

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

A. L. Richardson of Blodgett was Corvallis visitor Friday.

Mrs. Victor Moses is just recovering from a week's serious illness.

Gordon Rosendorf left Friday or Independence to spend the summer.

L. L. Ward arrived from Pendleton, Saturday, for a visit with friends.

Mrs. T. W. Dilley and son Dean departed Thursday night to join Mr. Dilley in California.

Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Horton left Sunday for Eastern Oregon and Idaho, for an extended visit with relatives.

Miss Marian Chapell and sister, Mrs. Mae Stoddard, left Saturday for a few days visit at their ranch home near Inavale.

Hon. W. C. Hawley arrived from Salem Saturday and went to his mother's home near Bellefountain to spend a few days.

Percy Sootheran came out from the coast, Saturday, and will visit for a couple of weeks at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Starr, near Bellefountain.

The ladies' Whist club held its last meeting for the season at the Mrs. Jacobs home Thursday afternoon. The rooms were beautifully decorated with roses, and a dainty luncheon was enjoyed.

Misses Olive and Mary Thompson came out from the coast, Friday, and went on to Portland the same afternoon, taking with them their mother, Mrs. Agnes Thompson.

Miss Grace Gatch gave a very delightful "afternoon" Friday, to about 20 lady friends, principally those on college hill. Light refreshments were served, and happy conversation caused the hours to pass all too swiftly.

Marshall Miller shipped two carloads of cascara bark Thursday, one to New York and the other to Philadelphia, both going to Gugenheimer & Co. The bark has been stored with Mr. Miller and the shipment was made for the holders. The bark is worth three cents per pound in the local market.

R. C. Johnson, a brother of Mrs. J. H. Harris, arrived in this city Saturday from San Francisco. He and his family lost all their household goods and clothing in the recent earth quake. They will visit for a time in this city with relatives. Mr. Johnson is a well known newspaper man, formerly of Portland.

John Goose met with what might easily have proven a serious or fatal accident, Friday afternoon. While hauling logs up a hill Mr. Goose fell from the wagon, one wheel passing over his head. His neck was considerably hurt and numerous minor injuries sustained, a local physician being summoned to attend him.

The rates of the new water company have finally been determined upon, and are the same as those of the old water company, for household purposes. The rate per month without bath or toilet, is $1.00. If there be a toilet there is an extra charge of 50 cents, and 25 cents for bath is added. Lawn sprinkling will be, for the season, $3 to $5, according to the number of lots sprinkled.

Eugene Shelby, formerly agent and superintendent at Portland of the Wells, Fargo & Co., has been promoted to the office of superintendent of the western division, with headquarters at San Francisco. Several handsome presents were bestowed on Mr. Shelby by friends and business associates when his good luck became known. Mr. Shelby is the father of Misses Eugenia and Mary Shelby of the local Wells, Fargo office.

The streets present a deserted appearance the past few days, since the sun has been shining and the farmers are busy with their haying. Several fields of clover have been cut near town, the yield being splendid, and the task of cutting early hay, volunteer stuff and clover is now on in full blast. While the wet weather was feared by all, it has been discovered that but little harm has resulted, the heavy vetch having fallen to some extent, rendering it difficult to mow.

According to the Albany Democrat, Paul B. Johnson, editor of the Argus, has departed for greener fields, without a fond farewell to friends or family. He is credited with having cashed bogus checks and to have secured $200 on a note endorsed in his mother-in-law's name, without her knowledge. A wife and two children are deserted. Mr. Johnson is the man who was in Corvallis a few weeks before election, seeking data to use against local option in Linn county, this being the chief object, it appeared, of the Argus.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Herron of Irish Bend were Corvallis visitors Friday.

Wilbur Starr and family returned Saturday from a two week's visit at Newport.

George Cooper was quite ill the last of the week, and was unable to run his dray.

Born, Thursday morning, to Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Young of Job's addition, a daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Waltz of Bellefountain were pleasant visitors in Corvallis, Saturday.

Miss Ama Holmes has gone to Washington where she is to study medicine with a relative.

Mrs. Harvey Albright has arrived from Portland for a visit with old friends and neighbors.

Adam Wilhelm, Sr., was a Corvallis visitor the last of the week, returning home to Monroe Friday.

Miss Mary Miller of Monroe returned home yesterday after a few days' visit with Miss Kate Gerhard.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Moore left Saturday morning for a two months' visit with relatives at their old home in Illinois.

She — at the telephone: "Hello! Have you any long white gloves?" He—"Good Lord, no; this is the livery stable."

Mrs. Rusk, who for the past year has occupied the Hogg house on college hill, left Friday for Portland to reside.

Mrs. Robert Miller of Summit was in Corvallis, Friday, on her way to visit Mr. and Mrs. John B. Hill near this city.

Ben Scott, a Corvallis boy who is kindly remembered by many people here, is to be married this week to a young lady of La Grande.

B. J. Hecker of Albany was in Corvallis Thursday and left Friday for Asea, to spend two weeks in search of cattle to purchase.

Meigs Bartmess, a graduate of OAC, who graduated as an electrical engineer this month from Purdue university, is to go to Pittsburg at once to accept a position.

