Mrs. Edward Buxton.

After an illness of long duration, Mrs. Edward Buxton died at 6:30 p. m., Friday, at her home in this city of cancer of the liver. The remains were taken to Forest Grove for interment on the afternoon train Saturday and the funeral occurred from the Forest Grove Hotel at 10:30 Sunday morning.

The maiden name of the deceased was Elizabeth Roderick, and she was born March 8, 1852, in Joliet, Will county, Illinois. By her parents she was brought across the plains the same year to Oregon and located in Albany. Ox team was the means of locomotion on this long journey.

At Forest Grove, January 22, 1871, she was united in marriage with Edward Buxton. As the result of this union she became the mother of four children: Mrs. George A. Sloan, of Portland; George Buxton, of Portland; Miss Minnie Buxton, of Portland; and Harry E. Buxton, of Corvallis. The husband, all the children, and one sister, Mrs. Shepard, of Portland, were at the bedside of the deceased during her last hours.

Mrs. Buxton was the second eldest of a family of six children and is survived by four of them. Her father and mother are both dead. All of the children of the deceased were born in Forest Grove and for this and other reasons interment was made there.

During life Mrs. Buxton was a member of the Eastern Star, and of the Order of Washington, formerly the order of Lyons. She was in every way a good woman and her splendid character endeared her to a large circle of friends. The bereaved survivors have the sincere sympathy of the entire community.

The Portland Market.

Beef cattle are still plentiful and prices do not advance. A good many hay-fed bees are coming in from various points in the Northwest, but drovers who expected higher prices early in the Winter have been disappointed. Range-fed stock has disappeared from the market for the season, and will not be fat enough for slaughter until about the first of June. Live stock men who have fat cattle desire, of course, to sell them off as early in the season as possible, in order to save their fodder, which may be needed later on to tide the range stock over a snowy spell, in regions east of the mountains.

Sheep and hogs are in good demand, and the present high prices rather incline to an advance. Sheepraisers are not willing to let their stock go to the slaughter-house, because wool promises to bring a good price in the Spring. Hogs are high-priced because there are practically none in the Northwest fit for pork, and stocks must be replenished from the Eastern hograising centers as the season progresses.

Fresh eggs are quoted at 28c a dozen flat on Front street, but up-town retailers say they cannot get strictly fresh eggs at this price, and that 29 cents is demanded. Commission men say egg receipts are daily becoming heavier, and that unless the cold spell of weather due within a month should fail to appear lower prices are bound to follow. Eastern eggs are marked down to 22 and 23 cents per dozen, and large quantities of these are used in restaurants and bakeries of the city.

Fancy creamery butter is more inclined to pile up both in the Front street warehouses and with the local creameries. No sign of a decline in price is manifest, however, as this is the season when the cold spell usually cuts the pasture down and renders cream scarce. Prices are likely to stay where they are until the character of the winter is assured.

This has been a good week for poultry-shippers as chickens have commanded top prices. Receipts have been light, and there will be no chickens left over on Front street this week.

Football Degenerated.

Perhaps the latest stand by football adherents is the action reported from Stanford, Friday. It will be of interest to our local players and is as follows:

The faculty athletic committee made public today its annual report to President David Starr Jordan on the condition of university athletics.

On the subject of football reform the committee submits as its opinion that close formations in plays should be abolished; that the modern game had deteriorated from a sport to a business, that the game is exclusive since only men of heavy weight can participate, and that the game is no longer in any sense a college sport, since students do not organize volunteer teams to play for the love of the game.

Dealing with the game of baseball, the committee declares "that baseball is on a distinctively lower level than any other college sport, both as regards the spirit of amateurism and of courtesy and fairness of play."

In conclusion the committee commends tennis, track work and rowing to a more liberal participation by students as being manly sports.

For Breaking Lamps.

During the past two weeks a couple of 25 candle-power incandescent street light globes have been broken in this city. The first one was broken about New Year's and since then Chief Lane and night officer Osburn have been doing some detective work. The result was that the boys were located. In the first case the lad was taken to the officers' quarters and in the process of a "sweating" to which he was subjected admitted his guilt. The next boy supposed to be guilty of the offense was hailed before Deputy Prosecuting Attorney Bryson for a sweat with the result that he confessed.

