

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. Olaxton, traveling representative of the Journal, was in Corvallis on business Monday and Tuesday.

Mrs. J. G. Hughes and daughter, of Seattle, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Miller, in Corvallis. The former expect to remain here for several months.

Robinson & Stevenson this week sold the P. A. Johnson residence on Fifth street to Mark Bauer, the consideration being $2,300. Mr. Bauer will occupy the place about February 15.

On his return from Portland, Monday evening, S. N. Wilkins was accompanied by Mrs. M. O. Wilkins, who will remain about a week. Mrs. M. O. Wilkins is the wife of a nephew of S. N. Wilkins.

Rev. W. C. Merrit, international field Sunday school worker, will speak this (Friday) afternoon on "The Master Teacher Teaching the Preciousness of the Lost" at 2:45 at the Congregational church. The afternoon session of the convention opens at 2 o'clock. This evening Rev. Merrit's subject will be "Organized to Win."

The list of rewards for the Seattle Poultry Show gives well-known Corvallis fanciers prominent places. Dr. Bowen Lester is mentioned for first cock, 1st cockerel; 1, 4 hen; 1, 2 pullet; 1 pen; 1 collection of White Wyandottes. J. M. Porter, on Silver Pencilled Wyandottes, had 1, 2 cock; 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 hens; 1 pen. Who says we are not in it?

Last Saturday evening the young ladies of Alpha Hall entertained their friends. The company, numbering about sixty-five, were entertained by a short program, followed by games and lastly, refreshments. Simplicity and genuine hospitality marked the evening, which drew to a close leaving only happy remembrances for the participants.

Mrs. Henry Holroyd and children, whose husband and father died last week in this city and whose remains were taken to Iowa for interment, desire us to express their most sincere appreciation of and thanks for the many kindnesses shown them by Corvallis people during their recent bereavement. Believe them sincerely grateful.

The noted evangelist-orator, Sam P. Jones, is to lecture in the U. P. church at Albany this evening. Beyond doubt quite a contingent from Corvallis will be in attendance as an opportunity to hear so celebrated a man does not occur often. "The World as it is, and the World as it ought to be," "Sham an the Genuine," are some of the topics of this celebrated orator.

J. N. Hegeman, a New Yorker who is spending the winter in Alsea, recently ordered a canvas boat through H. Hodes, of this city. On receiving the boat, Mr. Hegeman took a paddledown the Alsea. The river was badly swollen at the time and the boatman was upset from the boat in some manner. He wrote a friend in this city that owing to the presence of some people on a bridge across the stream his life was saved, but that the canoe was ten feet under water. Beyond doubt the young man came near losing his life.

Perhaps the largest real estate deal ever negotiated in this county was one consummated Monday by Ambler & Waters. The farm of Mrs. C. E. Johnson, comprising 1,300 acres was sold to Portland parties. The property lies seven miles south of this city and is a fine property. The exact price is not given out at present, but is known to be upward of $30,000. This is a remarkable deal in more ways than one. Of course, it is important on account of its size, but has added significance when it is considered that this is an investment of Portland capital. The Portlanders evidently know what they are about. Success to them whatever their intentions are.

During the first of the week William Hansell, Lincoln Chambers and Cliff Kerr went out south of this city to the Buchanan place to hunt geese. Here a most remarkable thing happened: While Messrs. Chambers and Kerr kept under cover of the blind, Mr. Hansell undertook to put out the decoys. Whilst thus engaged a lone gander sailed along and lighted within a few feet of Mr. Hansell, who had no gun. On account of the goose being in line with the decoy setter the fellows in the blind dared not shoot. With the agility of a cat Mr. Hansell sprang at the goose and caught it. Mr. Hansell is a pretty small man, but his friends never would have believed him so small that a wild goose would overlook him and almost light upon him. While all of the above is literally true, it was a "goose" trick after all. Ask some of the boys about it.

In Wednesday's Telegram there appeared a very nice write-up for Corvallis' Junior foot-ball team, accompanied by a good half-tone. The boys made a good record during the season.

The mid-winter examinations are drawing to a close at the Corvallis public schools. Monday the second term of the year will begin and those youngsters who were successful in their "exams" will advance to new grades. Everything connected with the schools is progressing nicely.

The subject of Rev. Feeser for his Sunday evening sermon at the M. E. church is, "The Language and Power of the Eye." This will be the first of a series of sermons upon the eye, ear, nose and mouth, and so-called feeling. The object will be to show the effect of passion or religion upon these senses.

Miss Gladys Moore and one or two of her young lady friends gave a delightful dancing party in Fisher's hall Wednesday night in honor of Joseph C. Henkle, who departs Sunday for Schenectady, N. Y., where he will take a course in the great electric institution of that city.

Presbyterian church, M. S. Bush, pastor: Bible School 10 a. m.; Worship 11 a. m., "Something Christ Could Not Find," C. E. meeting 4:30 p. m.; Evening service at 7:30, subject, "The Parable of the Sower." Sermon illustrated, Solo, "Show Me the Way," Miss Nellie Marvin.

On account of a game warden making himself too familiar about the premises of Thomas Felger's tannery at Philomath recently Mr. Felger went before Justice Williams, of that city, yesterday and pleaded guilty to having deer hides in his possession that were not tagged according to law. For his offense he was fined $25.

As the result of a personal encounter at the S. P. depot a few days ago between a couple of our draymen each contributed $10 towards financing the city. Furthermore, a man who wields a razor for a living allowed his enthusiasm to get the upperhand of him recently in this city and for his indulgence he paid $5, coin of the realm.

