ROOSEVELT AS SENATOR.

A great amount of energy has been used to convince President Roosevelt that he should accept the nomination for republican candidate for the next president. The Junior Senator from Oregon has devoted much attention to this subject, making his efforts conspicuous and yet not convincing to the President. The President has indicated that if his public service is needed he prefers to become United States Senator rather than again succeed himself to the presidency.

The unusual activity put forth to persuade Mr. Roosevelt to again become president proceeds from the idea that only one man in the United States is fitted for the position. The President, however, is aware that when occasion demands there is always a man to be found qualified to perform the duties of the occasion. Mr. Roosevelt is a man of strong personal convictions and determined in his purpose of carrying them out. Having repeatedly declared his purpose not to accept the nomination of his party for the presidential race near at hand, he will no doubt insist upon having his way. Having declared his consent to become United States senator instead of president, he no doubt has in mind plans how he can best serve the people.

A long time has passed away since the Senate has had a leader along the lines and with the energy pursued by the president. With a president elected who would carry out the policies pursued by President Roosevelt, and with Roosevelt in the Senate as a leader of that body, actively pursuing the same line of action, would certainly accomplish results more speedily than has usually occurred in the senate. If Mr. Roosevelt should be elected to the senate it will be interesting to observe whether that body will insist in his case of carrying out its time-honored tradition of requiring a senator during his first term to remain quiet and listen to the older members for a time.

CORVALLIS.

Corvallis is a splendid country city surrounded with beautiful scenery, blessed with a climate unsurpassed, having the best mountain water system flowing direct from the foot of Mary's Peak, a good sewerage system and all other facilities necessary to insure the healthiest town to be found anywhere. The State Agricultural College with about one thousand students in attendance and a first-class graded public school system makes this the leading educational town of the northwest. Surrounding the town and throughout the country are fine farms with highly productive soil, where sheep, cattle horses and all other domestic animals of superior quality grow and flourish. This beautiful little city centrally located in the Willamette Valley, the garden spot of the northwest, is one of the oldest towns in the valley.

The splendid school facilities maintained here attract many people to this locality from different parts of this and other States and a few from foreign countries who come for the purpose of obtaining the superior advantages afforded by the thorough and complete school system.

Some of the finest classes of stock are raised in the county. The technical subjects taught at the Agricultural College along the lines of improved methods of farming encourage not only the farmers on the surrounding farms, but also throughout the state to raise better classes of stock and improve in their farming.

PROHIBITION GROWING.

The Associated Press dispatch says that from figures in the possession of prohibition headquarters at Washington it is estimated that 33,000,000 of the eighty odd million inhabitants of the United States now live in communities in which the law does not permit the sale of alcoholic beverages. In other words, more than one-third of all the inhabitants of the country cannot buy liquor in their neighborhoods of licensed bars. In several "dry" communities violation of the law means penalties to both themselves and the person from whom they bought the liquor. The liquor question was in nearly every state campaign closed by the election of last Tuesday.

Prohibitionists are now preparing to force into the platforms of both great parties in the next year's campaign recognition of the growing prohibition sentiment. For this purpose the total executive committee of the Prohibition party will meet in Chicago November 20 to designate the time and place for holding the national convention ahead of the republicans and democrats.

It is proclaimed to be the intention of the temperance men to demand of the two great parties the insertion of a plank in their respective platforms favoring the enactment of laws that will prevent the shipment of liquor into states that have adopted prohibition. In the coming session of congress, a bill carrying this provision will be introduced. It was presented in the last session and was defeated.

The skating rink was a scene of merriment Tuesday evening, when McFarland & Luper, the enterprising proprietors, gave a big masquerade, with four turkeys hung up as prizes. First prize was carried off by Roy Bier and Miss Leah Chambers; second prize by Mr. McLaughlin and Miss Durrelle; third prize by Philip Porter and Rose Chipman; and fourth, Messrs McFadden and Miller. The prizes were given for the best sustained characters. It is probable the young ladies roasted the prize turkeys and invited their partners in to assist in eating the finished product.

She was a dear old lady, but she lived at Hardscrabble, and was a bit behind the times. She had been reading the advertisement in a city newspaper chance had brought her way. "Father," she asked her husband, "what is these here negligee shirts they talk about?" Father, being a man, was equal to the occasion. "Don't know what they be?" he grinned. "Well, you are a back-number. Negligee shirts ain't quite so stiff and choky as a b'iled shirt—I mean a reg'lar hard-b'iled shirt. A negligee shirt is something you might call a soft-b'iled shirt."—Woman's Home Companion.

Mrs. Ella Weiss, an aunt of Senator W. C. Hawley, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ella Ward, near Bellefontaine, about 8 o'clock, Wednesday morning, of apoplexy. Mrs. Weiss had been in ill health for some time but her death was wholly unexpected at this time. William Weiss, the husband, died about two years ago. The funeral of Mrs. Weiss occurred yesterday at 3 p. m., conducted by Rev. Waltz. The survivors are two sons and three daughters, all residents of Benton county. Deceased was aged about 61 years and was a highly esteemed lady whose death is widely mourned.

A well-known Portland householder recently invited an equally well-known bachelor, who is slightly deaf, to his home for dinner. When the family had gathered about the festal board, the householder, who is somewhat devout, proceeded to ask a blessing. The deaf man, who sat next him, misunderstood the procedure and turning to his host, inquired blandly: "Beg pardon, did you speak to me?" The head of the house answered, politely, in the negative, and continued his pre-prandial supplication. Again the man with defective hearing broke in with the inquiry: "I didn't understand; again, please." "Dammit, I'm trying to say grace," answered the host, exasperation getting the better of his piety.—Oregonian.

