CORVALLIS LYCEUM COURSE.
Something About the Numbers to be Given—Begins Monday.

The Corvallis Lyceum Course opens Monday night with a lecture by Prof. Frederick Starr of the University of Chicago, entitled "The Truth About the Congo." Prof. Starr traveled 8000 miles in the heart of Africa to learn the truth about the alleged atrocities under the rule of King Leopold and gives an absorbingly interesting account of twelve months' travel in all parts of the Congo country.

This is the first number of the best and most popular lyceum course ever offered to a Corvallis audience. There are five entertainments secured at a cost of over $700, including two of the most noted lecturers on the platform today, two extremely popular musical numbers and a Rogers-Grilley Recital.

- The dates and entertainments are:
- Oct. 21—Prof. Frederick Starr of Chicago University. Lecture, "The Truth About the Congo."
 - Dec. 12—The Slayton Jubilee Singers.
 - Feb. 20—A Rogers-Grilley Recital.
 - March 12—Dr. Thomas E. Green. Lecture, "Left Handed Men."
 - April 10—The Dunbar Company. Male Quartette and Bell Ringers.

Prof. Starr is a world authority upon anthropology and at the same time an extremely able lecturer. His lecture will let us know what is going on in Leopold's African empire.

There have been several troupes of jubilee singers who have pleased Corvallis people in the past but none have been so large as the Slayton Company who are considered the best jubilee singers on the road today.

The Rogers-Grilley Recitals have proved universally satisfactory wherever given in the East. Mr. Rogers is a classical artist upon the harp, and Mr. Grilley is the author of many humorous skits, coon songs and pathetic pieces which he sings and recites. His impersonations are particularly good. This promises to be one of the most unique and varied entertainments ever offered to a Corvallis audience.

In Dr. Thomas E. Green the management believe they have secured as able a lecturer as the Bureau offers this year. The fact that he is paid $15,000 a year for a number of years successively to deliver 100 lectures and is the only man who has been engaged year after year at the Bay View Chautauqua at Petrosky, Mich., is suggestive of his popularity. He is considered the best Masonic lecturer in this country. His lectures deal with the pressing social problems of the day.

The Dunbar Bell-ringers have the largest equipment of bells in use today and are a still better company than the one which appeared here two years ago. Their vocal and recitation parts are very strong.

The tickets are sold upon the popular plan of last year. First class tickets permit reservation of seats in the parquet and first row in the balcony. Second class permit the reservation of all other seats. Tickets may be had of canvassers, of M. M. Long, and of Graham & Wortham. The reservation of seats for holders of season tickets begins at Graham & Wortham's drug store at 8 o'clock, Saturday morning. Season tickets $2.50 and $1.50. Single tickets 75c.

Kerr-Irvine Wedding.

A ripple of surprise spread over this city Tuesday evening when it became known that Miss Edna Irvine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Irvine, the bright and talented young actress, had been married at Madison, Wisconsin, Tuesday October 1st, to Horace W. Kerr, son of President W. J. Kerr of the Oregon Agricultural College.

The young people met early in the summer during a vacation visit home of Miss Irvine, and the romance then begun has ended in the usual way.

Mr. Kerr expected to take a course in law in Madison but has accepted a position in Chicago where, with his attractive bride, he is now located.

Miss Irvine grew to young womanhood in Corvallis. She always displayed marked literary and dramatic talent and after spending a year in Emerson's School of Oratory in Boston, and later studying with Miss Rose Eytting the actress, in Portland, she decided to go on the stage. Last year she was with a road company which played in the leading cities of the East and met with good success in her chosen profession.

She left Corvallis a few weeks ago intending, as her friends supposed, to join a theatrical company for the coming season, but Cupid appears to have sidetracked her and likewise altered the plans of Mr. Kerr who had started to Wisconsin to study law.

Their friends unite in good wishes and congratulations.

A Business Minister.

One of the Methodist ministers who was promoted at the recent conference was D. H. Leech, of Woodburn, where he served acceptably for nearly four years.

He has been appointed to serve the Corvallis church of the same denomination.

Mr. Leech is one of the strongest class of ministers who inject practical, every day methods into their work and reach out and command the respect of business men generally.

He is one of the men who dress in business suits, who do not take radical views unless involving important matters of principle, and serves the cause he represents by keeping in touch with all the classes and conditions of men, and that without comprising the dignity and sanctity of the honorable calling.

He will find his services appreciated in Corvallis, a town that is full of men who want to do right in this world without too much expectation of reward in the next.

That kind of men are growing more numerous and they meet a minister of the D. H. Leech character half-way in his efforts to inculcate religious truth. —Daily Capital Journal, Editorial.

CLOSED WEDNESDAY NIGHT.
After Interesting Session—The Program in Full.