A few days ago Homer Lilly butchered one of the large steers that was a factor in his guessing match during the holidays. This was the second, last and largest half of the guessing match—the spotted animal. It weighed when dressed 1,175 pounds. The black animal, killed some time ago, dressed 1,046 pounds. It is thought that this last animal was the largest ever killed in this city.

John Goldson, a cousin of Henry Wortham, of this city, accidentally shot himself last Sunday while cougar hunting near what is known as the Goldson saw mill in Lane county. Before accidentally shooting himself he had twice shot a cougar he had treed. When found by companions of his hunt Goldson was in the agonies of death and only lived a few minutes. The man was a cousin of James L. Lewis, of this city, was 38 years of age and left a wife and one child. The deceased shot himself through the lungs. It is supposed that he shot himself accidentally by slipping off a log.

D. C. Montgomery and J. L. Evans, of this city, are beginning to be anxious over their sons, whose whereabouts are not known. The son of the former is Ben Montgomery and he is aged 24 years, light complexioned, curly headed and weighs about 175 pounds and is about 5 feet 9 inches tall. The given name of Mr. Evans' son is Frank; is dark complexioned, 5 feet 6 or 7 inches tall and weighs about 150 pounds. When last heard from the young men were together in Portland. This was in November. J. L. Evans and family are comparatively new comers to Corvallis and were from Aurora, Nebraska. Should anyone possess information regarding the boys they will confer a favor by communicating with their fathers in this city.

On Wednesday afternoon, January 26, at the hour of four o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Yates, of this city, had been wedded 50 years. Wednesday was their golden wedding. They are both happy surrounded by their children and possess enough of this world's good to insure them the good things of life. As the result of this union four sons and a daughter were born and all are alive and well today. Owing to the fact that their son, Attorney J. F. Yates, was recently called to Iowa on business, the golden wedding day of these worthy people passed by without any unusual demonstration, as they were desirous of having a family reunion on this occasion but the necessary absence of a son changed the program. We bespeak many happy years yet to come for this respectable couple.

On account of several interesting items reaching us after we had gone to press Monday afternoon for Tuesday's paper, we were obliged to carry them over to this issue. We sincerely thank our contributors, but must again remind them that matter for Tuesday's Gazette must be in early the Monday preceding and for Friday's issue on the Thursday before in order to insure publication.

The death of Peter Hanson occurred in this city early Wednesday morning. Consumption was the cause of death. The young man was 26 years of age and was a brother of Mrs. Thomas Stacy, of this city. He came here recently from Washington, but his home was at Roseburg, Oregon. To the latter place the remains were taken Wednesday by Mr. and Mrs. Stacy and were to have been interred yesterday afternoon.

Corvallis Plant Sold.

Yesterday morning A. Welch came up from Portland and in a very brief space of time completed the negotiations for the purchase of the Corvallis Electric Light and Power Plant. J. M. Porter and Mr. Welch both inform us that for the immediate future there will be no change in the management of the local plant. Mr. Porter and his present force of men will be in charge until Mr. Welch and his company get the line run from Albany to this city.

If he has not already taken steps to that end, Mr. Welch will soon petition the county for the right to place his poles in getting to this city. He is much encouraged over the prospects and assures us that all matters are to be pushed vigorously. The price paid for the Corvallis Electric Light and Power Plant was $18,000.

Jingle-Jangle.

"A crowd of troubles passed him by
As he with courage waited,
He said, "where do your troubles fly,
When you are so belated?"
"We go," they said, "to those who mope,
Who look on life dejected,
Who meekly say good by to hope;
We go where we're expected."

The wives of the Sultan of Sulu,
Whose names range from Rita to Lulu,
Once gave a pink tea;
And the Sultan, says he,
"Gosh, I wish I was in Honolulu!"
One day the old Sultan went bumming;
He boozed till he set things a-humming;
When he saw his wives' double,
Said he, "There'll be trouble,"
And he got it "going and coming."

Under a spreading motor car
The village Smithy lays.
The Smith, a foxy man is he;
He struck a job that pays.
No horse he shoes, for o'er his door
The sign "Garage" displays.

S. L. KLINE

The People's Store. Established 1864 Corvallis, Oregon

Married.

At 8:30 Wednesday evening Mr. E. P. Rands, of Oregon City, and Miss Clara Fisher, of Corvallis, were united in marriage at the home of the bride's father, E. W. Fisher, this city. Dr. E. J. Thompson, formerly of this city, but now of Independence, was the officiating clergyman. The bridesmaid was Mrs. Walter Hembree, of McMinnville, and the best man was Carl Harding, of Oregon City.

The decorations were of Oregon grape and fern, Lillies o' the Valley and carnations. The parlor was decorated in green and white; the dining room in green and pink. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. White and Mrs. J. H. Walker, of Oregon City, Prof. and Mrs. McKellips, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Johnson, Prof. and Mrs. Fulton, Mrs. H. S. Pernot, Mrs. Gertrude Strange, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Osburn, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Raber, Misses Bertha Davis, Helen Holgate, and Hazel Raber, Messrs. Walter Hembree, E. E. Wilson, E. W. Fisher and John Fisher.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the wedding party repaired to the diningroom, where an elaborate and choice supper awaited them.

The bride is well known to all of our people as a most estimable young lady and her friends and well wishers are legion; the groom is an engineer by profession and his home is in Oregon City, where he enjoys the respect and confidence of a large circle of friends. The newly married couple expected to depart yesterday for Oregon City, where they are to reside.
