Breeding the Coach Horse.

Now that horse breeding has once more become worth while, the opportunity for some enterprising farmer to raise fine coach horses was never better.

There are several ways of making a start, writes a breeder in Country Gentleman. One can go to the city market, watch the sales and pick up a good mare about fifteen and one-half hands and with the general conformation of the horse shown in the illustration from Sanders' "Horse Breeding"—an example of the French coach type. Such a mare must have style, action, ranginess and finish if she is to be a profit maker. Her feet, even though they may be temporarily in bad shape from pounding the pavement, should be made of fine, dense material, with fine, strong bones in her legs and clean, strong joints. The hair should be soft, the skin pliant and fine; bright expressive eyes, fine head, well set, upright ears and fine hair in the mane and tail.

Such a mare will cost about $250, and when bred to a French coach stallion her offspring will be something worth owning.

Another way to start, which to the writer's thinking would be more interesting, would be pick out a big rangy mare of the trotter type, with a good deep, capacious body, broad across the loin and deep from loin to flank. The back should be of moderate length, with broad, deep hind quarters and hips thrown well forward; a broad, roomy pelvis and well developed mammary glands. The head should be "clean" cut, with active, upright ears. Dr. J. C. Curryer sums up these different points in a few words: "The character of a brood mare, both for constitution, soundness, disposition, habits and regular breeder, together with motherly inclinations and a good milker, is an essential feature that no one versed in the business should overlook."

Now, having selected such an animal, let us take her to a pure Arabian stallion. The result will be a horse about fifteen and a half to sixteen hands high, weighing about 1,200 pounds, with a fine carriage, plenty of action and life, intelligence and moderate speed. When we consider that the famous French coach horse was produced by crossing an Arabian on an English thoroughbred it seems that the cross here suggested should give us some excellent foundation stock. The most promising young stallions should be kept and bred to trotting bred mares. While the result would be more or less an experiment I think it would be worth trying, and any one who succeeds in producing a fine American coach horse should receive a rich reward.

To Cure Halter Breaking. Horses are not naturally vicious, and with proper attention in colthood bad habits would never be found, says a horse journal. The habits can generally be broken by intelligent management. A very troublesome habit is that of halter breaking. Once a horse finds he can break the halter he is everlastingly at it. To cure the habit is not nearly so easy as to keep the horse from learning it. However, two tried remedies for halter breakers are herein given. Horses that are inclined to pull and break their halters when fastened in the stall have often been cured in the following way: Two straps are lightly attached to a rope which passes through a ring fastened in the end of the halter strap. The halter strap passes through a ring in the stall. If a horse endeavors to go backward suddenly he finds that the harder he pulls the greater is the tendency to draw his fore legs from under him. A few attempts will cure even the worst halter puller. Another simple and effective method is worked out by the use of a long rope. One end of the rope is first attached to the manger. The rope is then threaded through the lower ring in the halter, back between the front legs, then over the back and down under the belly, between the front legs again and up through the ring to the other end and then tied to the halter. The halter breaker will soon find a surprise in store for him when he leans back against the rope, as the pull comes on his own back instead of on the rope.

Eastern rugs challenge machinery to imitate them. The Persian shah's proscription of aniline dyes, which were at one time ruining the industry, is well known. Curiously, excellent Asiatic rugs are now made in the heart of Europe. The Austrian government has in Sarajevo a school of oriental carpet making for Christian women, whose reproductions of old rugs are bought by Baron Rothschild and other collectors—Argonaut.

Letter From Commission.

The Gazette is in receipt of a letter from the Oregon Railroad Commission, addressed to the shippers of this section, which is here given in full:

A great many complaints are being filed daily with the Commission of shippers who are unable to get cars and it is evident from the information we receive that shippers are going to suffer far more this fall than last from the car shortage.

The commission is investigating the matter and hearings will be held at early date with a view of ascertaining the real cause of the shortage, placing the blame where it belongs, and securing some relief for the shippers of this state.

In conducting such an investigation it is necessary to have the co-operation of the shippers and we ask that you be prepared, when called upon, to furnish some definite information covering your experience in securing cars during the last thirty days.

You will be duly advised when the matter comes up for a hearing. In the meantime would be pleased to hear from you.

Resolutions of Condolence.

Whereas, It has been the will of Almighty God to call our much esteemed and beloved brother, Bonham W. Tom, to give an account of his stewardship, and to remove him from among us. Though we bow in humble submission to the will of our All-wise and loving Father, still we mourn the loss of a cheerful, kind and faithful brother and the family the loss of a loving son and brother; Therefore, be it

Resolved, By Alesia Grange, No. 269, that we extend to the bereaved family of our departed brother our sincere condolence in this hour of their sorrow and trust that this great bereavement was sent for his good by a just God; be it further

Resolved, That our charter be draped in mourning as a tribute of love and esteem for our deceased brother, and that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this Grange, a copy sent to the afflicted family and also printed in the local paper. Respectfully submitted in C. H. and F.

Bad Symptoms.

The woman who has periodical headaches, backache, sees imaginary dark spots, or speaks floating or dancing before her eyes, has gnawing distress or heavy full feeling in stomach, faint spells, dragging-down feeling in lower abdominal or pelvic region, easily startled or excited, irregular or painful periods, with or without pelvic catarrh, is suffering from weaknesses and derangements that should have early attention. Not all of above symptoms are likely to be present in any case at one time.

Neglected or badly treated and such cases often run into maladies which demand the surgeon's knife if they do not result fatally.

No medicine extant has such a long and numerous record of cures in such cases as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. No medicine has such a strong professional endorsement of each of its several ingredients—worth more than any number of ordinary non-professional testimonials. The very best ingredients known to medical science for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments enter into its composition. No alcohol, harmful, or habit-forming drug is to be found in the list of its ingredients printed on each bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. In any condition of the female system, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription can do only good—never harm. Its whole effect is to strengthen, invigorate and regulate the whole female system and especially the pelvic organs. When these are deranged in function or affected by disease the stomach and other organs of digestion become sympathetically deranged, the nerves are weakened, and a long list of bad, unpleasant symptoms follow. Too much must not be expected of this "Favorite Prescription." It will not perform miracles; will not cure tumors—no medicine will. It will often prevent them, if taken in time, and thus the operating table and the surgeon's knife may be avoided.

Women suffering from diseases of long standing, are invited to consult Doctor Pierce by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser (1000 pages) is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps for paper-covered, or 31 stamps for cloth-bound copy. Address as above.

An Ounce of Prevention

Is worth a pound of cure. There are many sufferers, Consumptives who are hopeless of getting well—who, if they had taken care of themselves, would now be well. A cough is the foundation of Consumption. Ballard's Horehound Syrup will cure that cough. Mrs. S., Great Falls, Montana, writes: "I have used Ballard's Horehound Syrup in my family for years. My children never suffer with coughs." Sold by Graham & Wortham.
