

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

John Kelly of Eugene visited in Corvallis the last of the week.

Miss Emma Sox of Albany celebrated in Corvallis and visited friends.

Mrs. Ed Blake of Condon, Oregon, is visiting relatives in Benton county.

M. L. Trapp and wife of Chitwood were Corvallis visitors the last of the week.

A. T. Grugett was in Corvallis, Friday, attending to matters of business.

"Gyp" Thurston of Suver celebrated in Corvallis and visited friends.

Miss Helen Crawford of OAC visited friends in Brownsville several days last week.

Miss Ora Harkness of Albany was the guest over the fourth of Miss Edna Groves in this city.

Mrs. Mabel Stovall-Horton of Portland is spending a few weeks with relatives in Corvallis.

Mrs. A. J. Hall returned Friday to her home in Polk county, after spending the fourth here.

George Cathey departed Friday for Seaside, to attend the encampment of the O. N. G., of which he is a member.

Thomas Wilkes came up from Hillsboro last week to attend the wedding of his son, Marion, to Miss Florence Maxfield.

Wheller Kline sprained the tendon in his wrist, Thursday evening, while enjoying the skating at the rink.

Misses Essie Adams and Frances Galt, two of Corvallis' popular girls, spent the fourth in Salem and report a jolly time.

Mrs. C. D. Abbott and two children left Friday for Kansas City, for an extended visit with relatives. They will be absent a good part of the summer.

Judge L. T. Harris of Eugene was in Corvallis, Friday, en route to Toledo. He returned to Albany, Saturday, and yesterday came back to this city to hold court.

The dance at Taylor's hall, the concluding feature of the fourth in Corvallis, was a very successful affair, 30 or 40 couples being present. Music was furnished by Harold Woodcock's orchestra.

Miss Leona Marvin left Friday for Spokane, where she will visit friends en route to her old home at Oxford, Iowa, for a month's visit with friends. She was accompanied as far as Portland by her father, J. B. Marvin.

Mrs. Martha Burnett arrived home, Thursday evening, from a three weeks' visit in Portland with her son Bruce and family. Bruce is an employee of the Union depot and has purchased a neat little home near Lents.

John Withcombe, a popular employee of the Corvallis abstract company, left Saturday noon. As he positively refused to state his destination, his friends have ever since been speculating as to whether or not it is a case of "heart trouble" that called him away so suddenly.

Dr. Kerr of OAC is scheduled to deliver an address at the fifth annual convention of the Pacific coast association of Nursery men in conjunction with the second annual cherry fair to be held at Salem the 10th, 11th and 12th. Profs. A. B. Cordley and C. I. Lewis of OAC are also to deliver addresses.

Last week we said that we saw a man hugging a girl on the Newport beach and that the girl would discount the Portland Journal prize beauty 100 per cent. There is no doubt but that the three young ladies who wrote thanking us for the compliment, are the identical one we saw.—Lincoln Leader.

Dr. E. E. Jackson was hastily summoned East last Wednesday evening by a telegram from his wife stating that their little daughter had just died. The mother and child went East several weeks ago to visit relatives. No further particulars were learned of the child's death. Mr. Jackson left on the next train after receiving the news.

M. P. Fruit, the ferryman, does not care to have the fourth come oftener than once a year. He was too ill Friday to attend to business, having been kept up until two o'clock the night before, crossing teams to the Linn county side of the river. Some idea of the crowd that came from this one direction is obtained from the record at the ferry for the day. Of teams, 194 crossed, 54 were tied up on the opposite bank, the people crossing on foot, besides which there were 19 bicyclists and 16 persons on horseback. Mr. Fruit was promised a man to assist during the day, but the helper failed to show up and Mr. Fruit had to handle the crowd alone.

Stanley Hammel was a passenger for Salem, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Shedd expect to leave today for Newport for a stay of indefinite length.

Titus Ranney, the well known Summit merchant, was a Corvallis business visitor the last of the week.

Miss Allie Reader arrived from Portland, Friday, and later proceeded to her home at Bellefontaine to remain.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Butler returned to Portland, Friday, having visited Corvallis relatives over the fourth.

Misses Vera Chambers and Pansy Peters went to Kings Valley, Saturday for a visit of indefinite length with friends.

Mrs. John Scott and Van Riley of Albany were guests of their brother, Conductor Tom Riley, and wife the fourth.

Miss M. J. Lee arrived Saturday morning from Junction City and will spend the summer in Corvallis with Mr. and Mrs. Harley Hall.

Miss Jennie Bowersox of Benton county has entered the educational contest being conducted by the Portland Journal, and many friends wish her success.

Mrs. J. Mason expects to leave today for a month's visit with her mother at Siletz. The latter was stricken with paralysis some months ago and is quite low.

