COMMENCEMENT DAY. Immense Crowd Attended Exercises—The Program.

One of the largest audiences ever seen at the armory on a similar occasion was present at the graduation exercises Wednesday morning when the '07 class received diplomas and concluded four years of faithful and successful labor. The decorations in the building were fir boughs and the large class of graduates occupied a position on the platform, together with the faculty and other speakers. The chorus of singers had to occupy front seats in the audience.
The opening number was a selection, chorus from "Trovatore," by the college band, splendidly rendered and much enjoyed. The invocation was by Rev. C. T. Hurd of the United Evangelical church followed by a vocal solo by John Claire Monteith, the Portland baritone, who gracefully responded to a stormy encore.
Miss Belle Bonney, the salutatorian, then gave a brief but pointed oration on "The Prime Wisdom of Life." This prime wisdom, the speaker said, consisted not so much in a knowledge of things far remote from view as in a thorough understanding of the immediate surroundings and the common things of life. Not that women should not be broad of intellect, possessed of the best education obtainable and familiar with the arts and sciences, for these, too, should be added; but first and of prime importance is a knowledge of the necessary things of every day life—cooking, sanitary conditions in and about the home, proper ventilation, and lastly the care of children. Miss Bonney won the audience by a plain, forceful and entertaining discussion of a pertinent question, closing her oration with an attractive word picture of the ideal home where love, peace and happiness reigns and where the college bred woman as well as her less educated sister, finds the truest and best position in the world, and exercises "the prime wisdom in life" by being a successful home maker and the happy mother of a family. This oration was delivered with splendid effect and Miss Bonney was greeted with prolonged applause as she concluded.
The next was a song "soldiers' chorus" from Faust by a mixed chorus which included many of the leading vocalists of the city.
Darwin Greene Thayer was valedictorian of the '07 class. His subject was, "American Agricultural Education." As might be inferred, the oration dwelt with the subject of the establishment and advancement of the agricultural colleges throughout the land and the benefits to be derived from having educated farmers who understand the soil and conditions generally and are capable of dealing intelligently with the subject of making the farm pay. "Americans are not good farmers," declared Mr. Thayer, "for they work the soil to death for immediate gain, with no care as to its future fertility and profit," which seems indeed a pretty true statement, according to present conditions as witnessed year by year. Mr. Thayer spoke clearly and with ease, and made a very favorable impression on his hearers, who received his closing remarks with a demonstration of keen appreciation.
Miss Edna Sheehy, vocal instructor at OAC, was heard to advantage in a fine solo, "Recitative and Scene," from Der Freischutz, Weber, and was heartily encored, Hon. John M. Gearin following with an address to the class. In the beginning Mr. Gearin assured the audience that he felt unequal to the task required of him, viz: that of giving advise to the graduates of the '07 class. "The young," said the speaker, "are hard to advise, and the old are often so much in need of advice themselves that they have none to spare."

However, Mr. Gearin neither lacked for words nor good advice, and the address proved one of the best heard at an OAC commencement in years. Having a splendid command of language, a good voice and a pleasing personality, Mr. Gearin is a gentleman well qualified to speak to a class of college men and women and leave with them advice that will never be forgotten, and calculated to be of much benefit in their after life.
Prof. Gerald Taillandier next gave an excellent piano solo that was warmly received, after which Hon. J. K. Weatherford presented the diplomas to the class, John Claire Monteith sang a closing selection, the degrees were conferred by President Gatch, and the large audience was dismissed with the benediction.
Gave Her Surprise.
Remembering that it was her birthday, a party of friends gathered at the home of Rev. and Mrs. G. H. Feese Wednesday evening and gave the hostess a complete surprise.
While taken unawares, Mrs. Feese proved herself equal to the occasion and with earnest cordiality welcomed her unexpected guests and made them feel entirely at home. The hours passed quickly and pleasantly with social conversation, interspersed with a song by A. P. Johnson, a recitation by Mrs. C. E. Cummings, several stories by Dr. Cathey, remarks by Judge Waters and Mayor Lilly, and others. The company brought ice cream and cake which were served late in the evening. As a slight token of the high esteem in which Mrs. Feese is held by her friends, she was on this occasion presented with a very pretty gold chateleine pin, engraved with her initial.
Those present were: Rev. and Mrs. Feese, Prof. and Mrs. Carroll Cummings, Judge and Mrs. Watters, Mayor and Mrs. Lilly, Dr. and Mrs. Cathey, Mr. and Mrs. Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Foster, Mr. and Mrs. Al Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Wellsher, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Wells, Mr. and Mrs. Harley Hall, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Johnson; Mesdames E. K. Abraham, Forest Grove; Mason, Mahaffey, M. T. Starr; Misses Elizabeth Vance, Anna Lindgren; Lillie Pelette, Portland; Vivian Wellsher, Mr. Vance and Will Dreese.

