HERO AT HOP YARD.

May Receive Carnegie Medal—
A Splendid Act of Daring.

The stories one reads of heroic deeds are outdone in everyday life many, many times if only the facts were known, and many a plain, seemingly common place person has within them power and depth of character undreamed of by even their best friends. A case of this kind is related in an Oregonian dispatch from the Krebs hop yard at Independence, Friday, when a slender, pale faced boy of 17 performed a deed of heroism for which he should and perhaps will receive a Carnegie medal. The story is as follows:

A splendid feat of strength and courage was performed here by Michel Haney, a boy 17 years old. He saved, under the most trying conditions, a drowning man who was fighting for life in one of the rapids of the upper Willamette.

Harry Howard, a young man from Portland, who is employed in Krebs Brothers big hop yard, had waded across shallow water of the lagoon immediately above the rapids. He had not intended to bathe and was fully dressed. In this condition the young explorer tried to cross the river on the rocks, a trick done sometimes in lower water. A slip of the foot, a great cry for help, and Howard was struggling in a whirlpool 20 feet deep. Impeded by big heavy shoes and dragged down by clinging garments, he was powerless to fight against the strength of the sucking water.

The current at this point of the river bears heavily against the western bank. Howard succeeded in swimming there but the steepness of the bank and the swiftness of the stream kept him from gaining a foothold. In the meantime Michael Haney had rushed to the bank, holding out his hand for Howard to grasp. The big man took hold, but the strain was too much for the young strength of the boy. He was dragged into the whirlpool. Both men were sucked to the bottom. Howard's vitality was gone and he gripped the boy around the body. Haney struggled fiercely against the current and the drowning man's clutch. Inch by inch he swam to the surface and by superhuman strength pulled Howard with him. Then began the battle with death, in which the slim youngster fought single-handed until he reached the shore. Others had gathered there and lifted the helpless man from the water.

Howard was unconscious, but an hour's work restored him to life. Haney was exhausted by his efforts, which eye witnesses say were beyond all belief. His strength was miraculous for Howard weighs nearly twice as much as the boy.

Haney has been picking hops at Krebs'. He is slight, pale, little figure with thin lips. The muscles of his body are small and his shoulders are stooped. In looks he is a mere child. The great feat can be explained only by will power and this is the main characteristic of the boy's gray eyes. He is working his way through the world. No one seems looking out for the little fellow. He loses every cent he carried in the water, together with the package of hop checks that represented his two weeks' labor. A subscription has been started for him among the men of the hop yards by the Y. W. C. A. That association is also taking steps to have him recommended for the Carnegie medal for bravery.

Pleasant Social Event.

Thursday evening a business meeting of the Young People's Endeavor of the Christian church was held at the home of Amy and Nellie Cameron, at which the following officers for the year were elected: President, Everett Allen; vice president, Julia Fuller; recording secretary, Maud Mattley; corresponding secretary, Nellie Cameron; treasurer, Myra Hukill; organist, Ina True; chorister, Ernest A. Hudson.

The date of the meeting was also the first anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mr. John Howard. The latter was formerly Miss Etta Fuller, of this city. The evening was somewhat of a reminder of the wedding of one year ago. After the election of officers, the remainder of the evening was spent in conversation, and light refreshments were served. All present wished Mr. and Mrs. Howard many more years of happy wedded life, as the first and past year had been, and a bon bon dish and olive dish were presented the young couple by the guests.

Those present were Mesdames T. S. Handsaker and John Howard; Misses Lela Dobell, Julia Fuller, Ina True, Myra Hukill, Lizzie Thrasher, Hazel Raber and Nellie Cameron; Messrs T. S. Handsaker, John Howard, C. M. Coffey, Frank Van Hoosen, John Morley, I. L. Rowe, Amy Cameron and F. C. Eving.

Against C. & E.

B. F. Jones has embodied his charges against the Corvallis & Eastern Railway company in a formal complaint presented to the railway commission the last of the week. He says 10,000 passengers passed over the line to Newport from Corvallis between June 1 and September 1 and as a result of the overcrowded condition the lives of the passengers were endangered.

Hundreds of ties in the road are so rotten that they will not hold the spikes. The complaint further says that the company sells tickets on a boat in Yaquina bay which has only a capacity of 100 and often 350 people are on the boat and house-scow on top; that through tickets are sold discriminating against safe boats, and names July 24 and August 19 as days when the train was crowded.

As a separate complaint Jones charges discrimination in freight rates. He says the company charges $60 to $63 per carload on freight from Toledo and Elk City to Albany, and only half that amount from Mills, on the end of the road east of Albany.

A Good Trade.

Every boy, no matter how rich or how poor his ancestry, should learn thoroughly some good trade, so that if his circumstances become reversed at any time he could immediately do service at his trade and start again on a successful road to prosperity. The printing trade is not only artistic when completely learned, but it is also highly educational in every particular and one of the best trades that anyone can learn, as opportunity for labor is ever ready each working day in the year.

There is one of the best opportunities in all the land for a young man of steady habits, good principles, well educated, having a will to work and excel, to learn the printing trade in the Gazette office. Proper explanation will be given on application.

