HUNTING A SENATOR.

The conservative leaders of the democratic party appear to be greatly perturbed concerning the future of their party. Bryan dominated it for a long time, but Bryanism drove a large number of conservative democrats into the republican camp. Twice did Bryan lead the democratic column to defeat. Then, by a mighty effort a conservative, Judge Parker, was chosen to lead the party to victory. But so thoroughly had it been Bryanized and so widely discredited, and so popular was the republican nominee, that Mr. Parker went down in one of the most humiliating defeats ever suffered by the party.

Now W. R. Hearst looms large in the democratic horizon. Truly he "out Herods Herod". If the party could not endure Bryanism it is not possible that it can survive an acute attack of Hearstism.

These disturbed leaders clearly see that neither Bryan nor Hearst can lead the party to victory two years hence. But who can? They see no democrat North nor West who may do so, and now they turn to the South. Judge Parker has told the southern democrats that the time has come when they must again assume the leadership of the party if it is to be saved from utter destruction.

Why not? If the halcyon days of old the South gave the party leaders who led it to victory and it can and should do so now. For more than forty years the South has not given the party a leader, nor wielded great influence in its councils, wails the Judge.

It is true. For long the South gave the democratic party its most able leaders; but there came a time when the South had no issue that appealed to her, and her leaders stood before the nation discredited, dethroned. Instinctively, yet against the finer instinct of her best men, she has followed the democratic party in solid column. For forty years the South has been sitting amid the cold ashes of her dead past. In the mighty progress and development of the nation she has borne small part and reaped comparatively little benefit. The race problem rests upon her as a fearful incubus. Sometime she will solve that to her satisfaction. That done she will possibly be able to see that her solidarity for the democratic party is, and for many years has been highly detrimental to her progress. When she sees this and divides on party lines as the rest of the country does, she will share in the general progress; she will be heard again in the national councils and she will again give leaders to the political parties of the country. In the meanwhile who shall lead the democratic party in the next national contest? Of the two we believe Bryan a stronger and safer man than Hearst. It seems certain, however, that the conservative democrats of the North cannot be reconciled to the leadership of either. After all it is of no great moment who is selected to be the democratic standard bearer. There's little doubt the republican party will present a candidate who will satisfy conservative and patriotic men of all parties and a possibility he will write his name "Theodore Roosevelt."

GRAND JURY INVESTIGATES.

To convince the people of any community that they are sliding into perdition by damning them is an uphill proposition. There is little gained by attacking their character or that of their neighbors. We, who have lived here for many years are the better judges of conditions in Corvallis than any stranger can be, however observing the unknown may prove.

True religion is, or should be, charitable. If it be not this, then of what worth is it? We compare most favorably with any other town of our size from a moral standpoint, and yet, during the past week or two Rev. Miller, the evangelist, is credited with making some very strong accusations against some of our citizens. As a result of these charges the gentleman was summoned to appear before the grand jury last Monday. Whatever occurred at this time is, of course, unknown to us, but if he made the accusations credited him there will likely be some developments ere long, for the seriousness of the charges, if he substantiated them, was such that the grand jury could not overlook them.

FOR MUTUAL BENEFIT.

A Movement Looking to the Organization of a Promotion Board.

The recent visit of the party of excursionists from the state of Washington, headed by Governor Mead, to California, following as it did a similar excursion from Oregon headed by Governor Chamberlain, shows conclusively that the idea of a union of the Pacific States is nearer a consummation than many people suppose. It has been the idea of Mr. Rufus P. Jennings, chairman of the California Promotion Committee, for some years that an organization for the commercial and industrial co-operation of the six Pacific coast states and the territory of Arizona, formed on the lines of the Californian Promotion Committee, would tend to bring about broader development of the coast region, and a wider recognition commercially and politically of the wonderful resources of this part of the United States.

What has been accomplished by the California Promotion Committee for California in the way of publicity and development can be done even on a broader scale for the entire coast region if the six states and the territory of Arizona shall join hands in furtherance of this great work. Naturally the first requisite for such a union would be the complete organization of each state under the influence of a central organization, which central body would be represented in a body composed of representatives from each of the states of Washington, Oregon, California, Idaho, Nevada and Utah and the territory of Arizona.