A shocking accident, that resulted in the death of little two-year-old Merle Lemon, occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Lemon, the child's parents, at Monroe, Monday afternoon. The mother was preparing to scrub and placed a vessel of boiling water on the floor, and into this the little one backed and fell. When the clothing was removed the skin peeled off the little one's body from the waist down. The accident happened between three and four o'clock and death ended the child's suffering about ten o'clock that night. The funeral was held at 11 o'clock, Wednesday forenoon, the services being conducted by Rev. M. M. Waltz, and interment was in Monroe cemetery. The young parents are almost distracted with grief, and the heartfelt sympathy of the community is extended to them in their affliction.

NOTABLE MEDICAL DISCOVERY

Of Special Value to Many Here in Corvallis.

One of the most notable discoveries and one that undoubtedly appeals more than anything else to many people here in Corvallis is the combination of stomach remedies in the Mi-o-na treatment. This prescription has worked wonders, and there is now no excuse for anyone suffering with indigestion or weak stomach. It acts specifically upon the muscles of the stomach and bowels, strengthening and stimulating them so that they readily take care of the food that is eaten. It also increases the flow of gastric juices, thus getting from the food the nourishment that is necessary for health and energy.

The symptoms of indigestion are numerous, such as distress after eating flatulence, heart-burn, sick headaches, dizziness, and irritability. These are all dispelled by a few doses of Mi-o-na when the trouble is recent, but just as surely in long standing and chronic cases if the treatment is followed for a reasonable length of time.

So positive are the good effects following the use of Mi-o-na that the remedy is sold by Graham & Wells under an absolute guarantee to refund the money if it should fail to cure.

BETTER THAN MEDICINE.

Breathe Hyomei's Tonic Healing and be Cured of Catarrh.

Nature has a remedy for catarrh, a treatment that is far better than dosing the stomach with medicine.

It is the healing oils and balsams of Hyomei which medicates the air you breathe, reaching the most remote air cells in the nose, throat and lungs, killing all catarrhal germs, and restoring health to the mucous membrane.

In using Hyomei you are treating your catarrhal troubles with the only natural remedy, for it gives a curative air bath to the air passages that has as powerful healing and antiseptic effect as that found in the mountains where the pine forests give off their fragrant and healing balsams.

Breathe the invigorating and healing Hyomei, and see how quickly you will get relief from your catarrhal troubles. Graham & Wells have seen so many cures, even of the worst cases of catarrh, with offensive breath, raising of mucus, frequent sneezing, droppings in the throat and spasmodic coughing, that they feel warranted in selling Hyomei under an absolute guarantee to refund the money if it does not do all that is claimed for it. They take all the risk.

And there is a reason for every pound of tough steel and enduring malleable iron in it. The 3-ply construction makes it wear well and there is an extra heavy bracing on the oven, for you must know the oven is air-tight. The heat can't get out and the dust or ashes can't get in.

There are so many distinctive features peculiar to the South Bend Malleable Range that we have no room to speak of them all.

Air Treatment For Keeping Clothing Sweet—Notes.

At least every two weeks in summer and once a month in winter the place where clothes hang should be cleaned, but, strange to say, this is comparatively rarely done. Yet all garments worn soon get more or less of an odor of the body, and added to that there are those from the street. Woolens, of course, are more susceptible to this than are cottons, but even the latter hold unpleasant odors, and these must be avoided.

The fortnightly cleaning should consist of taking out all the clothes, including boots and shoes, if they are kept there. Each article should be hung or spread about the room and before windows so that the air will play around and through it. This air bath should continue for two hours or more, and during that time the wood within the closet should be attended to. Allow the door to remain open, and wash the paint with warm water in which there is a little ammonia. Soap will not be necessary except for the floor.

Even better than ammonia is to put a few drops of oil of lavender in the water, for this is purifying and will leave a sweet odor most pleasant for the clothes to absorb. Every inch of the wood and especially the mop board and backing for the hooks should be well gone over, and the cloth may always be wrung quite dry. It is not necessary to soak the wood.

The Useful Lemon.

Lemons are very useful in health and sickness. Hot lemonade is one of the best remedies for an incipient cold. It is also excellent in cases of biliousness. For malaria the "Roman cure" is prepared by cutting the rind and pulp of a lemon into a pint of water, then boiling until there is only half a pint. One teaspoonful is taken before each meal. This has cured obstinate cases when quinine failed. Lemon sirup made by baking a lemon twenty minutes and then squeezing the juice upon half a cupful of sugar is excellent for hoarseness and to break up a cold.

The Bedstead.

Every part of the bedstead should be carefully dusted once a week. The best time for this will generally be found to be before the bed is made. In the day the room is thoroughly cleaned.

If the bedstead is of wood it is advisable to have it washed over at least once a year, and certainly after illness of any kind with some disinfectant, wood, especially the unpollished or unvarnished part, being much more difficult to preserve in a perfectly fresh condition than iron.

To Get Rid of Onion Odor.

An onion breath may be got rid of by swallowing a mouthful of vinegar or drinking a half cupful of hot water in which a pinch of baking soda has been dissolved.
