ANARCHY.

What constitutes a state of anarchy? If definitions are not misleading we are permitting the reptile of red flag birth to bask in the sunshine of this country, later to fasten its venomous fangs upon the life and liberty of our people. Our social, industrial and political life is already menaced.

Last Monday in Chicago, paraded 3700 men, women and children. The object of the parade was to create sympathy for the notorious trio, Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone, alleged accessories in the murder of Governor Steunenberg, of Idaho. The demonstration is one of rank anarchy and what the authorities are thinking of that such things are permitted is beyond our ken. It cannot be expected that such a parade, by such a people, howling, hissing and jeering, and carrying banners of anarchistic motto, will prove an example worthy of emulation by the youth of the land.

Surely there is such a thing as too much liberty when a vicious mob can carry red flags through the streets of Chicago. "To h—l with the constitution" was a sign which was carried and displayed to the gaze of the public. Many such mottoes were in evidence in the parade. All right-minded men and women will lose their sympathy for labor when it approves of such a demonstration as that in Chicago a few days ago.

NEED ROOSEVELT.

From Maine to Oregon and from the Gulf to the Great Lakes there is reorganization, reformation, reconstruction and changes economically and politically in progress. The very air seems charged with new life, or whatever it may be termed, calling for a purification of affairs generally. On all sides is apparent the sentiment or spirit of reform and the change is traceable to Roosevelt's "square deal" motto more than to any other source. In a recent interview Senator Bourne, now in Washington, D. C., voices a strong plea for Roosevelt's selection for a second elective term. The senator is very open as well as strenuous in his reasons why Roosevelt should succeed himself. He cites two most excellent reasons why this should be: First, the ability and honesty of Roosevelt; second, his almost superhuman courage in standing for what he is convinced is right and best for the mass of the people of our republic. Better reasons for the election of any man could not be given. The senator is quoted as follows:

Any man honored by people in their selection and elected as chief executive of this nation in his acceptance of the nomination gives the implied obligation that he waives his own personal interests and wishes to agree to serve the people to the best of his ability so long as the people may demand such service. The public claim advanced by reactionaries that he cannot recind his position declaration is untenable. His whose public life gives the lie to this claim. He will not place his own personal wishes and desires as paramount to commands of the nation, nor does he possess such small mental or moral caliber as to prefer a mistaken consistency of purpose in adhering to the declaration given in 1904, rather than an obedience to the commands of the people and the requested patriotic service for our country's welfare. Posterity would construe such a declaration as evidence of false vanity or timidity, based on the fear of criticism for misnamed inconsistency. The President's declaration of 1894, I believe, arose from his laudible, though in my opinion, mistaken assumption that by so doing he would increase his efficiency as a public service by elimination of the suspicion that his executive actions were based on a desire for political cal extension in office, rather than an unselfish desire for the nation's welfare. In the above paragraph the senator from Oregon appears to be very close to the truth in guessing at the motive that prompted President Roosevelt to declare that under no consideration would he accept the nomination to succeed himself when his term expired.

When thieves fall out honest men get their dues. It is interesting to note the righteous (?) contempt Abe Ruef, erstwhile political boss of San Francisco, and Mayor Schmitz maintain for each other. They seem adverse to rooming together, but the chances are before long they will be quartered not far apart.

Big Shoot at Monroe.

There was a sporting event of more than passing interest at Monroe Wednesday. It was a big shoot given by the "Rod and Gun Club" of that place, Dr. Bennett being president of the organization and Ed Looney secretary.

Many sports were present from Eugene, Springfield, Corvallis, Monroe and other points, and there would have been twice as large a crowd had the weather not been so threatening.

The highest scores and the sports who made them were: Windom, of Harrisburg, 90 out of a possible 100; Bills of Eugene 83; Griffin, Eugene, 87; Converse, a Seattle sporting goods man, 86; Saunders, Monroe, 85; Dr. Bennett, Monroe, 85; Barnett, Monroe, 85; Zierolf, Monroe, 85; Paine, Eugene, 80; Kay, Eugene, 75; Long, Corvallis, 71; Weiss, Monroe, 70; Young, Springfield, 75; Leep, Corvallis, 77; Martin, Monroe, 80.

BIG MEETING.

Of Oregon Development League in June.

