

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Miss Pauline Kline left Wednesday for a few days' visit in Portland.

J. E. Winegar, of Alsea, was a Corvallis visitor Tuesday and Wednesday.

Born, in this city, March 21, 1906, to Mr. and Mrs. Milton P. Morgan, a daughter.

T. J. Smith, of Newport, was in Corvallis, Wednesday and purchased a bill of furniture of O. J. Blacklage.

In the sheriff's sale of March 21 the claim of Laura Burr against the estate of Agnes C. and J. C. McEiroy was sold to J. N. McFadden.

Old-time friends of Mrs. E. P. Hammond will be pained to learn that she is lying ill at the home of her stepdaughter in Portland, there being no hope of her recovery.

This afternoon and tomorrow a farmers' institute will be in session at Tangle. The attending professors from OAC will be Dr. James Withycombe, F. L. Kent and A. B. Cordley.

Dr. Olmstead, of Portland, visited the Wells lodge of United Artisans last Saturday night, and assisted in initiating eight candidates. Dr. Olmstead also visited the Kings Valley lodge last week.

Miles Starr, Jr. arrived in Corvallis a few days ago from Portland, where he has spent the winter and where for two months he was seriously ill. He is now in good health, and will remain for a time in this city.

Eisworth Relief Corps, No. 7, has the honor of having a commissioned officer in her membership, Mrs. Sarah Cronk receiving appointment on the Staff of Aids representing the National President, in their locality, the chief of Staff being located at Attleboro, Mass.

Mrs. Jessie S. Pettit Flint, of this city, has been invited by the state board of Modern Spiritualists of Oregon to make an address before that body at a convention held in Portland, March 25, and will go to the metropolis tomorrow. She may remain away several days.

Yesterday evening occurred anniversary exercises of the Philomath Literary Society of the college of Philomath, at which time a very entertaining program was given. This morning commencement exercises at the same college are to occur, when another interesting program will be rendered.

Frank Thompson, commissioner of Lincoln county, has been in Corvallis during the week. He was out on private business, but while here was looking into some matters that may benefit his county. Frank's home is on Big Elk and he says that everything is moving along nicely over in his section.

A large number of college students left Wednesday for their homes on a short visit, as the vacation between the spring term began Wednesday and will continue until Monday morning. No special rate was given by the rail roads, however, so there was no inducement save homesickness to lead the young folks to seek the parental roof at this time.

Corvallis friends of Is. Jacobs have received word that he is doing nicely in the Portland hospital where he was taken as a result of an accident that befell him a week or two ago when he suffered a severe fall on the court house steps and seriously injured his knee. The hope is entertained that he will not be permanently injured, but it is thought that some time will be required for his recovery.

The Corvallis Flouring Mills have just received from the Big Bend country two car loads of No. 1 choice Blue-stem wheat, later to be milled for their brand known as Mount Hood Snowfall. Owing to the large number of Eastern people coming to this country and their demand for a more glutinous flour it has been decided to import this wheat. All the flour now manufactured at these mills is treated with ozone, or electrified air, which is a perfect sterilizer.

Benton county is just waking up to a new commercial and educational life and demands a representative who will zealously and ably represent her on these as well as all moral and economic questions that may arise for legislative consideration. In nominating and electing J. H. Edwards the county will make no mistake as he has been an active and efficient member of the school board in his district almost all the time for 20 years; is a conservative business man, thoroughly imbued with the idea of a forward move for Benton and our Oregon.

Joseph Edwards, of Bellefontain was a Corvallis visitor Wednesday.

Dr. Cathey was a visitor to Summit Wednesday, on professional business.

Miss Bertha Coon went to Bellefontain Thursday, for a week's visit with her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Durfee, of Salem, were guests Wednesday of Prof. and Mrs. Carroll Cummings.

Dick Smith went to Portland yesterday to attend business that will detain him in the city until Monday.

Instead of regular examinations at the close of the recent term at OAC tests were used and proved most satisfactory.

Burd Croft was to leave yesterday for Portland. He has purchased property in St. Johns and will hereafter reside in that place.