What could be accomplished by such a combined effort on the part of all the interests involved on the Pacific slope is almost beyond computation. It will mean the greatest commercial and industrial power in the whole country; it would mean a political force that would compel recognition at the hands of the congress and of the government departments; it would mean the rebuilding of a part of the United States, the resources of which are beyond the comprehension of those who have never studied the political economy of the great western slope of the nation.

The California Promotion Committee, through its chairman, Mr. Rufus P. Jennings, is preparing for an active movement in the direction of such a combination. The trip of the Washingtonians, who traversed both the states of Oregon and California brings about a feeling of amity and community of interest. The party from Washington saw California from the northern line clear down to Los Angeles, being entertained at all points of interest in the state, and when the members returned to their homes they felt that there was a tie of kinship between their state and California. It is the fostering of this feeling that is the object of the present work of the California Promotion Committee along the lines of a Pacific States Union.

Charge to Jury.

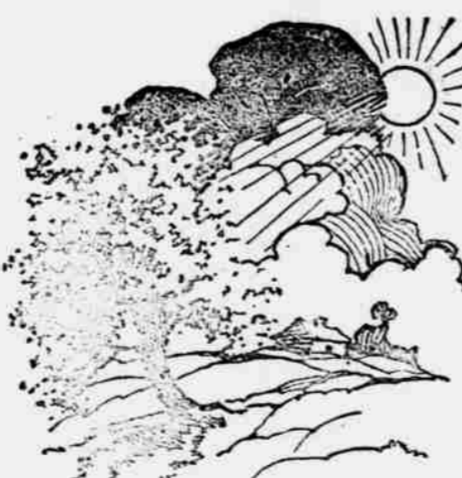

The instructions of Judge L. T. Harris to the jury in the case of James L. Lewis vs. Spencer Bicknell was of interest as it places a matter of law in a new light. In the minds of many of our citizens not versed in law it has been the presumption that it was criminal for a man to set a gun. This appears to have been a mistaken idea.

According to what we were informed, Judge Harris instructed the jury to the effect that while a man had no right to set a gun in the open on his own or any other persons place, he had a right under certain conditions to set one in his house. Without special privilege anyone entering the house would be guilty of trespass.

The case referred to occupied the court the greater part of three days. Mr. Lewis was represented by Attorneys W. S. McFadden and E. R. Bryson of this city, while the defendant retained Weatherford & Wyatt, of Albany, and J. F. Yates, of this city, to defend him. The case was a suit for damages as the result of a gunshot wound received by Mr. Lewis nearly a year ago when the latter, in the capacity of a real estate agent, was showing a prospective buyer the Bicknell farm. In showing the place Mr. Lewis decided to provide the prospective buyer an interior view of the house and in effecting an entrance the real estate dealer received a charge of shot from a gopher gun in his leg.

AFTER CLOUDS COMES SUNSHINE.
AFTER DESPONDENCY COMES JOY.
AFTER SICKNESS COMES HEALTH.
AFTER WEARINESS COMES STRENGTH.
Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is what does it all. It's a wonder worker for women because it is Nature's remedy, adapted to the needs of twentieth century women.
No ALCOHOL, NO NARCOTIC, NO INJURIOUS DRUG. Made of glyceric extracts from roots, therefore their virtues grew in them in Nature's laboratory. VIZ: Lady's Slipper root, Black Cohosh root, Unicorn root, Blue Cohosh root, and Golden Seal root; extracted, combined, preserved without alcohol, by Doctor Pierce's own peculiar process, and in the most exact proportions to secure the best effects.
If in need of careful, competent advice before beginning treatment, you will receive it without charge by writing, and stating your case, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y. All letters confidentially received and answers sent in securely sealed envelopes.
"I was a great sufferer for six years," writes Mrs. Geo. Sweden, of 61 Bond Street, Saginaw, Mich. "I commenced to take your 'Favorite Prescription' and have taken ten bottles in all. Am now regular, after having missed two years and suffered with pain in the head and back. I was so nervous, could not eat or sleep. Now I can thank you for my recovery."
Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic.

THE EASTERN VIEW.

