CHURCH SETS EXAMPLE.

In matters of morality, in all which tends to honesty and sincerity, in the many qualities which affect the nobility of man, the church should stand as a recognized champion. Often she does. Sometimes she does not. Of all bodies or organizations the church on account of her own professions should first and last keep herself above suspicion, as Caesar's wife.

When the church lends her self to any man or body of men within her fold for the furtherance of every petty intrigue she not only lowers herself in the estimation of those of purer thought, purpose and ideals within her organization, but does herself and the principles which she espouses irreparable harm. A churchman, according to his own doctrine, certainly cannot expect to fool himself forever, much less his God, for an instant.

What must be the opinion of an honest man without the church when he is a witness of the palpable weakness of him who occupies the position of a leader of the flock? When the man who occupies an exalted position within the church lends himself to the assistance, even tacitly, of a scheme to which a good-principled man without the church would scorn to be an abettor the church and her principles are placed in a pitiable light. And yet this is not uncommon.

We are taught by the church to beware of evil doers and to shun evil associates as we would the plague. We are to shun even the appearance of evil. Yet how often men are taken into a church when in reality inferno is too cool for them. Church people, quite often knowingly become the companions of such characters, and thereby receive and merit the contempt of a better class of men and women, who might, if the church stood firm at all times for what she teaches, join the flock themselves. For the lack of moral stamina to be apparent in a churchman is not good for the principles of Christianity, but when what looks like duplicity comes to the surface the case becomes a sorry one, indeed.

Let the church go on and on, and ever strive for a continuance and perpetuation of the principles established by Jesus Christ. There is need of churches, an honest need, and this need must be met in an honest way. The churchman cannot dodge the issue and must meet it fearlessly in a reasonable way and never for one instance waver or show a lack of moral courage.

VARDAMAN'S IDEA.

Governor Vardaman, of Mississippi, is an advocate of the disfranchisement of the negro. At some future day he desires to be sent to congress by the people of Mississippi in order that he may work for this purpose. The matter of the disfranchisement of a people is a serious one. Of this there is no doubt. The great mistake was made when the government granted them full political privileges.

But should a mistake never be corrected? So far as the ballot is concerned it is a privilege, not a right, as some people seem to think. There are many whites not capable of voting intelligently, but who would kick up "high jinks" if they were denied that privilege. Citizens of the United States have for so long been accustomed to the privilege of voting that they look upon it as a right. It is nothing but a privilege granted by this government—one not granted by certain other governments.

Whether Gov. Vardaman's idea will ever attract any particular attention or whether he will secure any considerable following remains to be seen. It is probable that relations would become more strained and serious between the white and black races than they are now in the event of disfranchisement. And from all accounts affairs between the races in the South are bad enough now. Sooner or later it will be necessary for the federal government to make some radical move.

One of our exchanges declares that the freedom of the slave was the sole fruit of four years of bitter war and to disfranchise him is a step backward, not forward. The writer of this idea should bear in mind that at the outset of the civil war no one had any conception that the result was to be the enfranchisement of the negro—that he was to be created a political equal. There is a difference between the abolishment of slavery and the bestowal of political and social equality.

Fears Political Effect.

Among the interesting things related in Sunday's Journal is a dispatch from Seattle which says:

Fearing the political effect of a condemnation by the supreme court of his action in ordering Esther Mitchell and Maud Creffield, the murderers of George Mitchell, deported to Oregon, Superior Judge Frater has employed George H. Walker, a local attorney, to represent him in the supreme court next Friday when the matter comes up for hearing. The attorneys for the two women will also appear in an effort to have the court's action upheld.

The action of Judge Frater establishes a precedent in this state. This is first time a judge has taken sufficient personal interest in one of his decisions to employ counsel to have it upheld. The practice is for the attorneys of the parties interested to make the fight for the upholding of the court's order.

Mrs. Horner as Hostess

Mrs. Collins Flint of Roseburg was the guest of honor yesterday at a delightful "afternoon" given for her by Mrs. J. B. Horner at Alpha Hall. About sixty ladies enjoyed the event which was in every way enjoyable.

The spacious dining room was very prettily decorated in white and green. Mrs. M. S. Bush presided, her assistants being Misses Lulu Spangler, Carrie Danneberg, Belle Bounney and Mabel Withycombe. The other rooms were artistically decorated with roses, ferns and palms. Mrs. Horner, who is always a perfect hostess, was ably assisted by Mrs. Knisley and Mrs. Paillander. Light refreshments were served during the receiving hours.

Mrs. Flint, in whose honor the very pleasant affair was given, is a charming lady of Southern Oregon, now en route as a delegate from the Roseburg "Mental Culture Club" to attend a convention of women's clubs in Portland. While in Corvallis she is the guest of Mrs. B. A. Cathey, the ladies being old friends.

A Birthday Surprise.

On the 21st a surprise party was given Mrs. John W. Hayes at her beautiful home on 6th and Adams St., it being the anniversary of her birth. Several of her many friends at about 7:30 p. m. took possession of her spacious parlor much to the surprise of the hostess. She being equal to the occasion, however, soon had things comfortably arranged and each guest was made to enjoy himself in a way that will long be remembered.

After a couple of hours of sociability, these intruders were invited into the dining room where a bountiful lunch was spread which the visitors had brought for the occasion. And the way some of them ate left the impression that they had been saving themselves for the event for a week. At 10:30 this jolly crowd took its departure after wishing the hostess a hundred more similar occasions.

Some of those present were Mrs. Jas. Hayes, Mrs. Ann Smith, Mrs. John Smith, Mrs. Jas. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Kane, Mr. and Mrs. Danmet Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hayes, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Hayes, Roy Bell, Edna Spicer, Alex Hayes and Esther Hayes.

A Square Deal

Is assured you when you buy Dr. Pierce's family medicines—for all the ingredients entering into them are printed on the bottle wrappers and their formulas are attested under oath as being complete and correct. You know just what you are paying for and that the ingredients are gathered from Nature's laboratory, being selected from the most valuable native medicinal roots found growing in our American forests and while potent to cure are perfectly harmless even to the most delicate women and children. Not a drop of alcohol enters into their composition. Much better than any other medicine, the principles used in them, viz—purely refined glycerine. This agent possesses intrinsic medicinal properties of its own, being a most valuable antiseptic and antiferment, nutritive and soothing demulcent.

Glycerine plays an important part in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in the cure of indigestion, dyspepsia and weak stomach, attended by sour risings, heart-burn, foul breath, coated tongue, poor appetite, gnawing feeling in stomach, biliousness and kindred derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels. Besides curing all the above distressing ailments, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a specific for all diseases of the mucous membranes, as catarrh, whether of the nasal passages or of the stomach, bowels or pelvic organs. Even in its ulcerative stages it will yield to this sovereign remedy if its use be persevered in. In Chronic Catarrh of the Nasal passages, it is well, while taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" for the necessary constitutional treatment, to cleanse the passages freely two or three times a day with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. This thorough course of treatment generally cures the worst cases.

In coughs and hoarseness caused by bronchial, throat and lung affections, except consumption in its advanced stages, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most efficient remedy, especially in the most obstinate, hang-on coughs caused by irritation and congestion of the bronchial mucous membranes. The "Discovery" is not so good for acute coughs arising from sudden colds, nor must it be expected to cure consumption in its advanced stages—no medicine will do that—but for all the obstinate, chronic coughs, which, if neglected, or badly treated, lead up to consumption, it is the best medicine that can be obtained.
