Rev. F. B. Zimmerman of Portland, will preach in the Evangelical church next Sunday morning. During the next three Sundays there will be no services in the church as the members will join in the union meetings.

Joseph Edwards of Bellefontaine and E. J. Harrington of Corvallis arrived from Portland, Monday, where they had been serving on the U. S. grand jury. S. B. Bane of this city was retained on the next case.

Miss Cleo Johnson entertained a dozen friends Tuesday evening in honor of Miss Jessie Hibler, of Seattle, who is her guest. Music, conversation, and refreshments were features and a very pleasant evening was spent.

The Ed Horton house, on Twelfth street, has been rented by Mrs. Chas. E. Lunt and family, now of Portland, who will move here next week. Mr. Lunt, who is in business in Pittsburg, Pa., is expected to join them in a few weeks.

Mrs. C. C. Huff, who is visiting relatives in Indiana, writes her husband in Corvallis that "there is no place like home and no place for a home like Oregon." She is anxious to get back to a climate in which she has no fear of tornadoes or cyclones.

Rev. E. E. McVicker, pastor of the Evangelical church, departed yesterday to attend the campmeeting at Jennings Lodge. The fore part of next week he is to meet and visit in Portland with his brother from Omaha.

Mrs. Emma Hawley, mother of Congressman W. C. Hawley, came up from Salem, Monday, for a visit with relatives. She was met in Corvallis by Mrs. W. F. Starr, her daughter, of Bellefontaine, and went on to that place to remain indefinitely.

Prof. and Mrs. G. A. Covell have returned from a several weeks' trip East, where Prof. Covell did special work in his line, preparatory to resuming his labors at OAC this fall. The first of August the Covells are to move to College Hill, where they will occupy the Dr. Gatch property, purchased by them last winter.

J. C. Evans of near Monroe was thrown from a wagon and severely injured a few days ago, while returning from Junction City. He was sitting in a chair behind the seat when the wagon ran into a chuck-hole and Mr. Evans was thrown out, alighting on his head and shoulders. The lungs were torn loose by the fall. The injured man is at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Claude Starr.

Mrs. William Schmidt of Corvallis, who has been in a Portland hospital for three months and has undergone several very serious operations, submitted to the surgeon's knife again last Friday and will be obliged to remain in the hospital for two months longer on account of this operation. Many friends in Corvallis sympathize with Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt in their trouble.

Because of an unexpected change in plans, Rev. and Mrs. Handsaker did not go to Summit and Walla Walla, respectively, as stated in the last Gazette, although such was their intention up to the first of the week. The arrival of Rev. Hubble, however, and the condition of Mr. Handsaker's health caused them to decide to go to Eugene, where they will remain with relatives until the first of September.

The large tabernacle tent that is in service while the Baptist church is being repapered, repainted and otherwise improved, was crowded last Sunday night with the audience that gathered to hear Rev. Davis. An excellent choir has been organized and is being trained by the pastor. Next Sunday evening there will be special music, and services morning and evening, everyone being invited.

The home of Steve Van Order, two and a half miles west of town was destroyed by fire last Saturday noon, with all its contents except a bureau, sewing machine, and a few bed clothes. The fire originated from a defective flue in the kitchen. No one was at home except a little girl and her aged grandfather. Had the fire occurred a week or so later it would probably have been much more disastrous, as it might have spread to the adjoining grain field and from thence over a large scope of territory.

The marriage of Miss Maybelle Keady and Mr. Terorah Scott was to occur at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Keady, in this city at 8 o'clock last night. The ceremony was to be performed by Rev. J. W. Armstrong of the Episcopal church, and the bride's maid and groomsmen were Miss Edith Keady and S. K. Hartsock, respectively. The bride is one of the most popular girls in Corvallis and both she and Mr. Scott are OAC graduates. They will reside in Eugene and an unusually wide circle of friends join in extending congratulations.

