strange, unique way, and was tearing Chinese laundry tickets from the tab to beat the band; Mr. Solkeld made a few passes in Hindoo, and the crowd still lingered. Mr. Ryan again asked them to leave, and a few more went out. By this time things were getting pretty warm in the vicinity of the altar, and Mr. Ryan told the crowd to get out, as he was going to turn out the lights, and then finally most of them left. A few fell stumbling over the chairs in groping from the hall in the inky blackness of the night, but all quit the building. The faithful remained until a late hour, and practiced the rites with great relish.

Many people are asking: "What will the harvest be?"

LETTER LIST.

The following letters remain uncalled for in the Corvallis postoffice, for the week ending Dec. 29, 1906:

John Frangren, O W Haynes, Mrs Mary Holcomb, Carl Reichell, E G Wilson.

B. W. JOHNSON, PM.

Rev. M. S. Bush, the popular pastor of the Presbyterian church in this city the past two years, has tendered his resignation, which has been accepted by the congregation, although no official action has yet been taken. Rev. Bush has accepted a call to Baker City, and it is understood he is to fill the position vacated by the pioneer minister, Rev. J. R. N. Bell who has just resigned. Rev. and Mrs. Bush have been deservedly popular in this city, and a large circle of friends regret their decision to go elsewhere, but all join in the hope that the change may be for their good. The resignation will go into effect sometime this month.

Anyone knowing himself indebted to W. W. Ireland is requested to call at the grocery store of T. A. Boulden and settle the account.

Clarence C. Vincent has been appointed deputy county clerk of Benton.

Miss Noma Stewart and little brother went to Albany yesterday for a visit with friends.

Mrs. J. Mason went to the Siletz yesterday, having received word that her mother, Mrs. S. A. Kisor who suffered a stroke of paralysis last week, is worse.

O. B. Connor had a lively runaway with his mail wagon yesterday morning, smashing up both harness and vehicle to a considerable extent.

The Corvallis business college opens today, after the holiday vacation.

The following are the officers-elect of Corvallis Grange: Master, H. L. French; overseer, F. L. Kent; lecturer, Miss Snell; steward, W. J. Kent; asst. steward, E. Erwin; chaplain, George Coote; treas., R. L. Whitehead; sec'y, H. S. French; gate keeper, A. B. Cordley; Pomona, Mrs. Withcombe; Flora, Mrs. French; Ceres, Mrs. Callahan; lady asst. steward, W. J. Kent.

All the World.

Is a stage and Ballards' Snow Liniment plays a most important part. It is no superior for Rheumatism, stiff joints, cuts, sprains and all pains. Buy it, try it and you will always use it. Anybody who has used Ballards' Snow Liniment is a proof of what it does. Buy a trial bottle. 25c, 50c and $1. Sold by Graham & Wortham.

The Joy.

Of living is to have good health. Use Herbine and you will have bushels of joy. You need not be blue, fretful and have that bad taste in your mouth. Try a bottle of Herbine, a positive cure for all liver complaints. E. Harrell, Austin, Texas, writes: "I have used Herbine for over a year, and find it a fine regulator. I gladly recommend it as a fine medicine for Dyspepsia." Sold by Graham & Wortham.

Carrie Nation.

Certainly smashed a hole in the bar rooms of Kansas, but Ballard's Horehound Syrup has smashed all records as a cure for coughs, Rheumatism, influenza, and all Pulmonary diseases. T. C. R. Horton, Kansas, writes: "I have never found a medicine that would cure a cough so quickly as Ballard's Horehound Syrup. I have used it for years." Sold by Graham & Wortham.

A Burglar Scare.

People in the vicinity of the John Spangler home had a life-size excitement Saturday morning, in which all the people nearby participated and in which the police took a hand.

The Spanglers are absent from home and young Claude Wiley went to their house to water the chickens. Rushing home he declared that a man wearing a black mask had thrust his head through a window, had shaken his fist at the boy and had made threatening gestures that had sent the lad home on a run. The news of the bold, bad, black-masked burglar spread like wild-fire and the neighbors turned out en masse. Prof. Cordley and Jesse Wiley were there armed with rifles, Grant Elgin had a vicious looking stick of stove wood, and Chief Lane is said to have favored ordering out the college cannon but was persuaded to approach the home with only his trusty six-shooter in hand.

The dwelling was thoroughly searched from top to bottom by the courageous officers, while the crowd of men, women and children, armed with all sorts of weapons, waited in breathless suspense to slay the fleeing burglar. But he did not flee, and the only live creature discovered in the house was a poor old cat, which may have been the first cause of the alarm.

Frisco Pointers.

Earthquakes are very frequent in San Francisco and one only a week or ten days shook the entire city, tumbling down the walls of ruined buildings and rocking the houses that are intact. The papers, however, are silent on the subject and the quake recently was mentioned by the daily press as "a hard wind storm."

These are statements made by Charley Young, who has just arrived home from Frisco, after spending two or three months there at work.

Prices are sky high in the ruined city. Carpenters are paid $5 a day, panel workers $6 and men capable of building stairways, $8. All the mills are swamped with orders, and are unable to meet half the demand. Many casings for windows and doors have to be cut out and dressed by hand.

Mr. Young had some idea of moving his family to San Francisco, but after going three miles from his work and being asked $40 a month rent for a very small cottage, he decided to leave the family in Corvallis. Board and room for a single individual is $26 a month, where two men occupy the same room and bed, one on day work and the other on a night shift, and other prices are in proportion.

Corvallis-Eugene Canal.

