The Corvallis lady whose skill was stolen by the gang of young toughs about town, mention of which has appeared in this paper, has recovered her property at last. It seems that the skill was beached at Independence, and some Corvallis young men coming up the river saw and recognized the boat. They informed the lady of their discovery, and she gave them $5 to go to Independence and bring the skill to Corvallis in the steam launch.

The Eugene Guard has the following to say of Joaquin Miller, the "poet of the Sierras." Now, Joaquin Miller returns to his own people. He has bought a place on the banks of the turgid Siuslaw, where everything is beautiful and only man is vile. In this beautiful spot the poet will recreate and write. It will be his summer home, for in the winter he will fly south to his cottage at Fruitvale, Cal. When fish are not biting, Joaquin will loiter in his hut overlooking the Siuslaw, and daily with the muse. It is an ideal retreat for him, and the poet is determined to extract all the enjoyment possible from it.

Some few people may admire dog fennel and thistles on a church lawn, and sanction the keeping of unsightly rubbish in the back yard of the church, but most people think such conditions a disgrace to the city.

An old resident commented on crop conditions, Saturday. Wheat, he said, is a fair yield, considering the run-down condition of the average Willamette valley farm; fall grain is fairly good, and hay is an enormous crop.

Eugene is in danger of another epidemic of typhoid, according to lately published reports. A dispatch dated at Portland says: The state board of health, through bacteriologist Ralph Matson, has declared the water supply of Eugene to be unsanitary and will take steps to enforce filtration of all water used for drinking and domestic purposes. The typhoid fever epidemic, which swept the valley town last spring, is directly traceable to polluted water, and now that it is discovered that the water is still impure, the health board is determined to take no chances on a repetition of the fever. It is alleged by the Eugene authorities, that the water is filtered before being used, but this is found to be doubtful. Many are even drinking it without boiling, and the health board greatly fears sickness as the result of such carelessness.

The party that visited Mary's Peak last week arrived home safely Friday evening. They camped the first night at the spring, three-quarters of a mile below the summit of the Peak, as one member of the party was weary to proceed. When the summit was reached it was so smoky that a good view could not be obtained. However, the crowd had a jolly time and felt repaid for going. The members of the party were: Misses Frances Belknap, Edna Groves, Nelle McPherson, of Wasco, and Gertrude Davis of San Francisco; and Messrs. Roy Hollenberg and Frank Groves.

Men are just like hogs, remark an exchange, however distasteful this may sound to the hogs. When a hog gets an ear of corn, every other hog will trot along behind him and squeal, whine and beg for a bite, but let the front hog get in a tight place, with his head in a crack, and every son of a sow will jump on him and tear him to pieces. Just so with men. As long as a man is prosperous and has plenty of money, he can't keep his friends off with a base ball bat. The moment he is unfortunate and his money is gone, he is not only snubbed by his former friends, but they begin to do him all the harm possible. When a man starts up grade, the world falls in line and pushes. When he starts down grade the world steps to one side and greases the track.

Master Elwin Woodcock, who has worked in the Gazette office the last few weeks with such great diligence that the nerve-racking strain was threatening disaster to his robust constitution, was forced to take an outing to recuperate his declining strength. It is thought two or three weeks of life in the open, together with scenes that will keep him from brooding over the horrors of a "devil's" existence, will put him in condition to work some more.

Splendid Offer.

Representatives of the Pacific States Telephone and Telegraph Company have started a house to house canvass among the farmers of this county, offering an extremely low rental for instruments to be used in connection with the central offices of the Company throughout the county.

For .08 1/3 cents a month the subscriber is given free switching with all other subscribers connecting with this central exchange. Under this rate it would appear that no rural resident need be without a telephone and its attendant advantages, especially as every assurance is given of prompt and efficient service.

Mr. G. B. Hibbard is in charge of the canvass in this county and he states that he may be seen at the central office of the company in Albany, or will visit any community or organization of farmers interested in telephone matters. 65tf

They Stand Alone.

Standing out in bold relief, all alone, and as a conspicuous example of open, frank and honest dealing with the sick and afflicted, are Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak, over-worked, debilitated, nervous, "run-down," pain-racked women, and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous remedy for weak stomach, indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, or biliousness, all catarrhal affections whether of the stomach, bowels, kidneys, bladder, nasal passages, throat, bronchia, or other mucous passages, also as an effective remedy for all diseases arising from thin, watery or impure blood, as scrofulous and skin affections.

Each bottle of the above medicines bears upon its wrapper a badge of honesty in the full list of ingredients composing it—printed in plain English. This frank and open publicity places these medicines in a class all by themselves, and is the best guaranty of their merits. They cannot be classed as patent nor secret medicines for they are neither—being of known composition.

Dr. Pierce feels that he can afford to take the afflicted into his full confidence and lay all the ingredients of his medicines freely before them because these ingredients are such as are endorsed and most strongly praised by scores of the most eminent medical writers as cures for the diseases for which these medicines are recommended. Therefore, the afflicted do not have to rely alone upon Dr. Pierce's recommendation as to the curative value of his medicines for certain easily recognized diseases.

A glance at the printed formula on each bottle will show that no alcohol and no harmful or habit-forming drugs enter into Dr. Pierce's medicines, they being wholly compounded of glyceric extracts of the roots of native American forest plants. These are best and safest for the cure of most lingering, chronic diseases. Dr. E. V. Pierce can be consulted, by addressing him at Buffalo, N. Y., and all communications are regarded as sacredly confidential.

It is as easy to be well as ill—and much more comfortable. Constipation is the cause of many forms of illness. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. They are tiny, sugar-coated granules. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and a mild cathartic. All dealers in medicines sell them.
