AS TO THE PHILIPPINES.

Some very honest and estimable people are troubled by the defeat of the Philippine bill. Without referring at length to the relative claims on this country of the Filipinos and the farmers who are trying to add to our resources and wealth, as well as their own, by increasing the beet sugar and rice crops in their midst, or of the farmers who have already established the industries of tobacco and cane sugar growing, or the number of persons who support themselves and their families by making cigars, let us look at the position of those who, like the New York "Evening Post," for instance, are the protagonists of the mourners.

Recalling the events of eight years ago, we will remember on the 1st of May Admiral Dewey destroyed the Spanish fleet in Manila harbor. On the 13th of that month two German warships had arrived, and within about a month there were five in all; a more powerful fleet than Dewey's. Diederich, the German Admiral, remained in the harbor until after August 4, when the arrival of the Monterey made him inferior in force to our squadron, and although his insults did not entirely cease, they were no longer regarded with apprehension, and the greater part of his fleet sailed away.

There can be no reasonable doubt that Diederich was sent in the hope that in the interim between the discomfort of the Spanish and our ability to transport enough men to occupy Manila, Germany might seize it. If either Dewey had been a grafter, or less brave and judicious, Diederich had had more courage, the plan would have succeeded. This statement, of course, will be controverted, but at that time the anti-Imperialists were unorganized. When the question of the Ladrone came up they were organized, and we had to give all of them, excepting Guam, up to Germany, which at the same time secured the Caroline Islands, which naturally should have fallen to us.

It is not intended to claim that all of the anti-Imperialists were or are grafters. Some of them doubtless imagined what the newspapers they had for a long time read and trusted, told them they believed. On the other hand, many of them belong to what the "Saturday Review" calls the "pensioner class," incapable of contributing anything of value to the world's progress and "avaricious for the money they cannot earn. The cost of firing one 12-inch gun would retain the service of these.

These people have posed as the best friends of the Filipinos. They have continuously upheld Taft in his denunciations of Americans, his failure to develop highways, his sending all possible ship and other repairing to either Hong Kong or Japan, and in his active efforts to put the carrying trade in the hands of foreigners. They seem to have labored in every way to prevent commercial confidence on the part of Americans in the future of the Philippines and to keep the natives of those islands from obtaining that steady and remunerative employment in productive enterprises which is a prerequisite to their becoming good citizens. It is not asserted that we are grafters, but they are working to finish the job Diederich could not finish, a job for a country that keeps a strong lobby at Washington and seems to have established a nearly absolute ownership of those channels through which the best thought of our country is formed. This is not accomplished without the aid of graft.

The mourned for bill has not noticeably encountered opposition from either the tobacco or sugar trusts. As it carried a flat reduction on all sugar product duties, it would not have led to refining a pound of sugar in the Philippines for Eastern Asian markets. People who think they know the trade say that, like the Cuban treaty, it would have been of considerable use to the Sugar Trust, which would have captured about all of the reduction. No one can doubt that it would have retarded sugar and rice raising in this country, where the producer and consumer are close together, and would have interfered with the employments and profits of tobacco growing and cigar making. It would, apparently, have been a delusion to the Filipinos and an injury to us.

We might have endured these disadvantages with more complacency if the bill had provided for increasing our merchant marine by confining the reduced duty to goods brought in American vessels. But no. The friends of the Philippines are not built that way. They are even more unanimous in this desire to wipe the American flag off from the ocean than to hand the islands over to Germany. Do honest and estimable people admire this company?

A LITTLE RASCAL.

"Kiss the little rascal for me" is what J. D. Rockefeller is credited to have said when he learned of the birth of a grandson recently. If one stretches the old saw over one generation and makes it read, "Like grandfather, like son," it is more than probable that John D.'s words were prophetic when he referred to his heir as a "little rascal."

Although at present the babe by nature, circumstances and conditions, is innocent, we must not forget the law of heredity and the force of environment. If heredity and environment be not over-rated we may safely assume that Rockefeller III will some day be a "big rascal" or a rascal on a large scale. That is, provided nature kindly allows the infant the allotted three score and ten in which to operate in an already crowded and sin-touched world. If this time allowance be granted and Rockefeller III sees fit to carry on operations on the general plan of his grandsire, considering the fact that he will have about $500,000,000 to start with, it is a safe prediction that the future generation will see some very strenuous times.

There is to-day a crying need of a reformation in the treatment of the body. The basis of this reformation is to be found in the thesis of Dr. R. V. Pierce: "Diseases which originate in the stomach must be cured through the stomach."

In the forty odd years of Dr. Pierce's experience as chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute in Buffalo, N. Y., he has treated more than half a million people, with a record of ninety-eight cures in every hundred. The theory held by Dr. Pierce is that the stomach is the chief breeding place of disease, is abundantly borne out by the success of his treatment which is addressed primarily to the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition.

No other medicine acts so powerfully and as perfectly on the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Men and women afflicted with shortness of breath, heart disease, suffocation, dizziness, spots before the eyes, "liver pains," and similar ailments have been promptly and perfectly cured by the use of "Golden Medical Discovery."