The Oregon Development League will hold its next convention Friday and Saturday, June 21st and 22nd in the rooms of the Portland Commercial Club on the second floor, Sixth and Alder streets. This date meets the approval of a large number of persons who want to be present, and is made for the especial convenience of newspaper men who are anxious to be present.

Every newspaper man in Oregon is a delegate-at-large to the Oregon Development League meetings. The president and secretary of every commercial, industrial, irrigation, and horticultural organization in Oregon is a delegate, and the president has a right to name such delegation as he desires.

Every county judge in the state is a delegate and has the authority to name two others, and the same is true with regard to the mayors of the cities and towns.

Oregon must get full benefit of the colonist rates during September and October and one of the chief features of the convention will be a discussion upon the lines of how we are going to get the best of our great Northwestern travel. There will be a number of good speakers present and questions vital to the development of this state will be discussed but the central idea of the gathering will be how to make practical and effective the work of modern advertising; in other words, the best possible plan upon which we can work in harmony to add to the population and wealth of Oregon.

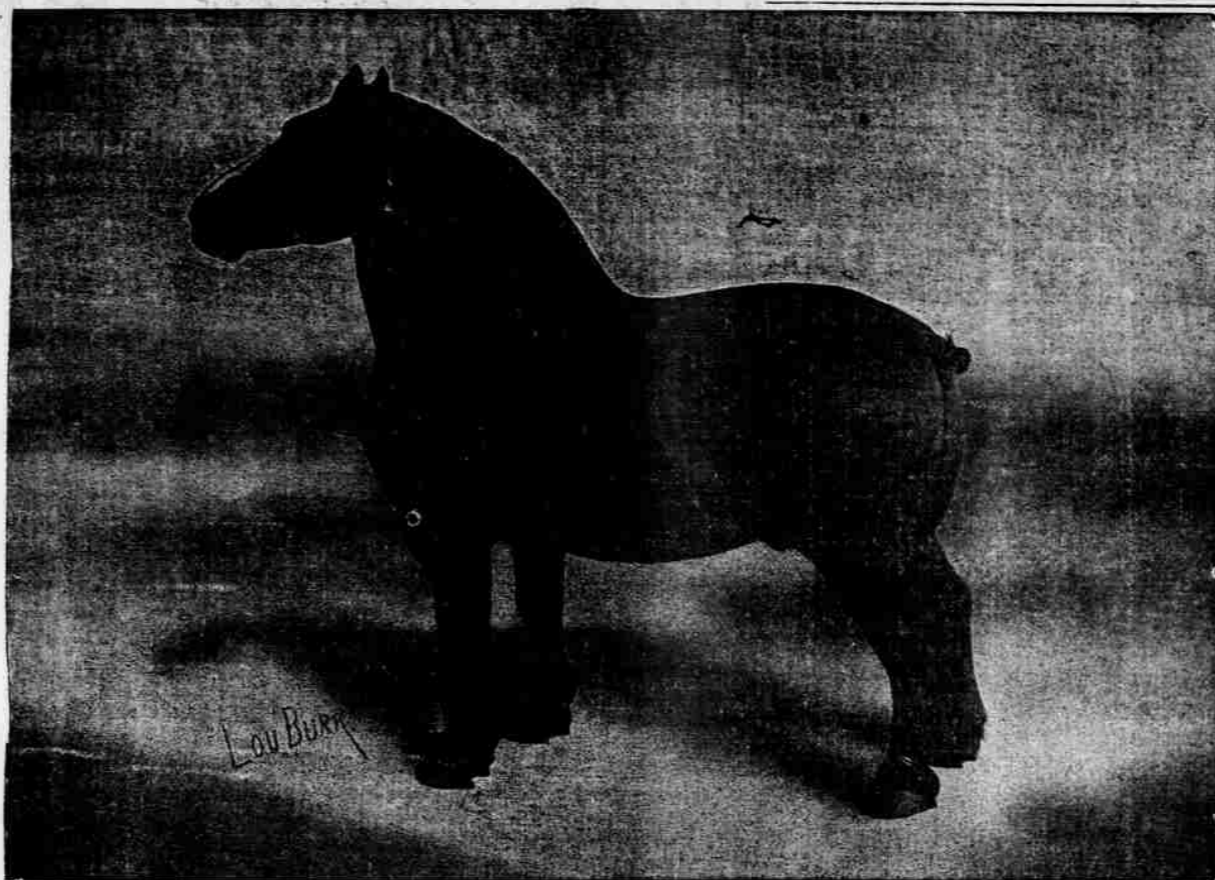

As soon as delegates are appointed a list should be sent to the local papers and then forwarded to Secretary Richardson, at Portland.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church will hold their annual Rose Fair on the opera house on June 5, 1907. They will serve a dinner and have an entertainment in the evening, in connection with the fair.