Item from Newport: J. F. Allen and wife, Horace Kerr and wife, W. E. Francis and wife, Mrs. Walter Kaupisch, the Misses Mayer and Spangler and Tom Nolan formed a jolly crawfish party Thursday. They chartered the launch Oregon and went a short distance above Elk City where they caught 24 dozen crawfish. Mr. Francis seemed to be the star at the crawfish game, and Tom Nolan, who is the trowing expert of this section, caught a fine mess of large trout.

The editor of the St. Johns Review is evidently laying up some future trouble for himself, as witness this item: "Mrs. Byerlee has gone and left us, and we are a poor, lone, straw-widow for the time being. We have this consolation, that what is our gain is someone else's loss, and we will endeavor to bear the affliction with calm fortitude when she returns. We trust our friends in St. Johns will remember the widow and the orphan [Dave is the orphan] in their adversity. Mrs. Byerlee will visit in Corvallis and vicinity for a few days and then bring our black eyed daughter home with her when she returns."

That the establishment of the saloons in Newport again this year will be the cause of many people avoiding this popular resort and going elsewhere for their outing, is the opinion expressed by some prominent business men who have been to the coast and seen the conditions prevailing there. Already the Sunday excursions have felt the effects of the wet town, and last Sunday night disorderly persons were aboard in the homeward trip, making themselves obnoxious and disturbing the passengers in general. The condition is certainly to be deplored.

Mr. and Mrs. Logan Hays and little son of Portland have been visiting relatives and old friends in Corvallis this week. Mr. Hays was for many years the popular operator for the Western Union in this city.

Dr. B. A. Cathey and family, Mrs. Mary Robinett and daughter of Halsey, and Mrs. McCall and daughter, Miss Ottie Greiner, returned Wednesday from a 3 weeks' outing at Yachats. They report a delightful time, with excellent hunting and fishing.

The regular morning services will be held next Sunday at the Congregational church. Members of the church and all others interested are urgently requested to attend the Sunday School and assist the children in raising the attendance to the needed number in order that they may be able to carry out their plans for the Sunday School picnic.

The 1908-1909 catalogue of Oregon Agricultural College is now ready for distribution and a copy has been received at this office. It contains 240 pages, with numerous fine half-tone illustrations of the college buildings and various departments devoted to the arts and sciences, besides complete information regarding the different courses of study. Also a full roster of the faculty and students, with list of '08 graduates. It is most complete in every way and a valuable book of reference to those interested in the college work as well as seekers for information regarding it. The catalogue was issued from the college printing office and is a good job mechanically. The total registration of students is 1156.

Miss Lulu Rice was to give a "kitchen shower" at her home west of town, last night after the Gazette press hour, in honor of Miss Olive Mallow, whose marriage to Wallace Colbert is to occur in the not far distant future. The guests were the young girls of the Corvallis public school, who have been Miss Mallow's pupils while she has been a popular teacher in this city. An impromptu program, novel in character, was to be rendered and dainty refreshments served. Miss Rice is a very cordial and charming young hostess and a delightful evening was anticipated. Those invited were: Misses Maybelle Farmer, Belva Pierce, Edna Spicer, Enid Leeper, Lizzie Buchanan, Eva Cummings, Carrie Pimm, Gertrude Lilly, Lillian Johnson, Myrtle and Retta Langley, Zeta Johnson, Georgia White, Minerva Kiger, Ethel Watters, Winona Woodward, Mary Leonard, Elsie Vincent, Frances Hodes, Mabel Swick, Malo Cady, Madge Ashby, Ruby Fowells, Ethel Norton, Deane Hollister, Ruth Corbett, Jean Kent, Pansy Peters, Franke Hout, Minnie Wuestefeld, Hallie Baldwin, Georgia Kessi, Bertha Cramer, Hazel and Clara Baker, Beatrice Austin, Bertha Wilson, Mabel Huff, Gertrude Nolan, Iva McGinnis, Della King and Cecile Rowland.