J. L. Underwood and Archie Blackburn expect to leave this week for the Bohemia mines, where a month will be spent. Mr. Underwood has mining interests in the Bohemia district.

A crowd of Corvallis young people went from this city to Albany Thursday evening in a row boat, returning on the train at 8:30. Perhaps a better time has not been enjoyed by any crowd this season.

Mrs. Fred Ingle of Woodburn is a guest at the J. W. Ingle home in this city, where she will remain until after the Fourth. Mr. Ingle cut his hand severely on broken glass, and while disabled is taking a vacation up the Columbia.

Friday was a "wooly" day in Corvallis. No less than 10,000 pounds of wool came to town that day and this week is expected to clean up the county, only two or three lots now remaining unsold. The price Friday was 23 cents per pound.

Miss Agnes Wilson leaves a week from today for Portland, to join the party of young ladies who will leave on the 6th or 7th of July for the Yellowstone National Park, as guests of the Oregonian. Miss Wilson is worthy of the honor she has won, and every person in Corvallis wishes her a safe and happy trip.

The announcement of the proposed excursion to be given by the Rebekahs and Odd Fellows to the Front and return on July 4th has been very favorably received in this city, and many are already planning to attend. There is no doubt but that everyone who goes will have a day of rest and pleasure in the cool, beautiful mountain resort known as Detroit, or the Front.

The United Evangelical annual Bible conference and camp meeting began at Dallas the last of the week, and will continue for ten days or more. Friday, Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Miner and Mrs. William Ross went to Dallas to camp and attend the meetings, and this week Rev. Hurd and family and Mrs. Ada Elliott are to go, the former to visit Portland also before their return.

Captain Crawford arrived home Friday from the G. A. R. encampment at Grants Pass. Levi Oren, the other delegate from the local Post, reached home Saturday. The Captain reports a splendid time and states that the entertainment provided for the old soldiers in the city of Grants Pass was superb, and every thing possible was done to enable them to enjoy the event. It is estimated that 250 old veterans were present. The effort made to secure next year's encampment for Corvallis proved futile, the coveted honor going to Newberg.

Neil Murray of Albany was a Corvallis visitor Saturday.

This does not seem to have been much of a season for small fruit.

Roy Hollenberg returned Saturday evening from a trip to Portland.

Miss Kate Gerhard went to Albany yesterday to remain a week or two with friends.

Mrs. A. K. LaGrande of Blodgett left Saturday for home, after a week's business visit in Corvallis.

Ninety barrels of flour is a pretty good order for a bakery in this city. Yet this is the size of one just received at Small's.

The date of the annual Iowa picnic has not yet been set, but the event will, it is supposed, occur some time in July, probably about the middle.

Many of our young men visited the "old swimming hole," Sunday, and while the water was a trifle cool those who took the plunge report that they enjoyed it.

Mrs. Charles Everett and children are to leave in a few days for Portland, where Mr. Everett is employed on the electric cars. The family will reside at Woodlawn.

Mrs. G. Lester Paul, who has been in Corvallis for the past month, expected to return to Portland yesterday. Her husband is professor of education in an educational institution in the metropolis.

Mrs. W. G. Emery and son, Cecil, went to Portland yesterday to remain. Within the course of a couple of weeks Mr. Emery will have closed out his business in this city and the family will all be together again in a new field.

Ernest Bryant, bookkeeper at the First National bank, is taking a much-needed and highly enjoyable vacation of two weeks' duration. He is spending his time working in the Strong lumber yard, a vacation idea which is surely original with the genial bank employe.

The city hall is receiving a general overhauling and repairing that will add materially to its beauty and comfort. Painting of the interior is now in progress, William Paul being the workman, and kalomining is also to be done. The Coffee Club will put up new curtains and draperies, which will greatly modernize the appearance of the hall.

Grain in various parts of Benton is said to be immense, an old resident declaring that he has not seen the like of it in 25 years. Hundreds of acres of splendid vetch, none of which, according to this man's statement, appears to be down, and acres upon acres of spring and fall grain in fine condition, holds the promise of an abundant harvest for Benton this year.

A hay rack party was given Saturday evening by Miss Alice Jones in honor of Miss Bess Yates who is visiting in this city. The destination was Wells, where a delicious lunch was served, and much enjoyed. There were 18 in the party and there is no use in attempting to tell what a good time every one had. The party reached home in time for breakfast.

Frank Seits was out from his Five Rivers farm during the latter part of the week. A daughter came up from Southern Oregon and he met her in Corvallis and she accompanied him home. On the way out Frank came over the Asea Mountain, but returned by what is known as the "South road," as he said the road he came out was still a trifle heavy.

The big pioneer picnic at Brownsville, was an enjoyable and successful affair according to the statement of Joseph Yates, who returned from there the last of the week. About 7000 people were present, prominent men from all over the state among the number. Noticeable among the pioneers was James B. Akesley, who laid out the town site of Brownsville in 1853. "Uncle Jimmy" will be 94 years old next September, if he lives to see that date. Thursday, the day Mr. Yates was at the picnic, there were short speeches by the pioneers, their children and grand children, a sumptuous dinner, and speeches in the afternoon and evening by Col. E. Hofer and Mr. U'Ren, well known Oregon parties.