Saturday morning the boys were taken before Police Judge Yates. Both lads plead guilty and will receive sentence this morning. The minimum fine is $10 or five days in jail and we understand the maximum fine to be $100 or fifty days in jail. They are charged with the destruction of property.

These boys are 16 or 18 years old and are fully old enough to know better. It is beyond one to understand what motive could actuate boys who are verging into manhood to commit such tricks, or misdemeanors.

Prospects Good.

The annual stockholders meeting of the Twin Rocks Gold Mining and Milling Company was held at the Company's offices in Corvallis, Oregon, at 7:30 p. m., Tuesday evening, Jan. 9th. A good attendance was in evidence and an interesting meeting had. The following board of directors was elected: Warren B. Hartley of Cottage Grove, Ore.; S. R. May, Mt. Zion, Illinois; Lewis Hartley, Corvallis, Ore.; W. H. Winnings, Long Creek, Illinois; and Wallace Hartley, of Sellwood, Ore.

The officers elected were Lewis Hartley, president; S. R. May, vice-president; Warren B. Hartley, secretary and treasurer; Geo. B. Spitzer, Mt. Zion, Illinois, assistant secretary.

At the meeting plans were laid for systematic development of the properties of the Company in the Bohemia mining district. The development will commence in the early spring and the first step to be taken will be to strike the main ledge with a cross-cut tunnel that is already started. This ledge as opened on top shows 8 feet of free-milling ore of a high grade, and 100 feet more tunnel will strike this ledge at a depth of more than 150 feet and will undoubtedly show us an ore body that is equal to the expectations of the management of the Company. After this work is completed a site will be selected and good buildings built and preparations made for deeper work.

This property will be under the management of able men and the work done with a view to economy and permanency. The company have an office in this city. A limited amount of treasury stock has been put on the market at five cents per share for the purpose of development. The officers of this Company serve without salary and will until the company is put on a paying basis. The property of the Company consists of all claims, situated three miles south of the Music Mine in Bohemia. The possibilities of the Company are unlimited, as their charter allows them to operate any place in the state and to buy and sell stocks as well as mines. Their attention will be confined to their properties in Bohemia for some time yet.

Invited to Eat Chicken.

The "boys" grew reminiscent a few days ago and told "stories" on each other. Among other things recounted was an experience that betell John Smith some years ago. It seems that John concluded to go down to his Tampico farm one evening and it was a little after dark when he arrived within sight of the house.

There was supposed to be no one at the house and Mr. Smith's astonishment can be imagined when he neared the place to discover a light burning brightly. He discovered that parties were moving about in the house and he knew that something was amiss. Notwithstanding the fact that he was alone and single-handed, Mr. Smith went boldly to the door and knocked. When the door opened he beheld some three or four tramps who hailed him in a chorus with "Hello, Partner, have some supper with us!" John was invited to a supper on his own chickens. What happened later the boys did not divulge.

Rights Disputed.

Under date of January 11, the following dispatch was sent from Salem:

The Kelliber land fraud established the fact, judicially that hundreds of certificates of sale for Oregon school land were issued on fraudulent applications.

The Attorney General has held that, where a certificate of sale has been issued in due form and all the money demanded by the state has been paid for the land, if the state could locate any of the certificates that have been obtained by fraud in the hands of the original holders, they could be cancelled, and the owners of the certificates would have to surrender their claim to title of the land, receiving back the money which they had paid to the state. The state is in a peculiar position regarding these bogus applications. The officials know that they were obtained by fraud in the first place, but the certificates of sale are genuine and the state has received all the money required under the law.

It is a mooted question of law which will probably have to be determined by the courts, whether a third party, who happens to own some of these certificates of sale, can claim the rights of an innocent purchaser.

How to Avoid Pneumonia.

We have never heard of a single instance of a cold resulting in pneumonia or other lung trouble when Foley's Honey and Tar has been taken. It not only stops the cough, but heals and strengthens the lungs. Ask for Foley's Honey and Tar and refuse any substitute offered. Dr. C. J. Bishop, of Agnew, Mich., writes: "I have used Foley's Honey and Tar in three very severe cases of pneumonia with good results in every case." Sold by Graham & Wortham.

Judge W. S. McFadden went to Portland, Sunday, on business that he expected would detain him for a couple of days.