The J. H. Patty estate was admitted to probate at the clerk's office Saturday. The estate is valued at $500; and Reuben Patty was appointed administrator.

The physical lecture class of OAC gave a free exhibition drill in the armory Wednesday afternoon, which was a splendid effort and showed careful training in that department.

Rev. T. S. Handsaker will preach at the Christian church next Sunday morning. Subject: "The Drawing Power of the Cross." There will be no evening service on account of the union meeting.

The adjourned term of the November term of circuit court will be held at 7 o'clock p. m. at the court house Friday, Judge Harris presiding. The regular term for March begins Monday morning.

Pearl Thomas left Tuesday for his old home in Beldan, Nebraska. He had been in Benton about three years, the greater part of the time making a study of the violin, on which he plays most creditably.

Sidney Frask, of Falls City, spent from Saturday until Monday with his family in this city. Mr. Frask recently accepted the position of manager of a large store at Falls City, and is doing well.

Mrs. Martha Peters was given a pleasant surprise party at her home Wednesday afternoon. The occasion was her 55th birthday and the guests numbered about one dozen. Dainty refreshments were a feature.

Presbyterian church, M. S. Bush pastor. Bible school at ten a. m. Morning and evening worship; union revival services in the opera house. Annual congregational meeting next Thursday evening, March 29, at 7:30.

Wednesday, General Thorp departed for Chicago, where he was called on account of business connected with his recent inventions. When asked how long he expected to be absent he replied that it was according to the Fates.

M. F. Tomjack and family, recent arrivals from Nebraska, located in a house near the Evangelical church. Mr. Tomjack left his family in Portland until a location had been secured, and they all arrived in Corvallis this week.

Up to and including the date of the 15th, Sheriff Burnett had collected in Taxes, $57,108.36. This represents less than one month's work without the aid of a deputy, and shows that Sheriff Burnett has not been wasting much time the past month.

Another line has been added to the fancy poultry and bird business in Corvallis. Austin Lafferty received from Boston a few days ago eight pairs of Homer pigeons, and will engage in the business with an eye to profit, as these birds are much in demand as "squabs."

Oscar Gustafson, who owns a place just west of the Agricultural college, has given his home a title—henceforth the place is to be known as "College Plains." Formerly Mr. Gustafson was a contractor, but now he has about decided to devote all his energies to farming.

The Corvallis Manufacturing Company have just completed a suite of bank furniture for Thomas Lee's new bank at Newport. The material used is all hard wood and nothing finer was ever turned out anywhere. The designing was all done by a junior member of the firm. The furniture will be shipped to the bay Monday.

Mark McCallister came up from Salem Tuesday afternoon, and next Monday he assumes the position recently resigned by Thomas Bilyen as instructor in the wood-work department of OAC. Mr. Bilyen goes to Portland to engage in business for himself. Mr. McCallister is an OAC graduate, and is well and favorably known in this city.

Frederick Warde.

The idea that Corvallis is not big enough, nor able to make it worth while for the best attractions in the United States to appear here, prevails to a considerable extent, and has doubtless often prevented high-class entertainments being given here. In fact, this idea is shared by many Corvallisites themselves. However, when any one has shown the temerity to bring a high-class, expensive entertainment, Corvallis people have shown their appreciation in a substantial way. Rice's "Evangeline" and Kean's "Hamlet" were the most liberally patronized attractions that have ever visited Corvallis.

It was a matter upon which our people congratulated themselves that they had seen these plays at home and while some very excellent plays have been given at the opera house during recent times, yet nothing of so high an order has since been presented. To make it possible for an actor of National reputation to visit Corvallis, some one locally must assume more than an ordinary amount of labor and expense. Because it is not an easy matter to do this, it not infrequently happens that men of exceptional talent and wide reputation as actors pass Corvallis by.