MANY HEARD FROM. And All Enthusiastic—The Big Fair Work.

Directors—If your district's report does not appear among these reports, it is the teacher's fault.
Philomath School District No. 11.
We "Primaries" are going in for flowers mostly. Our nasturtiums and asters are doing nicely and several of us have sweet peas beginning to climb. We will have to string them right away if we wish any nice blossoms for the fair. We have planted some melons too. One little girl is sure that she will get the premium on muskmelons, and if prospects count for anything, she will make a fine showing. We may do some sewing after school closes. We haven't decided as to that yet. We do not have time for it now, for our gardens take a great deal of care. The naughty old weeds seem to be trying to win a premium too.
Primary room representative.
First Intermediate Room Philomath:
We have some fine spellers and some pupils who can win out when it comes to a ciphering match. We are trying to find out who is the penman in our room, so that we can send him to compete for the prize. We are also planning some needle work along the line of hemstitching, and button hole making. When school is out, our girls are going to can fruit and make some jelly. Oh yes, we are going to win, for we are nearly all under twelve year limit, and we can do it easily.
First Intermediate Room Representative.
Second Intermediate, Room Philomath:
We are glad to report a goodly amount of interest and enthusiasm in the work being done for the fair this fall. Good reports come from the boys and girls in regard to their success in raising flowers and garden products. Fruit canning, jelly making and butter making, hemstitching, plain sewing, spelling and writing are proving interesting to the girls, so far, while the boys talk of trying their hand at scoring and of exhibiting wheat, oats, apple and other exhibits. The room as a whole are planning on a small display which we do not care to speak of here, but which we hope will speak for itself when the time comes.
Representative Second Intermediate Room.
Grammar Department Philomath:
We are on the road to the fair, too. We are not saying much, but we do not mean to be left behind the rest of the county. One of our boys has alfalfa three feet high already. One of our girls had trouble with her pumpkin seeds. She planted them upside down and had to turn them over afterwards to keep them in the ground. Cabbage, squash, potatoes, corn and tomatoes are well under way, but would do better if it would rain more frequently. Some of our girls are fine needleworkers and they will doubtless have some specimens of their skill on exhibition. We have some good cooks too, and you need not be surprised if that flour is shipped over to Philomath next week.
Representative Grammar department.
School District No. 11.
Mr. Denman:
I herewith send report for the Wrenn school. I will say that when I left Wrenn district three months ago the pupils were working and planning quite eagerly their work for the fair. They have accepted garden seeds; but as I haven't been with them much of late, I cannot give definite reports of what they will do. I have been informed that they will have another short term of school. Then their interest will be awakened anew.

Mrs. Anna Hall Mathanew.
Funeral Monday.
The funeral of the late Mrs. Mary Bryson, which occurred from the home of E. R. Bryson at 2 p. m. Monday, was very largely attended, old friends, neighbors and acquaintances gathering to pay their respects to the departed. The services were conducted by Rev. J. R. N. Bell, and suitable music was rendered by the choir. There was a wealth of beautiful flowers, silent but eloquent tokens of the esteem in which the dead was held.
Mrs. Mary Bryson was in girlhood Mary St. Clair, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayman St. Clair, Oregon pioneers of the early '40's. Her birthplace was Santa Clara, California, 50 years and 3 months ago. Miss St. Clair was married in 1875 to John R. Bryson, who was for years a prominent attorney and one of the most highly respected citizens of this part of Oregon. He died in 1897 while in the East for medical treatment.
Mrs. Bryson was stricken with paralysis just a month before her death, and was unconscious much of the time thereafter until death came.
The survivors are E. R. and Roscoe Bryson, the former of this city and the latter of Eugene, who have the sympathy of the community in their sorrow.

Four Retained.

All but four books now in use in the common schools of Oregon have been changed by the late Text-Book Commission, and the new text books will be substituted at the beginning of the new school year. The fourth and fifth Cvr readers, the Thomas elementary history and Reed's grammar are the books retained. Civil government has been dropped entirely as a separate subject and will hereafter be taught in connection with history. The mental arithmetic has also been dropped and the mental exercises will be given with the aid of written arithmetic. In the place of the two subjects dropped, an important one has been added, that of elementary agriculture. This addition has been made in response to a very general demand.
The principal changes are the substitution of Wheeler's readers up to the third book for the Cvr readers; the adoption of Smith's arithmetics in the place of Wentworth's; the adoption of Buehler's grammars in the place of Reed & Kellogg's; the adoption of the natural geographies in the place of Fry's, and Dobs' United States history in the place of Thomas' advanced history.
The "vertical system" of writing was thrown out of the curriculum and the new text book is a semi-slant system or writing that will meet the approval of the people at large much more than the vertical style.

Oregon Activities.