A Letter From Washington, D. C., Which is of Interest, Politically is as Follows:

National attention is turning to Oregon's political contest, which is to be the advance guard of the next general election. This week Oregon was much discussed. The tariff revision sentiment of the East believes that the "standpatters" are hurting the republican party, and where not laboring with this conviction, and using the argument to coerce promise of some form of revision. Delay in enacting railway-rate legislation has been seized upon as another token of a squall. Philippine tariff bills, yet pending, with little promise of becoming law, are also seized upon as another discontent omen in the party.

With various arguments pro and con, a real interest is being generated. Oregon, being first, is first in point of interest, chronologically at least. Party leaders everywhere in the East are asking if there is prospect of Oregon turning. They grasp at everything of an intelligent stamp bearing on this question, republicans do not veil their uneasiness. They note that a democrat is governor, a democrat mayor of the principle city and a democrat has been appointed senator. If the democrat should be returned to the senate by popular vote, and one or two congressmen of the same faith were sent on, consternation would not indicate the feeling here. In view of these bare possibilities, republican leaders are eager to show wherein Oregon has everything to gain by keeping in the party ranks of the past. Pains are taken to show how Oregon, with a democratic delegation, would be placed in the ranks of the southern states which can accomplish nothing more in the national legislature than look after local affairs.

JONATHAN BOURNE, Jr.

Republican Candidate for United States Senator. CHAMPION OF STATEMENT ONE.

Jonathan Bourne, Jr., candidate before the Republican primaries for the nomination of United States Senator in Congress, for the long term commencing March 4, 1907, was born in New Bedford, Mass., February 23, 1855; was a member of the class of 1877 at Harvard University; came to Portland May 16, 1878; was a Republican member of the Oregon Legislature in the session of 1885 and the extra session of 1886; was one of Oregon's delegates to the Republican National Convention of 1888 and Oregon's member of the Republican National Committee from 1888 to 1892, and a delegate to the Republican National Convention of 1892; and was elected as a Mitchell Republican to the Oregon Legislature in 1896.

Mr. Bourne has been more prominently identified with the development of the mineral resources of Oregon than any other man in the state, having expended in the last 20 years over $1,000,000 of his own money in the acquisition and development of Oregon mines.

While Mr. Bourne has had his residence and main office at Portland since 1878, he has had another office at New Bedford, Mass., and has carried on the business of his father's estate since 1889, which makes him familiar with many of the large interests and leading men in the East. These qualifications, in conjunction with his tremendous energy, originality, executive ability and experience in business and political affairs pre-eminently qualify him for making an able and influential Senator for the state of Oregon.

Mr. Bourne has always favored extending the direct power of the people over their government as far as possible. He was one of the leading spirits in the Initiative and Referendum movement from 1896 until it was approved by the voters at the June election in 1902. In 1904 he was a member of the executive committee of the Direct Primary Nominations League, and holds the same position with the People's Power League at this time. In all these movements he has been one of the few to guarantee the necessary expenses of preparing and proposing their measures to the people.

He says that the choice of United States Senator should be by direct vote of the people, and that the Legislature should be compelled to elect the man the people select. To accomplish this result, he is championing Statement No. 1 of the primary election law as the only method by which public opinion may be crystallized and made effective upon the Legislature.

In his petition for nomination he says:

"If I am nominated and elected I will, during my term of office, favor:

- Republican Politics.
- Amending National Constitution for People's Election of United States Senators.
- Publicity Political Campaign Expenses.
- National Control of Corporations in Interstate Commerce.
- Rigid Exclusion of Asiatic Coolie Labor; Good Wages Make Good Citizens.
- Legal Limitation Labor Hours for Safety on Railroads.
- Parcels Post, Including Rural Delivery.
- Pure Food Laws.
- Liberal Appropriations for Panama Canal, Coast Defenses, River and Harbor Improvements, Including Columbia and Willamette Rivers, Coos, Yaquina and Other Oregon Harbors, Celilo Canal, Government Canal at Oregon City.
- Fair Share of Irrigation Fund for Oregon.
- Loyal Support of Successful Candidates.
- Rigid Enforcement of Statement One.
- Roosevelt for Second Elective Term.

I desire the following statement be printed after my name on the nominating ballot:

I WILL SUPPORT PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S DETERMINATION THAT JUSTICE BE DONE ALL MEN."
