CREFFIELD AGAIN.

Strange as it may seem, Creffield is again at the head of a little colony of his adherents and the fact that a camp is to be located somewhere near Waldport, in Lincoln county, is pretty generally known. That there are those who would be led astray a second time by such a dirty rascal is, alas! too true.

To a person of sane judgment it seems strange, in fact, it passeth human understanding, that such a creature as Creffield could have secured a following in the first place. To again establish his practices after having served a term in the state penitentiary would seem doubly impossible. Yet such is the case. Adultery landed Creffield behind prison bars and, shameful as it maybe, adultery and Holly Rollerism seem inseparable.

One would think that with many, if not all of the followers of "Joshua" Creffield the First in the insane asylum and Creffield himself in the penitentiary, would have cured all of their fanaticism. One by one all who were sent to the asylum were discharged and sent to their homes—supposedly cured. Later liberty was granted Creffield. Are the same conditions to again prevail? the same scenes be enacted? and the same remedies applied? What can be done with or for a people who are so weak as to follow the damnable teachings and practices of a man like Creffield? We give it up.

What steps the Lincoln county authorities will take in the matter is not known. If we misjudge them not they will act promptly, now that they know the results of Holy Rollerism, and use every means within their power to protect their people from pollution by Creffield.

BE NOT MISLED.

There seems to be some dissatisfaction in certain democratic circles about the republican nominees for election. We are sorry to see an accusation made of "jobbery" and "combine" and emphatically deny that any such statement is founded in fact.

All men who took a prominent part in the recent primary election we believe to be men of honor, be they republicans or democrats, and feel assured that the primaries were conducted on honorable lines.

It is an unfortunate thing that every candidate cannot be nominated and later elected, but the fates decree against it. We sincerely hope that all may look at the matter philosophically and accept conditions as they really are and not be affected by the imaginings of those whose interests it would be to start a strife.

Did You Ever!

The West is a great country in more ways than one. Here are creations of nature on a grand scale and things unique are too numerous to mention. But we are not so wild as Eastern people are fain to believe. Some very amusing absurdities are bruited absurd and often find space in the newspapers. In witness whereof peruse the following from the Linn City Item, of Linn, Mass., April 13:

It will surprise a great many people to learn that in Douglas county, Oregon, all horses have become a nuisance, and that a bunch of 18,000 of the animals is to be rounded up this month and killed for their hides. In our school boy days we used to read in the geographies of that period of the pampas of South America where large herds of wild horses roamed the plains, and their hides, tallow and flesh formed the principal articles of support to the half-breed Guachos who inhabited the region. Wild horses were also found on the plains of our great West, and the broncho and the Indian pony are descendants of those herds. It is news that they are still roaming the plains as far north as Oregon, and also that their only value is that put upon them by the South American Guachos. They are not worth the trouble of domesticating, it seems, and so cowboys have been secured to round up the heard and do the slaughtering. Better look out that the beef trust does not take a hand in the work of destruction and secure the business of distributing the remains.

A Real Man.

Stephen A. Lowell, of Pendleton, Or., was given a splendid vote in this county for senatorial nomination on the republican ticket. His many ardent supporters will be pleased to know that he is not "sulking in his tent," and they should bear in mind that the day will come when the people of Oregon will beckon to Mr. Lowell that he may come forth. In order that his many friends may know how philosophically he is viewing the situation we publish the following letter sent to R. C. Wills, of this city:

April 23, 1906.
Robert Wills,
Corvallis, Oregon.

Dear Sir—The result of the primary election indicates the nomination of Mr. Cake, of Portland, to the senatorship, and I beg to express my thanks to friends in the various counties for their kind offices in my behalf and to say that I trust some time in the future to be able to reciprocate.

It has been apparent for the last ten days that the contest was between Mr. Cake and myself for the anti-Bourne vote, the sentiment over the state manifesting a willingness on the part of the electorate to support either man most likely to receive the support necessary to accomplish Mr. Bourne's defeat, and naturally at the last moment the balances turned in favor of the Multnomah man because of the expectation that location would give him the support of the City of Portland in a large degree. I am sure that Mr. Cake will make an efficient senator and I believe he is entitled to the support of all republicans.

With thanks for many courtesies, and with assurances of personal regard, I am,
Yours truly,
Stephen A. Lowell

At Oakland Letter.

Ralph Pruett, of this city, received a letter Tuesday, from his parents, who reside in Oakland and were in the earthquake recently. They stated that nearly all the plastering was shaken off their house, almost every dish they possessed was smashed, the clock was hurled into the middle of the floor and broken, all the plumbing was twisted and put out of working order, and a general smashing up was experienced by all. The letter says that every church, city hall and public building has been converted into shelters for the refugees who are flooding the city, and that no church services were held in Oakland the Sunday before the epistle was written. The noise of the earthquake is described as similar to an express train crossing a bridge, only that it was much more terrific and terrible. While the usual population of Oakland is 100,000 the letter to Mr. Pruett says that the present population is 250,000 giving some idea of the congested condition that exists in towns within reach of San Francisco.

No Pacific Coast Panic.

In certain quarters there is discussion as to the effect which the San Francisco disaster will have upon the financial conditions on the Pacific Coast. It is even thought by some that there is danger of disruption of Pacific Coast business, affecting all Pacific Coast cities, amounting, in fact to at least a mild form of financial panic. This apprehension is unfounded. It

We can't directly influence the opinions of people about your words, your acts or your companions but we can make them speak well of your clothes.