John Woods and wife, W. P. Miner and wife, Ansel Pound of Kansas, and Marshall Woods departed Saturday for the mountain near Eddyville, for a week's outing.

George Edlin arrived in Corvallis Friday evening, from Portland, to meet his wife on her arrival from the coast, where she has been visiting relatives. They left for Portland, Saturday. Mr. Edlin, who is a former Corvallis citizen, is in the employ of a railroad company at present.

The funeral of Joe D. Sey, the linemen who was electrocuted in Corvallis last week, was held at Albany, Friday afternoon, at 2 o'clock. W. C. Lowe and George Jones, of the Independent company of this city, attended, and took with them a handsome floral piece as a last token of respect for their fellow-workman.

Mrs. J. Blower of Mill 4 came up Tuesday morning for a visit with her daughter, Mrs. J. W. Robertson. She was accompanied by her guest, Mrs. George Coote of Corvallis. Later in the day Mr. Blower and Prof. Coote came up via the rowboat route. Prof. and Mrs. Coote will enjoy the summer on their farm at Mill 4.—Friday's Lincoln Leader.

If the farmer isn't a prince, then it's his own fault. He has his own cream fresh from the cow, his strawberries from the patch, his eggs from the coop, his water from the stream, his vegetables from the garden, his own meat, his own flour, wood and home. If it came to a pinch, he could make his own clothes and shoes. In what other walk of life can this be done? He is the one man upon whom the whole world depends, and of all men, he is the man who should carry a heart of contentment, and a face as radiant as the noonday sun.—Ex.

One of the most popular places in Corvallis the fourth was the mountain water faucet at the Graham & Wells corner. Several cups had been placed there for the convenience of the thirsty, and from early until late the cups were in demand. A placard placed over the faucet bore the inscription "Corvallis Mountain Water," and none who drank failed to note the splendid, sparkling beverage that is Corvallis' pride and to remark about it. The fact of this faucet being so much appreciated is a strong plea for more drinking fountains in Corvallis, at convenient places, whether they be expensive or only plain, serviceable affairs where man and beast may quench their thirst.

Ned Smith carries his right arm in a sling since Wednesday night, when he figured in the capture of a runaway horse. The latter ran from the Vidito livery stable barn, with harness on and lines dragging. It ran on the sidewalk for some distance on Main street and on other side streets, frightening people nearly out of their wits and attracting large crowds who watched the outcome with interest strongly mingled with fright. As the animal dashed north on Main street Ned Smith, on horseback, gave chase, and at the Abbott feed stable both horses tried to go through the front door, in some manner dragging Smith from his horse. His right arm was broken above the wrist and the left arm was dislocated at the elbow. He was brought to the Allen drug store and later taken by automobile to his parents' home. He was able to be about town Friday.

Walter Cummings is to return today from a few days' visit in Portland.

Born, Thursday morning, July 4th, to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moller, a daughter.

Leland Gilbert of Albany was among those who enjoyed roller skating at the Corvallis rink, last Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Clark and Fred Clark left Saturday for Newport to go into camp for two weeks. Yesterday they were joined by Mrs. Fred Clark.

Mr. and Mrs. Vance Taylor left yesterday by private conveyance for the bay, where they will camp for a week, and later go to Yachats for another week's outing.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Horning of near Philomath, old Corvallisites, celebrated in Corvallis, and the following day were to go up on the Luckiamute for a week's camping trip.

Miss Ethel Burr of Philomath was the guest the last of the week of Mrs. Thia Johnson. The two left Sunday for a ten days' visit at Newport, where they will occupy the Johnson cottage.

Miss Olive Mallow arrived home the last of the week from a two weeks' visit in Portland, where she went to attend the funeral of her brother-in-law, Mr. Miller. She was accompanied home by her little niece, Rosamond Miller, who will remain indefinitely.

A nine year-old boy named Bullis is reported as having been severely burned on the back, the fourth, his clothing being ignited by fire. Bullis, which he was handling. Another little child and a lady suffered burns and had their clothing set on fire by bombs. It would seem that before another celebration rolls around there should be laws formulated to put a stop to such things as bombs being used. The small firecracker is annoying enough, but when it comes to firing bombs that fairly jar the earth and endanger life and limb, it is time to call a halt.

The good work goes on, and our friends each week seem to take a greater interest in the news columns of the Gazette and help us with many a bright, snappy item. Our work is easier when it is appreciated, and our friends are showing their interest with helpful bits of news from their several parts of town and country. The Gazette is profited, the reporter is happier and the people feel amply repaid for a few moments' trouble in sending or phoning in news when, in the next issue, they see their individual item written up and printed. It is a good thing for everyone concerned, and the kindness of our readers in giving us news is a help that is much appreciated. Let everyone join in the good work.

