ELECTIONS FOR 1908.

General election June 1.
 Registration reopens Sept. 20.
 Closes for election Oct. 20.
 Presidential election Nov. 3.

HE IS RESOURCEFUL.

The many notices occurring in the papers of the state indicate that our genial friend, George E. Chamberlain, is rapidly measuring the length and breadth of the state, speaking to the people to convince them that he is better fitted for their United States Senator than for the Governor of the state. George is a very resourceful individual in the way of putting forth his claims, when a fat office looms up before his wishful vision.

During the campaign preceding the last state election, he succeeded in convincing many of the people of Oregon that it was important that he be elected governor, in order to hold in check and forestall the ill effects of a republican legislature. His term as governor has not half expired when he is now advising the people that it is more important to their interests that he be elected United States Senator, and as a consequence, it follows that his remaining as governor is not so important and the danger which may arise from the acts of a republican legislature are not so great as his previous recommendations indicated.

Probably he was mistaken on that point when he ran for governor. The question, therefore, naturally arises now, whether he is not now mistaken about the interests of the people and whether they will be better served if he is elected United States Senator. The fact is the governor is a very clever politician, and as such it is no more than natural for him to keep himself constantly before the people grasping for public office.

The allotted terms of office are entirely too long for him. When he was prosecuting attorney of Multnomah county, he tired of that office and run for the office of governor before his term of office as prosecuting attorney had expired. He did not resign before he took the office of governor, however, but retained the former office until after he was sworn in as governor, and thereafter appointed his successor as District Attorney.

The question arises, if George is elected United States Senator, (which he will not be) will he soon thereafter deem it more important to be president of the United States and hold on to the office of United States Senator until after he shall be elected and sworn into the office as President of this great nation? These queries naturally arise, because George's vision is truly wonderful.

ALL ARE FIRSTCLASS MEN.

The names of the candidates placed at the head of the editorial columns of this paper present an ideal lot of men, well qualified for the several offices for which they are candidates on the republican ticket. They are men well known in this county, and qualified for the offices for which they are asking the people to vote for them.

For these considerations and further reasons that the republican party has been identified with and made the history of this county for the last forty-eight years, the GAZETTE unqualifiedly recommends to the people these candidates for the respective offices, for which they are soliciting the support of the people.

SOMETHING ABOUT MACK.

Candidate for County School Superintendent.

The following information is furnished the Gazette in regard to the life and character of the republican candidate for county school superintendent:

H. L. Mack was born in Clackamas county, near Oregon City, in 1877. On completing the high school course at Stayton he entered the Mineral Springs college from which he graduated and immediately thereafter took up the profession of teaching. He has spent 12 years in the work, in Linn, Grant and Benton counties, being for three years the principal of the John Day high school.

Mr. Mack owns 80 acres of land near Bellefontaine and is a fixture in Benton county, whether elected county school superintendent or not. He has no property interests outside of Benton county, and his energy and interest in school work is plainly demonstrated in the elegant new school building recently built at Bellefontaine, the credit for which is largely due to Mr. Mack's efforts. He is a christian gentleman and stands for the highest principles in all that makes for the betterment of mankind and his candidacy is endorsed by leading teachers of Benton county.

The people of the county are surely to be congratulated in having such a man to succeed Sup't Denman. This office now needs a strong man, and Mr. Mack can and will fill the bill. If he is elected, and this is a foregone conclusion, for democrats and prohibitionists alike are now openly advocating his election, Benton county will never be ashamed of the trust in him reposed. There is nothing in all his past life for which an apology will have to be made. A successful teacher, honest in every transaction, a christian gentleman, a temperate man, with a spotless private life, and a public life one of inspiration, are the qualifications and recommendations made to the good people of Benton county in behalf of him. Our people have the reputation of being up in things, industrially and educationally. We know they do not now intend to take a backward step.

