LET US HAVE THE BEST.

"Linn County Council P. of H. met Saturday with Sand Ridge Grange D. H. Bodine, president."

"Several granges were represented. The reading of the minutes of the previous session held with Crowfoot Grange, showed that a resolution was adopted to the effect that the president of the OAC to be selected to succeed President Gatch lately resigned, 'Should be a man in touch with the farming interests of this state, and not a member of the present faculty.'"—Albany Herald.

There seems to be a diversity of opinion regarding what is required to fit a man for president of OAC. So far, two classes have been heard from, and their opinions are not so wide apart as they might be. One class, to judge from the opinion voiced, seem to think something in the line of a country school teacher would be about right; while the other class evidently prefers a farmer.

As a matter of fact, if OAC is ever to become a great educational institution, she must be guided by a broad-gauge man. The field is here, and the necessity of having the best should be apparent to all who are in any wise posted on the needs of the institution. The man selected as president to succeed President Gatch should possess an education not furnished by the common schools of any state; he should be scholarly, a good disciplinarian and a good business man, as well as a man of good address.

These qualities are of utmost importance. There is no man too good for the position, and let us have the best.

FOR HUMANITY'S SAKE.

In this period of business activity and everlasting hustle for the almighty dollar there is danger that the commands and precepts of the Almighty himself will be forgotten, the weak, faint voice of conscience be stifled. Man owes to all his kind a duty which he should not attempt to escape when the debt must be met. It comes due in the form of alleviating sorrow and suffering for your distressed neighbor—yea! for all mankind.

Nestled among the sublime mountains of Colorado is an institution founded and maintained by men and women of the highest intelligence, and whose lofty aim is to fight and cure the "great white plague," the most appalling scourge of man. That they do cure consumption is an assured fact. This institution has been working in a quiet way for years and there is not one cent charged patients, who by the misfortune of the dread malady are forced under its hospitable roof. It is absolutely free to all who are poor and diseased. No one is denied its good offices.

This is known as the "National Jewish Hospital for Consumptives." Quoting from its by-laws we find the statement: "There shall be no charge of any kind to any patient admitted to the hospital, either for medical attendance, drugs or for his care and maintenance while in the hospital."

"There is but this 'open sesame' to the sun-kissed and mountain-pillowed hospital—poverty and disease.

"It is only for those who fall by the wayside, famished, ill, helpless.

"You who have the quick-thinking mind and the buoyancy of health, you who team with vitality and strength, you in the shelter of a happy home, in the embrace of loved ones—give but a little part of the prosperity God has bestowed on you with."

Is there not someone in this community who feels like doing something for suffering humanity? Some person conscious of the spirit of man's humanity to man, with a desire to contribute their mite to further this work for the poor and diseased? If so, please leave such contributions with S. L. Kline, this city, who has been a contributor to this institution for years.

ALL ARE ACTIVE.

Interest Increasing in Big "All Benton Fair."

There is no reason to doubt the success of the proposed "All Benton" fair that is scheduled to occur in Corvallis next August. All over the county the school children are enthusiastic in regard to the plan, which means that parents are also interested or will become so at any rate through the activity of their young folks.

Sometime ago Superintendent Denman sent to each teacher in Benton county a circular letter, stating that he depended upon the teachers to get their pupils interested in the fair and to participate in it. Superintendent Denman in these circulars offered ten suggestions to teachers, as follows:

1 See to it that every home in your district is represented in the contest.

2 Give little talks in the morning, showing the beneficial results to be attained by entering.

3 Impress upon your school the importance of making a creditable showing at the fair.

4 Impress upon your pupils the necessity of putting forth their best efforts in anything undertaken in life.

5 Impress upon them the injury of only doing things by halves.

6 Show your pupils by your own interest that you want them to enter and to win.

7 Impress upon your pupils that now is the time to commence, and not a month from now.

8 Do not have it said of your school when the fair is over that your school was not represented or that only a small number of your pupils did anything.

9 A creditable showing at the fair will reflect credit upon you as a teacher, provided you were instrumental in having such a result obtained.

10 In closing, let me say, I cannot do anything unless every teacher does her part in this undertaking. If every teacher in charge of a school will urge, advocate, and suggest to their pupils the way to get results, we can all do something. Therefore, without a concerted effort on part of every teacher and every school, the fair will fall far short of what might have been. We, as teachers must show to the patriotic and liberal citizens of the county who have put up the cash and premiums, that we appreciate it. The profession cannot overlook this generosity to further our work. I desire a report from your school to be printed in the county papers, showing what you are doing, and will do at the fair.

Send me this report as quickly as possible with your name signed to it. It will appear in the papers just as you send it to me. We are doing this to keep up the interest in the fair. A good report from you will interest your district more than anything else in it. So remember to send me the report as soon as possible."

The first district to send in a report is number 49. The teacher is Miss Lillith McKenney, and she writes the superintendent as follows: "The pupils of the Band Box school are taking an active interest in the Benton County Fair. They are making great plans with their flower beds and garden plots and are anxiously waiting the time when weather and seeds will permit them to see more immediate results of their efforts.

"Each one is hoping to be the proud winner of some of the valuable prizes which are offered."

THOUSANDS ARE COMING.

Tide of Immigration Sets In—"All Roads Lead to Oregon."

"All roads lead to Oregon" is the cry that is being sent up from all sections of the state this spring and Eastern echo answers back "to Oregon." And to Oregon they are coming by the hundreds, to seek homes in the state where cyclones and blizzards come not to fret the inhabitant. The cheap colonist rates went into effect the first of March, and that they will be fruitful of results is certain. Residents of Oregon have been writing to eastern friends, "watch for the cheap rates," and they have waited and watched and now the time is at hand.

Corvallis will receive her share of this immigration. The Citizens' League has all along done its full share towards directing attention to Benton county, and from the flood of letters that has resulted from this advertising there is no reason to doubt that Corvallis and Benton county will be the Mecca toward which many an Easterner will head when he buys his tickets at some little way station in Iowa, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas or the Dakotas. These rates are being advertised by the various railroads throughout the United States, and this, augmented by the special effort of the Portland Commercial Club-Oregon Development League campaign, will certainly put this State to the forefront and result in a largely increased population.

Beginning in the latter part of February, citizens of Portland and other places in Oregon were buying tickets for their friends in the East, and this can be accomplished by depositing the cost of the ticket with any agent throughout the entire State of Oregon.

The business men and property holders of the city of Portland are exceedingly enthusiastic relative to these low rates and are liberally subscribing their money to advertise the resources of Oregon. Large display cards "ALL ROADS LEAD TO OREGON" are being shown in the windows of the stores and offices of Portland, which give the details and particulars of the colonist rates, and there is no other subject that is being more thoroughly discussed. Never, until the present occasion, has Oregon taken full and complete advantage of this opportunity to get increased immigration, and now that the rates are available from such a vast portion of the country, every commercial organization in the state will certainly improve the chance, by inducing the people of the state to write letters to old friends and old home papers, in which they will give good and sufficient reasons why Oregon is the State in which to settle.
