FOR KILLING DEER.

Paid A Fine to Deputy Game Wardens, in Alsea.

Deputy Game Warden J. D. Wells was over in Alsea valley last week and the story is that he got in some lively detective work in his line. As reported the tale goes like this:

I. H. King, a prominent Portland real estate man, and Mr. Wann and two sons of Salem, were among the campers in the valley last week. Besides Deputy Wells, there was another game warden named Chamberlain, from Eugene, in the same vicinity. For some reason the officers suspected that King and the Wanns were dining on venison in defiance of the law, and the game wardens watched for an opportunity and swooped down upon the camp one evening, finding, as they suspected, a fine, dressed deer hung up near the tent.

An arrest of Mr. King followed but he put up $25 bail and promised to appear in Waldport next day to stand trial.

On the following day Mr. Wells and Mr. Chamberlain were in Waldport and while waiting for Mr. King to appear, the Wann boys were confronted with the situation and plead guilty to the charge of killing the deer, paid the fine of $25 and $1.50 justice fees and the case was settled.

At this juncture, however, Mr. King arrived and when informed as to the plea of "guilty" that had been entered, was highly indignant and proposed to stand trial in spite of all. When informed by the game wardens, however, that he would then be arrested for having had the deer in his possession, and that another fine of $25 would have to be paid by him, he decided to let the matter drop. Thus, the crowd got off for $26.50, and the chances are that the lesson to them will be well worth the price. One of the Wann boys attended OAC last year.

About Poor Farm.

Following is an interesting item of business transacted by the county court at its last session:

Now at this time came on regularly to be heard and considered the matter of a tract of land purchased by Benton County on May 21, 1906, described as Claim No. 45, T. 12 S., R. 5 W., in Benton County, Oregon, containing 160 acres and for a consideration of $5,400, as shown by the records on page 215, book No. 45, Record of Deeds for Benton County, Oregon, and said to have been purchased by the County as a place on which to keep our county poor. On July 11, 1906, the present county court went out to said farm and made personal examination of the land and its buildings, and among other things, to consider its adaptability to the purpose for which it was intended when purchased.

Now, having fully considered this matter, this court does not consider it advisable or for the best interests of Benton County to expend of the county funds an additional amount necessary to erect suitable buildings and make such other improvements as would be necessary to prepare the place for a comfortable home for our county charges. The court further considers that a small tract of good land suitable for gardening as better adapted to this purpose. Therefore, it is ordered that the County Judge be, and he is hereby authorized to receive offers to purchase or to rent said farm and to report the same to this court at its next regular term.

The Best Guaranty of Merit Is Open Publicity.

Every bottle of Dr. Pierce's world-famed medicines leaving the great laboratory at Buffalo, N. Y., has printed upon its wrapper all the ingredients entering into its composition. This fact alone places Dr. Pierce's Family Medicines in a class all by themselves. They cannot be classed with patent or secret medicines because they are neither. This is why so many unprejudiced physicians prescribe them and recommend them to their patients. They know what they are composed of, and that the ingredients are those endorsed by the most eminent medical authorities.

The further fact that neither Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the great stomach tonic, liver invigorator, heart regulator and blood purifier, nor his "Favorite Prescription" for weak, overworked, broken-down, nervous women, contains any alcohol, also entitles them to a place all by themselves. Many years ago, Dr. Pierce discovered that chemically pure glycerine, of proper strength, is a better solvent and preservative of the medicinal principles residing in our indigenous, or native, medicinal plants than is alcohol; and, furthermore, that it possesses valuable medicinal properties of its own, being demulcent, nutritive, antiseptic, and a most efficient antiferment.

Neither of the above medicines contains alcohol, or any harmful habit-forming drug, as will be seen from a glance at the formula printed on each bottle wrapper. They are safe to use and potent to cure.
