Children in Pain

Never cry as do children who are suffering from hunger. Such is the cause of all babies who cry and are treated for sickness, when they really are suffering from hunger. This is caused from their food not being assimilated but devoured by worms. A few doses of White's Cream Vermifuge will cause them to cease crying and begin to thrive at once. Give it a trial. NEWPORT WAVES.

And a Few Observations Thrown In—A Visit to the Lighthouse.

Camp Content, Nye Creek, Or. Aug. 12, 1907. ED. GAZETTE:

Have you ever made the trip from Nye Creek to the lighthouse at Cape Foulweather, on a windy day, going by beach as far as possible and then climbing up steep bluffs to the trail on top of the mountain, hanging by the skin of your teeth to the face of a cliff while 200 feet below you the old Pacific dashed and roared? If not, you have missed a rare experience in life and one that, once gone through, is enough to satisfy even the most exacting, providing the wind is almost a hurricane, as it was today, and the sand and dirt filled eyes and hair as you clung frantically to your head gear and forged ahead.

Leaving camp at 8:40 this forenoon five of us made the trip along the beach, reaching the government domain at 10:45. En route we spent much time watching the maneuvers of a large school of whales that have been living close in to shore for a week. They are after the herring which are running now, and the antics of these monsters is one of the sights of the beach that is really worth seeing. Today, several whales were so close to the beach that we could see them as plainly as we could any object 50 feet away. With a big puff they continually threw the fore part of their bodies out of the water, and a man on the bluff fired several shots at them, two of which caused the whales to send up a big shower of spray as they dashed away.

Reaching the lighthouse one is requested to register, and then begins the ascent of the iron spiral stairway that leads to the top of the high tower. Up, up, up one goes, and finally stands by the side of the immense light that throws its rays 19 miles out to sea, night after night, warning passing vessels of the dangers that lurk inland. "The tower shakes when the wind blows a gale," said the man who watches the light; but when asked if the task did not grow burdensome, especially in the winter, he replied, "No, for there is plenty to do to keep me busy all the time."

This light is a huge brass lamp of 500 candle power, surrounded by a glass reflector on all sides, the prisms so arranged that the rays of light are focused and concentrated in such a manner that they are thrown out 19 miles to sea. The reflected light is 8,780 candle power. The tower is 81 feet from the base to the center of the light, and the light is 161 feet above sea level. Coal oil of a fine quality is used for the lamp. Everything about the lighthouse is substantial and scrupulously clean, and the government employees are polite and entertaining.

On the trip to this point two steamers were sighted far out, headed northward.

After eating lunch in the yard surrounding the tower, we began the homeward trip, the wind having increased until it was with great difficulty and discomfort that we reached camp at 2:30. It is an eight mile tramp, but one soon forgets to complain of distance, dirt, bluffs, and other difficulties when camped at this resort. Nye Creek and Newport, blessed by nature in the way of natural advantages, could easily be made into ideal resorts that would enjoy the patronage of the majority of pleasure-seekers in the Willamette Valley. As it is, however, there is nothing save what nature has provided: no clean, nicely arranged camping sites and kindred accommodations are here, but fern and salal brush grow unrestricted and even for these plants of ground the charges are, to say the least, sufficient—from the campers' standpoint, at least. It is a great place to develop an appetite and everything "looks good" in the line of edibles.

It is also a great place for the development of freckles and "nerve." The former are as numerous as the sands on the beach, while "nerve" seems to be the rule, especially among the "younger set," judging from appearance. "On the beach" is a condition that seems to establish a free masonry among the young men and women that leads to great jollity and merriment.

The amusements are the dance hall and the skating rink. Is the atmosphere elevating? This is a question that seems to cause very little concern among the devotees of the beach. Surf bathing is enjoyed by a large crowd each day, and "good form" or "bad form" it is all the same—everybody bathes, even "father." Some of the freaks who appear on the sands in abbreviated costumes, and disport themselves in the waves would surely have the grace to blush could see themselves as others see them. Possibly this would work a hardship on the proprietor of the bath house; however, for few indeed are the women who look pretty in a sopping, water soaked suit, minus sleeves and decent length of skirt, and where is the female who does not, at all times and places, aim to be pretty? Lacking this element she lacks one of the essentials of true womanliness. Since, however, she is happy in her ignorance of how she looks to others in a bathing suit, she will continue, no doubt, to add to the entertainment and amusement of the on lookers at this resort for time immemorial. "So mote it be."

A Good Trade.

Every boy, no matter how rich or how poor his ancestry, should learn thoroughly some good trade, so that if his circumstances become reversed at any time he could immediately do service at his trade and start again on a successful road to prosperity. The printing trade is not only artistic when completely learned, but it is also highly educational in every particular, and one of the best trades that anyone can learn, as opportunity for labor is ever ready each working day in the year.

There is one of the best opportunities in all the land for a young man of steady habits, good principles, well educated, having a will to work and excel, to learn the printing trade in the Gazette office. Proper explanation will be given on application. 671f

Vaughn, Etba, Ala., writes: "Being a constant sufferer from constipation and a disordered liver, I have found Herbine to be the best medicine for these troubles on the market. I have used it constantly. I believe it to be the best medicine of its kind, and I wish all sufferers from these troubles to know the good Herbine has done me." Sold by Graham & Wortham.

BIG TIMBER DEAL.

Local Capitalist Disposes of Tract in Benton County.

Negotiations are understood to be pending between M. B. Rankin, of Portland, and a syndicate of timber buyers whereby the latter will secure title to 30,000 acres of timber land in Benton county, says the Oregonian of the 13th. The deal involves approximately $1,500,000.