In Lane county the subject of a canal from Eugene to Corvallis has recently been agitated by the Register, and is being discussed by some of the residents of the locality near Eugene. Because of the novelty of the idea and its newness in this section, a letter to the Register, written by a Junction City man, is here given: "To open up the Willamette river from Corvallis to Eugene would not only be quite a task, but would require a large amount of capital.

You are right the canal ought to be dug either by the counties interested in same or by the state. As you say it would be a great help also to drain the swampy ground along the Long Tom.

"The canal ought to be dug as soon as possible to dig it, and a dredge should be used as it would prove the cheapest as far as capital is concerned.

This canal would not only be of great benefit to Eugene and Corvallis alone, but to the people who live along the route of the canal and in fact to the majority of the people in Lane and Benton counties."

Christmas in Portland.

If there was a single person in Portland Christmas who failed to get in touch with the Christmas spirit, the fault cannot be laid at the door of poverty. To the poor of the city the dawn of Christmas never brought a greater bounty. Organized and private charitable expeditions had sought them out and each and every one got the necessities as well as the luxuries of the day. The poor were cared for with lavish hand.

In every poor home, every charitable institution and every jail or house of detention within the city boundaries the spirit of the day prevailed. Christmas dinners, with their array of good things, little presents and little kindnesses were the rule everywhere, says the Oregonian. To the Salvation Army goes the credit of doing the greatest work in behalf of those in need. Members of this organization carried sunshine into a thousand lives during the day. Two hundred baskets were given of provisions and little toys for the children, and 200 homeless people were fed at a down town restaurant by the army.

Oak Grove Notes.

Henry Johnson while getting out of a wagon Thursday slipped and fell braking one of his arms.

Miss Pauline Karstens who has been spending most of the winter in Albany has been spending the holidays with her parents here, Mr. and Mrs. P. Karstens.

Henry Prettyman of Albany has been spending the last few days visiting Oak Grove relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Caution of Wells passed through here Monday on their way to Oak Creek, Linn county, where they went to spend Christmas with the latter's mother, Mrs. Jane Elmury.

The Artisans of Wells will give their annual New Year's ball at their hall at Wells Station New Year's eve.

Mrs. Anna Karstens of Portland came up Thursday and will visit with relatives here for a couple of weeks.

James Johnston of Palestine will soon move on his property here that he bought some time ago of G. M. Missall.

Messrs. Clyde and Elmer Williamson of the OAC have been spending the holidays with home folks and visiting relatives in and around Albany.

Mrs. Leda Kroschel of Albany has been spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Prettyman.

A. L. Cooper was around Christmas day soliciting aid for Mr. M. Palm who had the misfortune to loose his house and all the contents Christmas eve by fire. Our people seemed to give quite freely and a snug sum was raised for the unfortunate family.

Sam McElmurry of Parker passed through here Monday on his way to Linn county to spend the holidays with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schoel of Corvallis came down Monday and will visit at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Goff.

We understand that Prof. Leatherman has been engaged to teach the Fir Grove school and will take charge of the work at the beginning of the new year. The professor is an excellent teacher and a man of broad experience in school work.

North Albany seems to be right up with the times; two weddings the last month is its record.

Mrs. Frank Barager and children who have been visiting her mother Mrs. L. Wentz will leave the latter part of the week for their home near Riddles.

King Richard the Third tonight.

John Griffith's engagement in this city in Shakespeare's tragedy "King Richard the Third" is the cause of a great deal of satisfaction to the theatre patrons who always welcome what is best in the drama. We have the management's assurance of a most excellent supporting company, complete new scenery, and other requisites for a most enjoyable performance. The sale of seats has been very large and it is certain that the house will be packed. The production here will be exactly the same as will be given at the Heilig Theatre in Portland beginning Thursday night.

Dr. Withycombe's Idea.

Growing Coarse Flax Fibre—Advocate the Plan.

Dr. Withycombe the well known and experienced man at the Oregon Experiment Station is quoted in an exchange on the subject of growing coarse flax fiber declaring it to be a good substitute for jute, and suggesting it as a remedy for high priced wheat sacks. He says: "There is no doubt that the Willamette Valley will produce as fine flax fibre as can be grown in the world. Out of this possibility there ought to be means of aiding the solution of the grain sack and hop cloth question. The fibre from the flax straw if grown coarse enough, would be a good substitute for jute as raw material for grain sacks.

"The jute production is in the hands of a trust, and we shall probably continue to be at the mercy of a corporation. The production of flax as a substitute would be in the hands of the farmers. By introducing varieties of flax that will yield heavy, coarse straw in large quantity, it is possible to obtain a yield of 500 to 1000 pounds of flax per acre. The seed has its own value in the oil mills. The by-product from the seed, largely increased would be of inestimable value to dairy interests of the state.

"Out of this combination of products an industry might be inaugurated that would be quite profitable to those who engaged in it, and that would in any event be of inestimable service to the state."

Hamilton-Clark.

A beautiful wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Clark, Tuesday morning, December 25, at 9; when Mr. Vern L. Hamilton led to the altar Miss Laura B. Clark, the ceremony being performed by Rev. C. Hamilton. The bride was dressed in a beautiful gray traveling suit, while the groom wore the conventional black. Shortly after the ceremony the bridal couple was accompanied by the guests to the depot where they took their departure for Portland in which city they will make their future home.

The happy couple received many useful and valuable presents. Miss Clark is the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Clark, and is favorably known among Morrow county's best young people.—Heppner Times.—Both bride and groom are former OAC students and have many friends here, who join in congratulations.