Remember we are going out of the Ready to Wear clothing - Every suit in the house a bargain.

It is true that San Francisco is the financial distributing center for the Pacific Coast, and it is true that for the time being San Francisco's financial activities are prostrate and ineffective. It is true that some time will elapse before normal conditions will be resumed in the Bay City. But there is assurance of aid financially from outside sources, supplementing favorable conditions, in which many of San Francisco's business houses find themselves, which will avoid all possibility of financial distress to this section.

In other words, we can say there will be no financial panic in San Francisco. San Francisco's distress will not breed panic on the Pacific Coast. This is apparent from many well-grounded reasons. In the first place, the Government has assumed a substantial assistance to San Francisco banks, of which the latter will avail themselves as soon as they are in a position to resume business. Thus the San Francisco banks will do when their vaults are closed and the debris is cleared away and quarters are provided for their accommodation.

Again, there are many San Francisco business houses which have suffered serious loss, but are yet solvent and ready to take up their wonted line of activity as soon as conditions will permit. The fact is that the majority of business concerns in San Francisco are solvent. This is especially true of the greater financial institutions, almost without exception, and the exceptions will not effect the general result.

It will make no difference if Eastern financial centers refuse for the time being, to grant San Francisco business houses the credit to which they are entitled under normal conditions. The business energy of these houses themselves, the loyalty and resourcefulness of the Pacific Coast and the marvelous recuperative energy of the San Francisco people will save the day against panic.

Additional Local.

Mrs. E. M. Simpson, who went to San Francisco a week ago to try and ascertain how her people fared in the great disaster, has written her husband in this city that she found them all well, but homeless—nothing left from the ruins.

A quiet wedding occurred Wednesday evening, in this city at the residence of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Chappell. The contracting parties were Bernard Chappell and Miss Grace Starr and Rev. Hurd was the officiating clergyman. The groom is a well known young farmer from Leavenworth and his bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Starr. Both are estimable young people and start out in life with the best wishes of a host of friends.

Rehearsals of a play entitled "A Belated Introduction" are under way. Can She Save Them?

Many a poor mother who feels that those she holds most precious are gradually slipping away from her over the terrible precipice of disease, would be thankful to know what Doctor Pierce's wonderful "Golden Medical Discovery" has done to restore thousands of weak and wasted children to complete rounded, rosy, healthy, activity and life.

"Five years ago last fall I was taken down with a fever and was very bad for several months," writes Mrs. Henrietta Bell, of Diamond, Ohio. She continues: "Finally recovered from the fever, then my lungs became very bad. The doctor said I had consumption, and that he had done all he could for me, and he did not think that I could get well. My case was a very dangerous one. Became very weak, had night-sweats, also a very bad cough, night and day. At times would spit blood. I felt as though my time on earth would be short. Requested my husband to get me a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and perhaps it would help me. Before I had taken one bottle my cough was almost gone. The next to disappear were the night-sweats. I am almost sure that if it had not been for your medicine I would not have been here to-day."

If mothers will only write to Dr. Pierce concerning the ailments of their family he will send them sound and valuable advice in a plain sealed envelope, and without any charge whatever. His remarkably wide experience has qualified him to deal with diseases which baffle the local practitioner. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

The Young Physician.

WHAT HIS EXPERIENCE PROVED.

In the early sixties it was usually the duty of a practicing physician to ride many miles every day on his regular round of visits upon his patients. In those days a young man who had received a splendid medical training in one of the best medical colleges of that day was accustomed to ride ten, twenty, thirty miles or more visiting the sick and afflicted. His success was soon phenomenal. Doctors and families called him for consultation to towns at considerable distances by rail. His specialty was the cure of those common and distressing diseases of women. He had early discovered that by combining the extracts of the following medicinal plants, in just the right proportion, without the use of alcohol his "Prescription" almost invariably cured such cases. Later, in order to place this remedy before the public in a shape easily to be procured, he established a laboratory at Buffalo, N. Y., where regularly qualified chemists were put in charge to accurately prepare his "Prescription" and put it in shape for shipment to all parts of the world. This remedy, which he named Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is not a "patent medicine" but a tonic and nervine for women, and a regular physician's prescription, and contains the following ingredients: Lady's Slipper root, Black

Cohosh root, Unicorn root, Blue Cohosh root, Golden Seal root, and chemically pure glycerine.

Dr. Pierce does not claim for his "Favorite Prescription" that it is a "cure-all." It is recommended as a most perfect specific for woman's peculiar ailments. So uniform are the results which follow the use of this remarkable remedy, that it can be truly affirmed of "Favorite Prescription" that it cures, helps or almost always cures. Ninety-eight per cent. of the women who give this medicine a fair and faithful trial are cured and remain cured.

It is a powerful invigorating tonic, imparting health and strength in particular to the womb and its appendages. The local, womanly health is so intimately related to the general health that when diseases of the delicate womanly organs are cured the whole body gains in health and strength. For weak and sickly women who are "worn-out," "run-down" or debilitated, especially for women who work in store, office or schoolroom, who sit at the typewriter or sewing machine, or bear heavy household burdens, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will prove a priceless benefit because of its health-restoring and strength-giving power.

THE PROOF.
"I want to tell you of the great improvement in my health, since taking your 'Favorite Prescription' that it is a most perfect specific for woman's peculiar ailments. So uniform are the results which follow the use of this remarkable remedy, that it can be truly affirmed of 'Favorite Prescription' that it cures, helps or almost always cures. Ninety-eight per cent. of the women who give this medicine a fair and faithful trial are cured and remain cured."