Timber cruisers have been sent out to re-estimate the standing timber on these lands. A party of 30 men has left for Corvallis to go through the Rankin tracts and report the quantity of timber on the 30,000 acres. It is understood this work will require a month. The deal will not be closed until this estimate is complete.

The land included in the deal is nearly all in Benton county, but some of it lies in Lincoln near the Benton border. The tract is all in one body and is said to be as fine a tract of standing fir timber as there is on the Pacific Coast.

M. B. Rankin is said to have been securing the individual tracts in Benton county surrounding his original holding for the past few months. At present he holds the entire tract of 30,000 acres in one holding.

The deal now pending is one of the largest transactions of the year in Oregon timber lands. The fact that Oregon timber is being so eagerly sought shows how desirous outside people are of obtaining it and it proves the increasing value of Oregon fir.

At Fischer's Mill.

Everything is activity in about this mammoth institution getting ready for the fall business and the buying and storing of grain. It is needless to enlarge upon this important enterprise as it has stood through the wintry blasts of business depression and enjoyed the sunshine of prosperity adding new strength and power to itself in the commercial world until it stands today recognized as one of the best and strongest institutions in a financial sense on the Pacific coast.

The output from this mill carries upon the sack of flour an advertisement not only along the Pacific coast but the shipment extends beyond the ocean to tell them of our progress, enterprise and possibilities as a home for the weary wander seeking a home for his loved ones.

Like the rich man of old it becomes necessary to tear down the old barn as they advance in prosperity and build greater, and hence on the bank of the Willamette will stand a new grain, hay and storage warehouse 80x100 containing 75000 feet of lumber which will be completed during the next three weeks.

The output of these mills is 500 barrels per day and they did a business last year amounting to $250,000. This amount of money scattered among the farming community yearly makes many happy homes and draws to our town trade for a long distance thus benefiting every branch of business and helping to build a town. They employ yearly on an average 24 men making a neat little pay roll. A spur to connect them with the railroad would add greatly to their shipping facilities and would certainly provoke a smile of satisfaction from Mr. Fisher.

All-Benton School Fair Parade.

The grand parade at the All-Benton School Fair will be one of the largest ever seen in Benton county. It is expected nearly 2000 school children will be in line and we hope to see our business men sustain the reputation of Corvallis in point of interest in everything pertaining to the success of the fair.

State Grand Master Buxton and Grand Lecturer Clara Waldo have assured the committee of their presence and every grange in the county will be here, and Corvallis Grange must not forget its duty.

It is the first time in the history of the state that the Governor and United States Senator have ever reviewed the school children and let us make it so grand, so orderly and imposing that it will never be forgotten.

The committee has made arrangements for free mountain water on the flats where farmers can tent in comfort with their families.

There is great enthusiasm all over the county among the children and you may expect to see an immense crowd of people. Don't let the circus entice you away as you can see a show any time and never but once a show like we are going to have. If you miss it you will be sorry when you hear your neighbor talk about it.

The aids to Grand Marshall Withycombe will be: Philomath, R. O. Loggan, S. W. Gibbons, W. F. Caldwell, Arthur Pugsley, R. W. Pugh and Robert Gellatley; Wells, John Harris and Virgil Carter; Fairmount, H. J. Reese and T. J. Risley; Willamette, R. H. Scott and J. W. Jones; Bellefontain, J. H. Edwards and J. E. Williams; Monroe, Charles Cartright and E. H. Belknap; Wren, Wiley Matheny and William McGee; Alsea, Marion Hayden and George Vernon; Kings Valley, Thomas Allen and John McCallum; Blodgett, W. A. Gellatley and William Vanalstyne; Summit, R. R. Miller and Charles Scott; Lobster, Samuel Bowen and George Peters; Corvallis, W. G. Davis, Walter Wiles, A. C. White, D. A. Osburn, Virgil E. Watters, D. D. Berman, E. J. Newton, G. A. Robinson, M. P. Burnett, E. E. Wilson, J. H. Harris, John Allen, F. L. Miller and J. O. Miller.

Additional Local.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Brague and Mrs. R. L. Whitehead left yesterday morning for Alsea to join Mr. Whitehead in a week's outing.

John Moullet is to return tomorrow from Marion county where he has been for the purpose of buying a farm.

Laurence Rodgers of Astoria is the guest this week of Corvallis friends. He arrived Wednesday.

Mrs. Francis Risen of Oakland, Calif., has arrived for a visit with her sister, Mrs. Iva McBee, and other Benton county relatives. She will remain three months.

The building on Main Street formerly owned by August Fischer but later by Wade Malone of Alsea, occupied by the Bazaar, has again changed hands. The purchaser is Mr. Whaley, who has opened a real estate office next door south of the Bazaar.

Mrs. Fred Case of Seattle is visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Stroud, in this city.

Mrs. Vance Taylor is spending a week with her mother, Mrs. Janette Smith, west of Corvallis.

Prof. Pernot started bayward yesterday with his handsome new steam launch, mention of the construction of which appeared in the Gazette a few issues ago.

O. J. Blackledge arrived home Tuesday evening from a business trip to Portland. Samuel Whiteside, Sr., has purchased and is to occupy the Jim Horning place in the southwest part of town.

J. C. Hammel is moving to Albany, where he is to operate the hotel formerly known as the Revere House. Local draymen have been engaged in hauling the goods to Albany the past two days. Corvallis regrets to lose Mr. Hammel and his estimable family, but all join in wishing them well.

Word has been received that Arthur St. Clair is lying at death's door with typhoid fever, at his home in Eureka, Calif. He is an old-time Corvallisite and a brother of Mrs. Inez Wilson of this city, and the latter departed on the noon train yesterday for Portland, from whence she was to sail last night on the steamer Rossmore for Eureka, to be at the bedside.
