

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Irvine were Salem visitors Friday.

T. D. Campbell has been in Portland the past few days on a business trip.

Mrs. James Osburn returned Friday from an extended visit to various points in the East.

Mrs. McCullum of Newport has been the guest of her daughter, Mrs. George Lilly, the past few days.

Mark McCallister, the genial graduate athletic manager at OAC, made a business trip to Albany, Friday.

Joseph Edwards and L. H. Hawley, prominent citizens of southern Benton, were Corvallis business visitors the last of the week.

Clyde Lawhead of Salem has been the guest for several days of his cousins, the Misses Elgin, in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Barden returned yesterday from an over Sunday visit with old friends in McMinnville, their former home.

Miss Leona Marvin has arrived from South Dakota to join her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Marvin who now operate the Commercial restaurant in this city.

The town football eleven played a game with the Albany Athletic Club team at Albany, Saturday afternoon. The score was 6 to 0 in favor of Corvallis.

Miss Madge Baldwin has resigned her position as stenographer for S. L. Kline and left Sunday for Carlton to accept a similar position with the Carlton lumber company.

In the hallow'een frolics of last week someone lost a derby hat on the streets of Corvallis. By calling at police headquarters, proving property and paying for this notice the owner may have his "lid."

Pearl Thomas, formerly of Corvallis, in a letter to a friend here writes that he has been in the St. Joseph hospital in Sioux City, Iowa, where he underwent an operation for appendicitis. He states, however, that he is now in good health.

The anti-swear crusade which was commenced in town some months ago and then abandoned for lack of material to work on, is to be pressed. But after all it's not the profanity one utters so much as what we cause, of which we should be chided.—McMinnville Register.

Willie, the ten-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Gellatly, residing west of Corvallis, was the victim of a painful accident Thursday. While using a pitch fork in the stable the fork tines was kicked by one of the cows, the fork handle striking the boy a violent blow above the right eye. A jagged gash one and a half inches long was inflicted, and a Corvallis physician had to be summoned to dress the wound.

The disappearance of C. F. Tharp, of Oakville, has brought out the fact that he is debtor to many persons, which was probably one of the motives that led to his sudden leave-taking. Yesterday another of his numerous creditors filed complaint in the circuit court to recover money alleged to be due. Carter & Robinson of this city have begun proceedings to recover $114.70, which they allege is due for goods purchased by Tharp from them. The missing man has property, and this will be attached.—Herald.

A beautiful and impressive play produced by actors and actresses who comprehend and enter into the very spirit of their parts is "The Holy City," given at the Corvallis opera house before a large audience Thursday night. The production is of a much higher order than is usually seen outside the larger cities, and the Corvallis opera house manager, Frank Groves, certainly proved his good judgment in securing it for this city. Rich and costly costumes, beautiful stage settings, and decidedly clever acting made "The Holy City" an entertainment that is being highly praised by all who attended Thursday night.

They are telling a joke on a certain prominent young lady who is employed in a Main street establishment, this city. It appears that the young lady has an admirer who is as constant as a nine-day clock and this fact is generally known, even in the rural districts adjacent Corvallis. The night of the football rally people were awakened by the racket, three miles out in the country, and a telephone message came in to the young woman's home, "Is that noise in Corvallis a chari vari party at your house?" While it was not, on this occasion, there is no assurance that there may not be such a party "in the sweet bye and bye."

Miss Amy Hinton of Monroe arrived the last of the week to spend the winter in Corvallis.

Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Barclay of Bellefountain were visitors in Corvallis, Saturday.

Miss Fni Johnson returned home yesterday evening from a week's visit in Albany with relatives.

Mrs. H. Snook and children came up from Salem, Friday, for a visit with Mr. Snook, who is engaged as contractor on the new woman's building at OAC.

A. G. Allen and family who have occupied the Horton house, moved Saturday to the Tucker house on Third street, where they will reside with Mrs. Tucker and William McLagan.

A crowd of young people enjoyed a very pleasant dancing party at Fisher's hall Friday night. The music was furnished by Overlander's orchestra and a good time was had by all present.

The Village Improvement Association is to hold an important meeting at the county court house this, Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The subject to be discussed is the kind of trees that shall be planted on the new public school grounds. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hayes went to Portland Friday morning to attend the funeral of the latter's sister-in-law, Mrs. Fred Waiden, who died in that city Thursday night, of consumption. Deceased was a young woman and had been married only three years.

Perhaps 1000 people turned out Thursday evening to join in the football rally that was held on the OAC field for the purpose of arousing enthusiasm in the OAC P. U. game which took place Saturday. There was a huge bonfire, music by the band, speeches by Coach Norcross, Miss Belle Bonney and others, and enough noise to satisfy everybody.

This is the season of the year when a town looks its worst, for with leaves falling everywhere and the trees stripped of their beauty there is a forlorn, desolate appearance in the town that reminds one of winter. Let everyone aid in keeping the streets clean by sweeping up the leaves and this will help to prevent newcomers from gathering the impression that Corvallis is slow and old-fashioned.

The OAC girls' basket ball team is hard at practice and will be in good trim for the games that are to be played. While all the details of the schedule are not settled, there will almost certainly be games with Monmouth, Albany high school, Willamette University, Roseburg high school and probably with Ringler's of Portland.