L. L. Brooks has recently received from an Eastern relative a clipping and a picture from a newspaper there, giving an idea of the terrible cyclone that devastated the states of Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Georgia. The picture shows the cyclone sweeping through a town, leaving ruin in its wake, and even the picture is enough to terrorize an Oregonian. The clipping gives the number of dead in this one storm as 1,173 and the number of injured at 356. Oregon is a pretty safe place in which to live, if it does sprinkle once in a while.

TWO RUNAWAYS

With Rather Serious Results.—
 "No. 9" Injured.

John Lenger, the well known driver of "No. 9" delivery which carries the mail to and from the depot to the postoffice, is confined to his home with numerous cuts and bruises on his person and with lamed muscles and stiff neck, and Mr. Burrows of Portland is at Hotel Corvallis with a broken rib and minor injuries, as the result of a runaway which happened about noon, Wednesday.

Mr. Lenger was driving along near the John Smith home, accompanied by the two railway mail clerks, Burrows and McClosky, when the horse suddenly began kicking and running. In going over a rather high crossing near the M. E. church the men were thrown out, Mr. Lenger alighting on his head and shoulders. The other men were also pitched out, Mr. Burrows meeting with the most serious injury, but Mr. McClosky was able to return to Portland on the afternoon train.

It is presumed that a strap broke and frightened the horse, as the accident happened so quickly that Mr. Lenger is unable to account for the cause. The animal ran on down Main street with a part of the rig and this frightened a spirited team belonging to Ray Stoner which stood on Main street hitched to a buggy. The team dashed away and was caught several blocks southwest of the starting point, the only damage done being a broken neckyoke and single-trees.

PRAISE FOR OAC SPEAKERS

Farming Demonstration Train a Great Success.

The farming demonstration train which left Portland Sunday night over the O. R. & N. and is touring Eastern Oregon, is meeting with ovations at every stopping place from the farmers of the section through which it is passing, and the speakers from OAC are receiving very flattering notices through the press. They are Dr. Withycombe, Prof. Lewis and Prof. Scudder, and Byron Hunter, of Corvallis, assistant agriculturist of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, is also with the train.

In regard to the visit of the train there a Condon dispatch to the Oregonian says: "The lectures were not stereotyped discourses on scientific farming, but were bright, snappy recommendations by men who were letter perfect in their knowledge of the subject."

"Prof. Withycombe warned the farmers that it would be impossible to continue indefinitely the growing of wheat, declaring that there were but few other crops that were more exhausting on the soil. He asserted that every ton of wheat shipped from the farm carries with it $8 worth of plant food, all of which could be saved or returned to the soil by live stock husbandry. He spoke in glowing terms of the fine market that would be provided for livestock by the establishment of great abattoirs at Portland. He expressed the belief that the best returns from land now idle in summer fallow could be secured from peas, rape or alfalfa, which could be fed to hogs at a great profit as well as incidentally being of great value in returning to the soil properties that had been exhausted by continued cropping to wheat even when summer fallowing was practised."

"There should be trainloads of fat hogs and sheep shipped out annually from these sections," said Dr. Withycombe. "The great feeding grounds for lamb and mutton production of the Northwest should be found in the wheat farms of the Inland Empire."

"Professors Bradley and Scudder went into details regarding the plainly demonstrated advantage of crop rotation and showed in a convincing manner how all of the summer fallow land now idle could be cropped to the advantage of the wheat crop, and also to yield a heavy profit in the off year when wheat was not grown."

Monroe News.

Merle G. Howard came home Thursday evening to get a team to take a part of the botany class from OAC to Mary's Peak. Dr. Howard went with him and reported a fine time with as nice a class of young people as he ever saw go on an outing trip.

Rev. Bryan is conducting revival meetings at the Simpson Chapel M. E. church.

Henry Hawley is improving slowly. He had his leg broken recently.

Miss Reta Price of Portland is visiting at the A. H. Hawley home.

Mrs. Walters is at her home near Simpson Chapel. She has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Waggoner, at Portland.

Mrs. Denning from near Junction City has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Jim Bailey.

Farmers are busy making garden.

Mr. Loomis, the road supervisor, has done quite a lot of road work hereabouts this spring.
