The committee suggests to those citizens who have not been solicited to give money that same may be done by giving or sending it to A. K. Russ, sec'y of committee, for to Supt. Denman. This refers to any one living in the county who wishes to see the fair a big success.

She Feared Pursuers.

A 20 year-old girl in this city created some excitement Tuesday forenoon by running several blocks, pursued by half a dozen women, and declaring to everyone that she was afraid of bodily harm being done her by some imaginary foe.

The young lady is Miss Lou Fendall, why has been employed in the home of Mr and Mrs. Tyra Smith, and whose sister is at the Charles Peterson home, attending high school and taking music lessons.

Miss Fendall's home is at Five Rivers and two years ago she was at the J. R. Smith home in this city in the capacity of a domestic. She is a very capable and respectable young woman, but for a long time has suffered from nervousness and for this reason went to Albany, Monday for this reason went to Albany, Monday to consult a physician. On her return she went to the J. R. Smith home in a very excited state, declaring that the trainmen all watched her, and that she was pursued by someone.

Tuesday morning Miss Fendall went to the Peterson home to remain with her sister, and was still in a state of great mental excitement. She finally ran from the house, wearing her slippers and but sparsely clad, and after being refused admission to a near-by neighbor's home, darted up the C. & E. railroad track and was finally overtaken at the W. A. Wells corner, and properly cared for until a physician arrived.

She was taken back to the Peterson home later in the day where she still remains.

The physician in charge pronounces the ailment of a nervous character, and is believed the young woman will, by careful attention soon recover her mental balance.

Feeding For size.

Some may be interested in knowing how we feed for size, says an old breeder. We induce exercise, but feed plentifully and make the diet as varied as possible. Milk, meat, grain and green food form the main basis of our feeding. Skimmed milk at 6 cents per gallon is a cheap food, and we also use quantities of thick sour milk. Practically no corn is fed our young stock until six months old. Bran and middlings are a daily portion of the diet and are kept before the chicks at all times in a dry state, but sometimes we moisten this mixture for a change. Have found whole oats soaked in skim milk a great growth producer, but they should not be fed until chicks reach the age of six weeks. Charcoal, grit and cool water are not forgotten.

Labor on Poultry Farms.

The demand for labor on poultry farms is, of course, strictly limited and is confined almost entirely to experienced workers, although on the large establishments a large number of men and women are employed in plucking, dressing and packing, and if this is not skilled labor it is something akin to it and is not the kind of work a person could take to without some experience and practice. There is a good opportunity for young men who are prepared to undergo a thorough training in the management of fancy stock. This branch offers good reward for workers, and progress is made in it entirely through merit. Wages run up to $30 and board per month.

The Narragansett Turkey.

The Narragansett turkey is a native of Rhode Island and Connecticut. It is next to the bronze variety in size, the standard weights being: Cock, 30 pounds; cockerel, 20 pounds; hen, 18 pounds; pullet, 12 pounds. Disqualifying weights: Cock, less than 22 pounds; hen, less than 14 pounds. In plumage color this turkey is black, each feather ending in a broad, light steel gray band edged with black.

Colds in Fowls.

To cure a severe cold in a fowl, begin treatment with a dose of epsom salts, twenty to thirty grains. For any swelling around the eyes apply melted lard to which has been added a small quantity of kerosene oil. Also give twice a day.