HAD THRILLING EXPERIENCE. Corvallis People Swept out to Sea at Newport.

There was talk around town Saturday morning of a thrilling experience that had befallen a party of Corvallisites at Newport Friday evening, and although a telephone message from a member of the party, received by a Corvallis relative, denies the story, full details of the affair appear in Saturday night's Telegram. The story, as related in that paper, is given here for what it is worth, as the report cannot be verified:

Newport, Or., Sept. 14.—What narrowly missed being a fatal termination to a salmon-trotting party and the loss of five lives occurred last night, when a party of fishing enthusiasts, including Mr. and Mrs. Robert Huston, of Corvallis; Mr. and Mrs. Callahan and Professor Perrot, of the Oregon Agricultural college, went trolling for salmon in Professor Perrot's new gasoline launch, the Eddy.

All went well with the fishers, who had proceeded to the mouth of the harbor, when the engine suddenly ceased to work. A strong tide was running, and the party was rapidly being carried out to sea. Its signals of distress were observed by Coast-guardman Cover, of the Newport Lifesaving Station, who notified Captain Wellender, in Newport. Wellender got his boat ready and started in pursuit of the rapidly drifting launch. After a long chase the derelict was overhauled. A line was passed on board, and the Eddy was safely towed into the harbor.

The fishing party was badly frightened by the experience.

Philomath Snapshots.

The weather continues fine. The Fair is a thing of the past. The hops are being picked and the prunes are being gathered.

A vast multitude has migrated to the hop-yards and prune orchards. It is probably best not to name those who have gone. It would be a much more simple plan to chronicle the names of the few who remain.

In the local yards these crops are being harvested as rapidly as possible. Mrs. Anna Fehler, Cora, Jessie and Harry Fehler are gathering the prunes in the Crabtree and Black, formerly Whaley, orchards. The crop is not heavy. It is estimated that something over one thousand bushels will be gathered from these orchards if the weather will permit.

Mr. J. W. Roth and daughter Ola returned from Amity to their home south of Philomath to take charge of the hop yard during the picking of the crop. They were accompanied by Minnie Woodman, Hallie Olderman, Earnest Green, and Arthur Glendon from Amity.

Hop picking commenced in the Hartless yard a week ago last Thursday and finished the following Monday. The same pickers are employed in the Roth yard. There are some eighty pickers and employment for a few more.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hunter were at the sea-side from Saturday to Monday.

Last Thursday forenoon some careless hunter or some miscreant dealt havoc among one of the half dozen bands of turkeys roaming on the Wyatt ranch. Several young turkeys were found, shot dead and upon investigation a dozen turkeys were found missing. Some one was trespassing, hunting birds in the closed season, and proving himself a nuisance generally. Hunters, beware!

Mrs. Sarah Pimm departed last Saturday for a visit to Kansas of six or eight weeks' duration. Mr. Pimm and young daughter Miss Cora, accompanied her to Corvallis.

G. E. Taylor is steadily improving from his recent illness and is in the convalescing stage. Many will be glad to learn that he is recovering.

On last Monday, Willard Procter, who has been a resident of this place for a year or so, was taken before the County Judge and was proven insane. He is thirty-eight years old and has a wife and family living here. He has been afflicted for some time and was taken to a sanitarium a number of months ago. He returned home several months ago, however, but was not fully recovered. He was taken to the State Hospital for the insane last Tuesday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Simms departed for Portland last Monday, where she was met by her daughter, Mrs. Susan Nickerson, who accompanied her to her home at St. Johns. Mrs. Simms was accompanied to Corvallis by her niece, Miss Springer.

Chas. Newth, who is home from Castle Rock, Wash., where he has been for some time, is threatened with typhoid fever. He is quite ill at the home of his father, Dr. C. H. Newth.

Mrs. Will Haines, who has been visiting with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Norris Newton, returned to her home at Forest Grove last week.

Miss Evadna Springer has been employed to teach the school in the Evergreen district to begin on the fourteenth of October.

Mr. and Mrs. Blackerby from Bandon, Oregon, who have been visiting relatives here returned to their home last week.

Miss Isabelle Gray, who is at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gray in Pleasant Valley came into too close proximity with a yellow jackets' nest last Sunday, and although her head is almost swollen to the size of two, she has barely the sight of one eye. Miss Gray arrived home from Redding Calif. where she had been employed in the public schools, about the first of July and expects to remain for some time.

Prof. Dan Cockrane has resigned as principal of the Philomath public school and instructor of the seventh, eighth and ninth grades on account of ill health. He is being treated by a specialist of Portland for an affliction of the ears and can not take up the work in school here. The board met Thursday night and elected Prof. O. V. White to fill the position of principal at Philomath.

Last Sunday at 9 o'clock p. m. Lumen Robert Ray died at his residence two miles west of Philomath of tuberculosis of the stomach. Mr. Ray formerly lived in Lobster valley. He was born in Trumble county, Ohio on the 9th of September, 1841 and died on the 8th of September, 1907. Had he lived one day longer he would have been just sixty-six years old. He leaves a wife and family. The remains were interred at the Newton cemetery last Tuesday.

The ninth grade of the Philomath school is to take up book-keeping this year in addition to other work.