The twenty-fifth annual convention of the Benton county Sunday School Association was convened at the M. E. church, South, in this city Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and closed its deliberations Wednesday evening, having had a most profitable and interesting meeting.

The meeting was in charge of the state field worker, Rev. C. A. Phipps, who was ably assisted by all the leading Sunday School workers and evangelists of the county.

Quite a number of delegates were in attendance and these were entertained in Corvallis homes during the two days' meeting.

The convention began with a song and prayer service Tuesday afternoon, led by C. T. Hurd. The address of welcome was by Mayor George E. Lilly and the response by Prof. Henry Sheak of Philomath. Following the organization, appointment of committees and roll call, there was a round table conference, "The Teachers" by Rev. Phipps; special music, and an address, "What Attitude Should the S. S. take on Temperance Reform?" by C. T. Hurd.

The evening session began with an interesting song service led by Dr. B. A. Cathey, followed by "Organization of Benton county S. S. Association," Hon. J. A. Henkle; address, "The First S. S. Convention of Benton County" by A. W. Herbet, and another address, "Twenty-five Years of Organized S. S. Work" by Rev. C. A. Phipps.

Wednesday morning the song and prayer service was led by Rev. T. S. Handsaker; then followed a business session and open parliament on "Adult Movement," including men's, women's, young men's and young women's classes led by Rev. Phipps. A reading by the teacher of elocution of Philomath college was followed by an address, "The Book We Teach and Why" by Rev. J. R. N. Bell.

The afternoon program began at 1:30 with a praise service conducted by Prof. L. B. Baldwin. Election of officers and round table conference, "Home Department," Rev. Phipps, followed. Elementary parliament, including cradle roll, beginners' class primary class and Junior problems was in charge of Mrs. Phipps. At 3:30 an address, "The Pastor and the Sunday School" was delivered by Rev. D. H. Leech, and the evening session began with a song and prayer service led by Prof. Wimmer and concluded with an address by Rev. W. R. White.

Celebrated Their Anniversary.

A very pleasant social affair took place Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Heckart in the western part of town. It was the fifth anniversary of their marriage and a surprise in honor of the event had been planned by their friends who, to the number of 60 or 70 gathered at the Heckart home about eight o'clock to celebrate.

Taking complete possession of the premises, the guests decorated the rooms with shavings, it being the "wooden" anniversary, and presented the host and hostess with a set of silver teaspoons, a burnt wood jardiner stand and a burnt wood fruit bowl. Pretty wooden souvenirs were presented each guest by which to remember the event.

A recitation by Miss Read, games in which all joined with a spirit of enthusiasm, and the disposal of refreshments consisting of wafers and sherbert served in orange skins, were the features of entertainment, and the evening was one that will long be cherished in the memory of those present.

Mr. and Mrs. Heckart are estimable people and their many friends join in wishing them many more happy anniversaries.

THORNS & ORANGE BLOSSOMS.
Tuesday Night at the Corvallis Opera House.

"Thorns and Orange Blossoms," a dramatization of Bertha M. Clay's famous novel of the same name will be seen here next Tuesday night. The production in its entirety comes direct from its run at the Academy of Music in Chicago. The company is headed by the charming actress, Miss Flora Fairfield, a big favorite in the East. The play, while intensely dramatic, contains nothing of the cheap melodramatic; it appeals to all classes on account of timely discussions of class distinctions. There is something in each act that every patron may enjoy. In one, it is a thrilling climax; in another it is a sweetly told love story, hedged by pathos; and still another, it may be comedy, real laugh producing comedy. The production is magnificently cast, has an endless array of beautiful scenery, and is one of the best on the road.

Reserve seat sale opens Saturday morning. Prices 35, 50 and 75.

Additional Local.

So great is the enrollment at the Corvallis public schools that for the past week four of the primary grades have been dismissed while two additional rooms are being fitted up in the upper story of the new building to accommodate a part of the pupils from the intermediate grades. The enrollment has reached 582 and will easily reach the 600 mark by the first of the year. Two more teachers will be required making the total number 15. Mrs. Julia DuMoulin has been elected to fill one of the rooms but the other teacher has not yet been named. This is certainly a splendid enrollment, being about 100 more than at this time last year. Corvallis has ample reason to be proud of her public schools.

Announcement!

On and after October 20, 1907, I find it necessary to raise the rates to our patrons. This step we have taken after careful consideration, owing to the advance of prices in all estates which fact is well known to all.

Our future rates: Meals 35c and 50c. Board and lodging per day, $1.50 to $2. Board and lodging per week, $7 to $10.50. Meal tickets, $5 and $7. Sunday dinners 50 cents.

Trusting that I will receive the same liberal patronage as in the past,

Very respectfully,
CHAS. L. BAKER,
Prop., Hotel Corvallis.