Last week Mr. Fox, the representative of Mr. Frederick Warde, visited Corvallis to arrange, if possible, for his appearance here. The matter of the possibility of his coming, was brought to the attention of Mr. B. W. Johnson and Mr. E. E. Wilson, and these gentlemen appreciating Mr. Warde's national reputation as an artist, have undertaken the direction of his Corvallis engagement which occurs on April 13th.

The press and critics unite in acknowledging Mr. Warde to be the greatest actor of Shakespearean roles and the most profound student of Shakespeare's plays, in America. During his long career as an actor he has stood for the highest and best in his profession, and whether on or off the stage, has always been known as a cultured and refined gentleman. His personal reputation and popularity draws the people to hear him wherever he goes, and Corvallis people will certainly not prove exceptions.

While the Gazette does not wish to appear over enthusiastic in the matter, it feels that it is of such importance that it may be pardoned for urging Corvallis to make Mr. Warde's engagement here a brilliant success.

Affairs Looking Up.

Commissioner Frank Thompson, of Lincoln county, says that the people of that county are predicting splendid times there for the next few years, if not eternally. They have every confidence in the proposed railroad from Portland to Yaquina bay via the coast.

So certain do some of them feel that a construction crew will be at work on the building of this road before the passing of the summer season that some of them are figuring on planting large potato crops this year in order that they may feed the daoges.

Mr. Thompson believes there is a good future for an apple raiser in Lincoln county and predicts that many young orchards will be set out this season. He says that apples do exceedingly well in that country and are entirely free from worms.

There are more boats visiting Yaquina bay at present than for some years past and the indications are that much business will be transacted by coasting vessels during the coming year.

Lieut. Quinlan Relieved.

Among our townspeople those familiar with affairs at the college and knowing of the strained relations between the heads of that institution and Lieutenant Quinlan during the recent past, will readily grasp the significance of the following dispatch which was sent out from Washington, D. C., March 20.

Lieutenant Dennis P. Quinlan, Fifth Cavalry, has been relieved from duty at the Oregon Agricultural College "on the failure of the collegiate authorities to support him in his efforts to maintain discipline."

A Story With a Moral.

Not long ago an institution of a semi-public nature in a little Kansas town incurred considerable debt in erecting a building. To pay for it the directors of said institution were compelled to call upon the merchants of the community for assistance. The merchants responded liberally and several hundred dollars were raised from this source. The last man asked to subscribe was John Jones, a jeweler.

"I will give you $5 if you will let me add something to the subscription," he said. The permission being granted, he wrote at the foot of the list:

John Jones, Jeweler, $5.00. Sears, Roebuck & Co. $.00. Montgomery Ward & Co. $.00.

The people saw the point and the matter was given out and publicly aired and since the dedication of that building no mail orders have been sent out from that little Kansas town.

Can our people say the same?

Additional Local.

A fine line of spring hats on display at Mrs. J. Mason's.

Only 12 more days are left in which Benton voters may get their names on the register. Nearly 1,400 have already signed up, and the rest will have to get a move on if they wish to vote.

Wanted—Wood haulers, P. A. Kline.

Some fruit men are of the opinion that recent cold weather was a benefit in some ways to orchardists, as it is thought that San Jose scale, to a considerable extent, was killed by the cold "snap."

The Early Life and Manhood of Abraham Lincoln is soon to start in serial form in the Gazette. Here is something of unusual merit offered. If not now a subscriber you had better get your name on the list at once—you'll never regret it.

WILLIS C. HAWLEY FOR CONGRESS

There is no better nor more able man to be up for election this year than Mr. Hawley. He will serve to the best of his ability the people of the state and the country, and deserves the support of the people who desire to see any man represent us in Congress who will be a powerful factor in just legislation, to whom graft will make no appeal, to whom we can look for an upright and fearless protection of our laws and rights, a man who is no mere flowery, meaningless speaker, but a powerful, hard-working leader, prominent in committees and in open debate.—Cottage Grove Leader.

To The Public.

Dr. E. E. Jackson, our local veterinarian, I have known nearly four years and will say as a veterinarian his work is strictly up-to-date in every respect. Having known of his work when dairyman of the asylum farm, I highly recommend him to the people of this vicinity.