THE GREAT CORVALLIS STOCK SHOW!

Corvallis, June 7-8

ARRANGEMENTS HAVE BEEN COMPLETED BY Corvallis - Business - Men

For one of the greatest Stock Shows ever held in Oregon.

About 60 Silver Cups, suitably engraved, are to be awarded as first prizes and an equal number of other awards for second and third prizes respectively. This exhibition of horses will far exceed that of last season, and in addition, this year there will be a magnificent display of cattle, sheep, goats and hogs. Premium lists and other information will be given out shortly.

The Bogus Prince.

This entertaining musical comedy which comes to the opera house Wednesday May 29th, is a very merry affair and one of the hits of the season. A large chorus of thirty dashing American beauties in bright singing and dancing numbers insure an unusually clever entertainment. The music is delightfully catchy, the humor laugh provoking, and the singing of both principals and chorus above the average.

Additional Local.

William Giffrey of Portland, superintendent of construction for the Independent telephone company, came up Wednesday night on a business trip, returning yesterday.

J. H. Harris and W. J. Wilbanks have been on a fishing expedition this week, their destination when they departed being Sweet Home, a point back of Mary's Peak. During their absence, J. D. Wells has been clerking in the Harris store.

A farmers' institute takes place at Stayton, today and tomorrow, under the auspices of the Oregon Agricultural College. Dr. James Withycombe will deliver an address on "Breeds and Types of Livestock, and the OAC and its Work." Governor Chamberlain is also on the program.

Preaching at the Presbyterian church, Sunday morning and evening, by the pastor, Rev. J. R. N. Bell. Morning topic, "Our Complex Relations." At the evening service a talk on John Howard Payne's "Home, Sweet Home." The song as originally composed by the author will be sung as a solo and chorus by the choir. All made welcome to all of these services.

A $25,000 pulp and paper mill for manufacturing high grade white paper is the newest prize captured by the city of Brandon at the mouth of the Coquille river. The citizens are raising $50,000 to be augmented by $200,000 of eastern capital. The mill will manufacture paper from white cedar and alder by a new process.—Ex.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Daniels of Eugene are guests at the home of Senator and Mrs. A. J. Johnson.

A. J. Johnson and several others left yesterday for the Alesca country to locate railroad timber land.

Artie Starr came up from Vancouver, Wash., Wednesday, for a few days' visit with relatives and friends. He returns the last of this week.

David Whaley is to hold a public sale at his place, southeast of Philomath, next Wednesday. Stock and farm implements. Free lunch. A. L. Stevenson, auctioneer.

Subject at the Christian church next Sunday morning, "How a Shepherd Boy Became a King;" evening theme, "A Good Soldier." The G. A. R. and W. R. C. will be guests of honor at this service.

Mrs. F. O. Gray and daughters, Greeta and Glens, are to leave as soon as college closes for Manhattan, Nevada, where they will spend the summer with Mr. Gray who has a position there.

In the musical gaiety, "The Bogus Prince," which will be seen here May 29, the chorus is one of the most captivating, beautifully gowned and clever dancers that have ever appeared on the Coast.

Officials of the Curtiss Lumber Company believe the loss of their big store at Mill City by fire, Sunday, was due to incendiarism. No other cause for the fire can be learned, and an investigation has been begun to locate the incendiary. No stock was saved from the store, and the loss, $35,000, is almost all covered by insurance. This store was used as supply house for all of the company's mills and camps—Oregonian.

Charley Heckart, the good natured carpenter, was the victim of cruel, cruel circumstances during the city election, Monday. Be it known, Mr. Heckart and O. J. Blackledge, the furniture man, also good natured, were running for the same position—that of councilmen in the second ward. An invalid voter was brought to the city hall to cast his ballot, and Charley Heckart hastened to offer his services to assist in carrying the voter upstairs in his chair. Arrived on the upper floor the gentleman had to be assisted by the judges in making out his ticket, and asked as to whom he wished to vote for as councilman he quickly replied, "Mr. Blackledge." Charlie states that he has not yet fully recovered from the jar.