"The editor and wife went out to Austin Buxton's farm, Sunday, and found one of the nicest farms that we have had the pleasure of looking over for some time. Mr. Buxton has his new barn almost completed and it will be a very commodious affair with cement floor in the basement for the cow stable and ample room above for all other purposes. He has a silo and uses up-to-date methods in his farm work. We were treated to some of the finest strawberries in the land. They were of the Oregon variety and were dead ripe. Mrs. Buxton has produced some new varieties of roses and poppies, but has as yet given them no names. They are very beautiful."—Forest Grove Times. Austin Buxton is an old Corvallis boy and a graduate of OAC.

For Sale: A Champion Binder with transportation truck used a short time, almost as good as new. This is a bargain. Inquire of Melton & Pinkerton. Simpson's old stand. 57 60

The Congregational ladies conducted an ice cream stand on the court house square, the fourth, taking in something over $75.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the M. E. church feels very grateful to the public for the liberal patronage accorded it the fourth. In serving lunches, ice cream and cake they took in about $70, which was certainly a fine showing.

NOTICE.—After July 1st the undersigned will charge 7½ cents per quart for milk. We are compelled to raise the price on account of advance in all lines of feed and scarcity of labor. S. C. Dixon, W. K. Taylor. 55-58

Miss Maud McBees, a popular Benton county girl who left here last fall to enter on 160 acres of wheat land in the Horse Heaven country, Eastern Oregon, has half of her place in wheat, all of it fenced and a small house built. Land is selling there for from $15 to $20 per acre. Miss McBees expects to be ready to come home on her place Dec. 11. She certainly merits all the success that can come her way, as a reward for true pluck and energy.

The last number of the "Pacific Homestead" contains an item that was sent in from Monroe, which is of interest in Benton. It says: "Messrs. W. K. Newell and J. Carmichael of Gaston and W. H. Dean of Monroe attended the sale of the prize-winning herd of Frank H. Burke at the La Siesta ranch near San Jose, California, on June 8, and purchased twenty-eight head of registered stock—twenty-seven cows and heifers and one bull—which will be the foundation of three full-blood herds from which a good report is expected to be made in the future."

Cherries for everybody at the old Benson farm at ten cents a gallon. Inquire of Mrs. L. L. Brooks. 54tf

The city's exchequer was enriched by the sum of $50 as a result of arrests made on the fourth because of drunken and disorderly conduct. While the aggregate of fines seems quite large, the day was, on the contrary, one of the most quiet and orderly of the kind ever celebrated in Corvallis, and no disturbances occurred. The arrests made were due to the vigilance of the officers of the city who are supposed to keep order in all occasions and the fact that those who did not "see the mark" in point of conduct were called to account, is a thing to which all loyal, law-abiding citizens can point with pride.

R. L. Smith and T. C. Sparkman will sell real estate under the name of "The Santiam Land Co.," with office at Lebanon. 43tf

S. I. Pratt of the vicinity of Philomath transacted business in Corvallis, Saturday.

Report has reached this city of the death a few days ago, by a peculiar accident, of a fine, $300 mare belonging to Clyde Tomlinson of Wells. The owner was riding the animal along the public road, conversing with friends who were riding in a buggy, when suddenly the mare stepped on a stick, which broke and flew up, entering the abdomen to the depth of several inches. For a moment there was no sign of trouble, and then the stick flew out and the blood gushed in a heavy stream from the wound, the poor beast bleeding to death in an hour or less.

For Sale—Span of mares, aged 5 and 6 years, at a bargain. Animals can be seen at farm. Sam Whiteside, Jr., Corvallis. 55tf

Reuben Kiger, a respected citizen of this city, who has been ill for some time, is gradually growing weaker, although suffering less pain than formerly. He is unable to leave the house and lounges about most of the time. Many friends wish him a return to health in the near future.

Wood wanted on subscription at the Gazette office. 34tf

Back in Lisbon, North Dakota, a former Corvallis girl sat last week and ate luscious ripe cherries that grew on her father's cherry trees, just west of this city. She was Mrs. Lottie Rice-Robinson who was married March 30th and went to make her home in the East. The cherries were dipped in paraffine and packed in a box, reaching their destination in as perfect condition as they came off the trees. "I could hardly keep from crying when I ate them," writes Mrs. Robinson to her sister Lulu, who sent them, "for they tasted exactly as though they had just been picked, and it made me homesick for Oregon." Miss Lulu Rice declares her intention of dipping peaches in paraffine and sending them East, later in the season, as an experiment.

The Oak Creek Lumber Company has established a yard in Wilkins' Addition, and has on hand for sale a complete stock of rough and dressed lumber. Merle Moore is in charge of the yard and will be pleased to fill your bills. 54tf

Rev. and Mrs. P. A. Moses left Sunday for Crawfordville for a two weeks' visit with relatives.
