POLITICAL PILFERING.

It may be admitted without serious questioning, that under our form of government two political parties are most desirable. Especially is this true when fundamental political principles upon which wise patriotic men may differ are before the people for adoption or rejection.

Where there is only a difference of opinion concerning policies of men holding to the same principles, two parties are not at all necessary. When the principles held by one party have been thoroughly tested through the years and proved to be peculiarly well fitted to our form of government, and when the administrative policies of such party have been likewise tested and approved there is no vital need for another party.

The reason for this is that the mass of the people are so perfectly served and satisfied with the principles and policies of the one party that they have no use for another party. The one party has so completely occupied the field that there is neither need nor room for another party.

If another party exists at all it is forced to become simply a party of obstruction and negation.

For years these have been the characteristics of the democratic party. It has held to no principles, advocated no policies that the people have desired. For so long has this been true that the party is now popularly regarded as one having no distinctive principles nor policies,—nothing of the sort which it may justly claim as its very own.

Of the truth of this we find abundant evidence given by democratic leaders in congress. Time and again we hear them advocating certain republican principles and policies and excusing themselves by declaring these to be democratic principles and policies instead of republican. Indeed, it has become quite a democratic fad "to stand with President Roosevelt" on almost every political question.

But who is President Roosevelt? Oh, he is the republican president of the United States. He was nominated by his party and elected by the people because he is an honest, fearless and earnest adherent to and exponent of things distinctly republican. He represents what the people want. Not since Abraham Lincoln have the people had a president in whom they have seen republicanism so completely exemplified. He a democrat? Not for a moment.

Why do not democrats "stand with" some of their own presidents, as Buchanan, or Cleveland? Or they might stand with some of their leaders, as Bryan or Parker.

Of truth we are gratified to find democrats standing with our president. He truly deserves well of all patriotic citizens for he is an earnest republican, but when we are invited to support a democrat for office—for governor, for instance, because "he stands with the president" we must decline. Republicans have a candidate of their own, a life-long republican, an earnest believer in republican doctrines. They will unanimously support Dr. James Withcombe.

It is not at all probable that Governor Chamberlain "would steal the livery of heaven to serve the devil in," but it is not so plain that he does not pilfer republican principles to serve Geo. E. Chamberlain and his party.

HOW HE SUPPORTS.

The railway rate bill was before the senate last Friday. Many amendments were voted on and defeated. The Allison amendment then came up. Our Senator Fulton is, in fact, the author of the most important provision of this amendment. It satisfies the friends of the bill; it is satisfactory to President Roosevelt, and it is accepted in good faith by those republican senators who have been opposing the bill. It follows that all the republican senators vote for the amendment and that the bill will be passed without depending on democratic votes. So long as it seemed this could not be done certain democratic senators voted for the bill, and swore to the people they stood with the president. "Of course," they said, "the republican party will not give the people this bill, but we will stand by the president and his friends in the senate and we will pass the bill." Our accidental senator, Mr. Gearin, loudly proclaimed he would stand with the president. Indeed, that was the chief reason why our democratic governor appointed John M. Gearin to the senate—because he would stand by the president, and a republican might not.

When the republicans in the senate lined up for the bill John M. Gearin, democratic senator, appointed by George E. Chamberlain, democratic governor of the republican state of Oregon, voted with his party against the bill—the bill the president desires passed.

"Can the leopard change his spots, or the Ethiopian his skin?"

Just as soon expect a democrat to support any republican measure.

The qualifications of T. T. Vincent, republican nominee for the office of county clerk, are so well known that it is scarcely necessary to call attention to them.

Republicans are under obligations to support the whole ticket, and when casting their ballot, June 4th, they should remember S. H. Horton.

Dr. James Withcombe, republican candidate for governor, spoke at Albany Saturday night. His itinerary from yesterday until election is as follows: The Dalles, May 14; Heppner, May 15; Pendleton, May 16; La Grande, May 17; Sumpter (afternoon), May 18; Baker City, May 18; Weston (afternoon), May 19; Athena, May 19; Eugene, May 21; Roseburg, May 25; Grants Pass, May 26; Hillsboro, May 28; Dallas, May 29; Newberg, May 30; Astoria, May 31; Portland, June 1 and 2. Dates will be arranged for Coos Bay towns between May 21 and 25.

Clap-Trap Punctured.

Editor Gazette: In its laudation of Gov. Chamberlain, the Roseburg Review says: "He has made the Oregon Soldiers' Home a real home for the old veterans in their declining years, and not an institution of erstwhile legitimate prey for political grafters. He personally caused the furnishing and opening for occupancy the new barracks at the home, thereby providing comfortable quarters for about fifty needy veterans who were on the waiting list for lack of room wherein to give them the care and comforts of life."

The facts are that as far back as Governor Lord's administration the lack of room at the home was recognized and influences were set to work for its enlargement. The earnest women of the Woman's Relief Corps, auxiliary to the G. A. R., took up the work, and ceased not their labors until the necessary room was provided.

They advocated the erection of cottages there, and such legislation as might be necessary to enable the old veteran having a wife to have her with him so that their companionship might not be broken. To accomplish this the women of the Corps worked intelligently and persistently until they secured the passage of an act in 1905 making the necessary provisions and appropriation of money.

This act made Geo. E. Chamberlain, who was then governor, a special commissioner, and he, with the advice and upon the suggestion of T. E. Hills, Department Commander of the G. A. R., and Mrs. Jennie B. Harding, Department President of W. R. C., formulated the rules for the admission of the soldiers' wives to the Home.

The women continued their efforts, and by various means raised money and furnished the cottages more comfortably than was possible with the state funds available.

That is rather cheap and contemptible political clap-trap which seeks to appropriate the credit and honor that justly belong to a body of unselfish, patriotic women.

Eminent Doctors Praise its Ingredients.

We refer to that boon to weak, nervous, suffering women known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Dr. John Fyfe one of the Editorial Staff of The Eclectic Medical Review says of Unicorn root (Helonias divora) which is one of the chief ingredients of the "Favorite Prescription":

"A remedy which invariably acts as a uterine invigorator and makes for normal activity of the entire reproductive system." He continues "in Helonias we have a medicinal which more fully answers the above purposes than any other drug with which I am acquainted. In the treatment of diseases peculiar to women I seldom forget a case in which does not present some indication for this remedial agent." Dr. Fyfe further says: "The following are among the leading indications for Helonias (Unicorn root). Pain on sitting in the back, with leucorrhoea; atonic (weak) conditions of the reproductive organs of women, mental depression and irritability, associated with chronic diseases of the reproductive organs of women, constant sensation of heat in the region of the kidneys; menorrhagia (flooding), due to a weakened condition of the reproductive system; amenorrhoea (suppressed or absent monthly periods), arising from or accompanying an abnormal condition of the digestive organs and anaemic (thin blood) habit; dragging sensations in the extreme lower part of the abdomen."

If more or less of the above symptoms are present, no invalid woman can do better than take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, one of the leading ingredients of which is Unicorn root, or Helonias, and the medicinal properties of which it most faithfully represents.

Of Golden Seal root, another prominent ingredient of "Favorite Prescription," Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago, says:

"It is an important remedy in disorders of the womb. In all catarrhal conditions and general enfeeblement, it is useful."

Prof. Bartholow, M. D., of Jefferson Medical College, says of Golden Seal:

"Valuable in uterine hemorrhage, menorrhagia (flooding) and congestive dysmenorrhoea (painful menstruation)."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription faithfully represents all the above named ingredients and cures the diseases for which they are recommended.
