Mrs. A. S. Casteel returned to her home at Yaquina, Friday, after a visit with Portland and Corvallis relatives. She was accompanied by her daughter Edith, who is attending OAC.

Members of the United Artisan lodge can pay their dues to W. G. Lane this month, as there is for the present no regular secretary. A secretary is to be elected at once to fill the vacancy.

Abel King returned the last of the week from a visit to Southern Oregon, where he had been to take a look at the country. He was well pleased with what he saw and learned of that section.

Among those who attended the U. of O-OAC track meet in this city, Friday, were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Buchanan, Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Barclay, and Ross and Gertrude Barclay, all of the Bellefountain neighborhood.

The Barnacle Club had forth at the skating rink, Thursday evening, a skating party which was attended only by members of the club. The band was present and furnished music for the merry-makers.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Peters, both former Corvallisites, have decided to locate in Tacoma, where they went on their wedding trip. They have gone to house-keeping, having rented a cozy dwelling, and are at home to any friends who may chance to be passing that way. Mrs. Peters was formerly Miss Eva Starr.

Another case of scarlet fever developed in Corvallis, Friday, the victim being the four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emery Newton. The place was quarantined Friday afternoon and every care will be taken to prevent a spread of the disease, which it was hoped had been entirely overcome in this city.

The Juniors of Albany College have gone on a strike, it seems, and have refused to deliver orations this year. As a consequence, parents and guardians of the young "rebels" have been appealed to, and unless force enough is brought to bear to compel the members of the class to "orate," the faculty will see to it that the Juniors do not graduate next year.

Jake Hecker of Biggs, Eastern Oregon, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hecker, at Wells. Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Penners of Portland are also on a visit to the family home, and Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Anell King, of this city, and Mrs. Emma Tomlinson, of Albany, also went to the Hecker home to spend Sunday, the three ladies being sisters.

Prune orchards in Benton county as a general rule are all heavily loaded with young prunes and the crop promises to be a record breaker. The large 160 acre prune orchard at Granger, leased by Luselle Bros., will yield at least fifteen carloads of fruit this year, according to those who have inspected the trees. This is about 30,000 bushels of prunes. Last year the orchard bore exceedingly light and only five cars of prunes were obtainable. Farmers who have orchards state that an extraordinary crop is promised, if no harm befalls the orchards between now and fall.

Robert Herron of Irish Bend was a Corvallis visitor, Friday.

William Martie, of Portland, transacted business in Corvallis, Saturday.

Miss Lillian Smith returned yesterday from an over Sunday visit with friends in Eugene.

Miss Robena Smith of this city has been tendered and will accept a position in the public school of Coonon, the coming fall. She is a popular and successful teacher and her friends are glad of her success.

If nothing happens to prevent, there will be a bumper crop of peaches at the Reuben Kiger orchard this season. There is every promise of a big yield and peach lovers may get their appetites in shape for a feast this fall.

A letter has been received by a friend, from Miss Aida Metcalf, now en route to the Jamestown exposition with the Philip S. Bates contest party. The writer says the girls are being royally treated and are having the time of their lives.

Among those who went on the senior excursion, Saturday, were the following from Bellefountain: Ellis Hammer and family, L. H. Hawley's children, Pearl Persinger, Ralph Bean, Mrs. J. W. Howard and son, Orr Kyle and Hazel Edwards.

Wednesday, tomorrow evening, occurs the convention of postmasters and rural mail carriers of Linn and Benton counties. The affair takes place in the postoffice in this city. The Albany Herald says of it: "All the postoffice force in this city including the rural carriers will attend the convention, going from here in a trolley."

Frank Bullis, the driver of the Philomath-Corvallis mail wagon, had a runaway, Saturday morning, which caused a little excitement for a few moments. The horses started in front of the postoffice and ran to the opera house corner. Mr. Bull's being in the rig but unable to stop them. They were stopped before any damage resulted.

Mr. Boyer and family have disposed of their two houses and several lots near the Covell home, and left Saturday for a place 16 miles east of Lebanon, on the Santiam, where they will reside. The property here was purchased by Richard Iwin, who will, it is stated, erect a sightly new residence on the lot immediately west of Prof. Covell's.

W. O. Heckart is shortly to begin for George W. Smith the erection of a $2000 bungalow, on lots belonging to Mr. Smith, just back of the Thomas Jones residence on college street. Mr. Smith recently sold his residence property to M. Chappell, and he now proposes to erect for himself and wife a splendid home, wherein they may enjoy their remaining years of life to the full.

David Whaley has purchased one of the Rodgers dwellings in Jobs addition and is to come to this city immediately with his family to occupy the place. Mr. Whaley has just sold his farm near Philomath to Mr. Black, a recent arrival from Alberta, who will take possession at once. The other Rodgers house has been purchased by T. A. Bulden.

Miss Gertrude Nolan was hostess at a party at her home, Friday evening, given in honor of the Ninth grade graduating class of the Corvallis public school of which she is a member. The occasion was indeed a delightful one and everyone had a jolly time. Miss Etta Sheehy was present and gave two vocal solos that were much enjoyed by the company, and Miss Blanche Hammet favored them with a well rendered instrumental solo. The refreshments were ice cream, cake and candy. Those present were: Reta Langley, Cecil Rowland, Mabel Farmer, Gracie Smith, Blanche Hammet, Lucy King, Mr. Tony, Walter Stimpson, Ruth Corbett, Ruby Rice, Mado Cadz, Jean Kent, Wells Orrett, Belva Pierce, Beatrice Austin, Virgil Avery, Elmer Thompson, Earl Heckart, Gertrude Nolan, Victor Nolan, Ira Elston, and Harry Belknap.