The first basket ball game of the season was played at the armory Friday night between the girls' team of OAC and a down town team. The score was 15 to 2 in favor of OAC. The line-up was: town team, Misses Harrington and Logan, forwards; Linville, center; Gellatly and Tom, guards. OAC, Misses Holgate and Rodroack, forwards; Moore, center; Pelland and Scroggins, guards.

Last night after the Gazette press hour, the Men's Club of the M. E. church was to hold its first big meeting. All men who are members of the church were to be there, and each was to bring a friend. An address entitled "Jerusalem" was to be delivered by Prof. J. B. Horner, this being the principal feature of the evening. "Original" refreshments were to be served.

A letter from Mrs. E. B. Horning of this city who is now with relatives at Hood River, states that she is dining on Corvallis creamery butter. Mr. Kaupisch visited Hood River during the big fruit fair held recently and while Hood Riverites shouted the praises of apples and other fruit the Corvallis man shouted "butter, butter," until he caught the attention of those who heard, and the Corvallis product now graces the table of people in that place, where it is found to be all that Mr. Kaupisch claimed. Advertising is the hobby of all progressive business men.

Take it month in and month out, the year 'round, the Corvallis postoffice is about the busiest place in town. An outsider can form no accurate idea of the volume of business to be transacted in such an office, and this business is steadily and rapidly increasing. The figures representing the total postal receipts for October 1905 at the Corvallis office were $861.33; the same figures for the month of October 1906 are $1048.98, an increase of 22 per cent. The business of a postoffice is generally considered a pretty fair index to the prosperity of a town, in which case no one, judging from the above figures, will doubt that Corvallis is growing.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ingle left yesterday for their home in Woodburn, after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ingle in this city.

Mrs. Warren Hartley of Cottage Grove left yesterday for home, after a few days' visit with Corvallis relatives.

Miss Ateena Fischer celebrated her tenth birthday by giving a party Saturday afternoon to about sixteen little friends. The hours were from three to five, and there were games and refreshments which were enjoyed to the limit by the merry company.

News has been received in Corvallis of the marriage in Chehalis, Wash., of Pearl Rose to Miss Florence Schierz. The groom is a veteran football player of OAC, and the bride formerly resided in this city. They are to make their home in Seattle.

A jolly crowd of young girls took in the excursion to the bay Sunday. The party consisted of the Misses Iva and B-trible Barclay, Grace and Edna Watkins, Eunice Taylor, Nelle and Leona Marvin and Helen Yockey, with Mrs. J. B. Marvin as chaperone. A fine time is reported.

Frank Lane, who has been in Corvallis a part of the time for the past year, left Friday for his home in Pittsburgh, Pa. Joe Patterson, who was with Mr. Lane on the western trip, left for Pittsburgh several days before Mr. Lane's departure, having gone to Monmouth on a visit and suddenly decided to proceed on East.

Two Corvallis girls are looking forward to December 31st with an interest so keen that it is almost a fever. On that day they will close their task of soliciting subscriptions to the Pacific Northwest in which race the winner secures a free trip to the Jam-stown Exposition next May. The Corvallis girls are Misses Aida Metcalf and Anna French, and their friends are also awaiting the close of the contest with much interest.

From North Dakota.

In a very interesting way Miss Mable Robinson, formerly a popular Corvallis girl and a teacher of Benton county, writes a friend in this city regarding certain people and conditions in North Dakota. Miss Robinson and her parents left Corvallis several months ago, and are now at Lisbon. Henry Price and family left a few weeks later for the same state. The writer says:

"We are living in my brother's house, only two blocks from Main street and one block from the M. E. church, so we are not likely to freeze going that distance, even in cold weather. I am teaching two and a half miles from town, and have ridden my wheel every day until the past week. I have a fine school of 14 pupils, all of them "angelic," and I earn my $45 per month as easily as I ever expect to earn money anywhere.

"My sister, Mrs. Henry Price, and son Ray are with us, but are going to Fargo soon, where Henry has a good job with a big house furnishing company. He has been unable to secure them a house there to live in but has one now. Fargo is 50 miles from Lisbon.

"The crops here this year were splendid. Some men have made their fortunes. One man has sold $300 worth of flax this fall and he hasn't a very large farm either.

"The only times I have been really homesick for Corvallis were the first few times I attended church and League and did not see the faces of my old friends."

Beach & Bowers' Minstrels.

The date is changed to Wednesday Nov. 7. Beach & Bowers' Famous Minstrels will be seen at the opera house on Nov. 7th. They are an all-feature, preponderous aggregation of minstrel talent, and give a better show than any minstrel company traveling.

Minstrelsy will never die, but old minstrel ideas have been dead for some time; in fact ever since Beach & Bowers launched a new and up-to-the-minute novelty in minstrelsy. Beach & Bowers always give us wholesome fun, and their appearance is heralded with pleasure. The musical part of the show is said to be particularly good. They will give a grand street parade and concert at 4 p. m. Wednesday afternoon. Reserved seat sale opens this morning. Prices 35, 50 and 75 cents.