Miss Lavilla Bonine, Curator Natural History Society, of 408 Lewiston Street, West Lansing, Mich., writes: "I suffered with chronic dyspepsia for nearly seven years, and this caused me to grow very thin and pale, at the same time my blood became poor and I was so nervous and unstrung that I was unable to attend to my daily duties. Heart and stomach were troubled with my digestion. I was also affected and suffered at the least excitement. I spent a lot of money doctoring and found no relief, until I took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It certainly is a wonderful medicine. It toned up my stomach and I began to have a splendid appetite and no trouble with my digestion. I began to pick up and get strong; soon new, rich blood flowed in my veins, and I once more felt the beauty and joy of life. I have now enjoyed perfect health for a year, thanks to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery."

Revival Meetings.

After a week of splendid meetings, the greatest day in the history of the opera house was Sunday. The morning service of the united churches was an inspiration that will not soon be forgotten. The churches were, as they have many a time sung, "One in hope and doctrine—one in charity." The meeting for men in the afternoon was the "largest" meeting for men held in the opera house, and it was a gathering of the strong and morally earnest men of the community. But the greatest service of all was the service in the evening, when seven hundred people gathered to hear Rev. Miller sing and preach the truth of God.

Sunday's services were at once a fitting close of the past week's work and at the same time they were filled with promise for the week they opened. These are great days for Corvallis; days of blessing and of spiritual benefit. May they still continue. "During this week there will be meetings in the opera house at 3:00 and at 7:30 as heretofore."

The meetings at 3 o'clock will be conducive to the deepening of the spiritual life. Mr. Miller will give special addresses on "Personal Work," "Soul Winning" and the most vital themes touching the life of the church. The evening services will be supported by the chorus choir, which has proved a great help and merits much praise for its work and faithfulness. Come prepared to bless and be blessed, to give and to receive, and above all to meet the heavenly Father.

FRED W. MULKEY.

Candidate for Republican Nomination
FOR UNITED STATES SENATOR
For the Short Term

Fred W. Mulkey was born in Portland, Oregon, and is a resident of his native city. He is a young man with every accomplishment which should qualify him for this high office. He is a graduate of the State University of Oregon, the New York Law School of New York City, and is a lawyer of high standing, a man who has traveled extensively in our own country as well as abroad. He has studied our institutions and compared them with foreign countries. He is a logical thinker, a forceful speaker and an adept parliamentarian. He has many friends, both rich and poor, for he is a courteous gentleman at all times.

He is a republican always. He has supported all the nominees of the republican ticket at all times. He is as loyal to his party as to his friends. He has confidence in the people and is willing to abide by their decision at the primary election.

Oregon needs such men as Fred W. Mulkey. The republican party needs such men, and the voters should see that such men are nominated and elected.

JONATHAN BOURNE, Jr.

Republican Candidate for United States Senator.

CHAMPION OF STATEMENT ONE.

Jonathan Bourne, Jr., candidate before the Republican primaries for the nomination of United States Senator in Congress, for the long term commencing March 4, 1907, was born in New Bedford, Mass., February 23, 1855; was a member of the class of 1877 at Harvard University; came to Portland May 16, 1878; was a Republican member of the Oregon Legislature in the session of 1885 and the extra session of 1886; was one of Oregon's delegates to the Republican National Convention of 1888 and Oregon's member of the Republican National Committee from 1888 to 1892, and a delegate to the Republican National Convention of 1892; and was elected as a Mitchell Republican to the Oregon Legislature in 1896.

Mr. Bourne has been more prominently identified with the development of the mineral resources of Oregon than any other man in the state, having expended in the last 20 years over $1,000,000 of his own money in the acquisition and development of Oregon mines.

While Mr. Bourne has had his residence and main office at Portland since 1878, he has had another office at New Bedford, Mass., and has carried on the business of his father's estate since 1889, which makes him familiar with many of the large interests and leading men in the East. These qualifications, in conjunction with his tremendous energy, originality, executive ability and experience in business and political affairs pre-eminently qualify him for making an able and influential Senator for the state of Oregon.

Mr. Bourne has always favored extending the direct power of the people over their government as far as possible. He was one of the leading spirits in the Initiative and Referendum movement from 1896 until it was approved by the voters at the June election in 1902. In 1904 he was a member of the executive committee of the Direct Primary Nominations League, and holds the same position with the People's Power League at this time. In all these movements he has been one of the few to guarantee the necessary expenses of preparing and proposing their measures to the people.

He says that the choice of United States Senator should be by direct vote of the people, and that the Legislature should be compelled to elect the man the people select. To accomplish this result, he is championing Statement No. 1 of the primary election law as the only method by which public opinion may be crystallized and made effective upon the Legislature.

In his petition for nomination he says:

"If I am nominated and elected I will, during my term of office, favor:

Republican Politics.

Amending National Constitution for People's Election of United States Senators.

Publicity Political Campaign Expenses.

National Control of Corporations in Interstate Commerce.

Rigid Exclusion of Asiatic Coolie Labor; Good Wages Make Good Citizens.

Legal Limitation Labor Hours for Safety on Railroads.
