V. Hawley of Corvallis, county of Benton, State of

Be a Booster Rooster.

Do you know there are lots of people Settin' round in every town, Growlin' like a broody chicken, Knockin' every good thing down?
Don't you be that kind of cattle, 'Cause they ain't no use on earth, You just be a booster rooster—crow
An' boost for all your worth.
If your town needs boostin' boost'er;
Don't hold back and wait to see If some other feller's willin'— Sail right in, this country's free, No one's got a mortgage on it; its Just yours as much as his,
If your town is shy on boosters, you
Get in the boostin' biz.
If things just don't come to suit
you
An' the world seems kinder wrong,
What's the matter with boostin' Just to help the thing along?
'Cause if things should stop a goin'
We'd be in a sorry plight—You just keep that horn a blowin' Boost'er then with all your might.
If you see some feller tryin' for To make some project go, An' you can boost it up a trifle, that's Your cue to let him know That you're not a goin' to knock it Just because it ain't your shout, But you're goin' to boost a little,
'Cause he's got the best thing out.
If you know some feller's failin', Just forget 'em, for you know The same feller's got some points; Them's the ones you want to show.
"Cast your loaves out on the waters, They'll come back," a sayin' true Mebbe they'll come back "buttered"
When some feller boosts for you.

The Oregonian says: A child was born in Indiana, while Taft was delivering his speech of acceptance, which weighed 25 1/2 lbs.
The parents named him William Howard Taft and the father says he smiles every time they ask him if Taft is going to be elected President.

Many citizens are taking advantage of the privilege of street sprinkling this season, and by paying a nominal sum they have the dust kept down in front of their homes. The sprinkler began operations this week as far west as ninth street and north as far as Van Buren.

Newport, Friday, for an outing.

HARD ON HOMESTEADERS

Uncle Sam's Requirements Growing More Strict.
Recent decisions in contest cases show that the Government is becoming more strict in regard to making final proof on claims.
In two decisions just rendered the Register and Receiver of the Lakeview Land Office held that non-cultivation of lands was abandonment, regardless of the fact that the party holding the homestead resided upon it as required by law. These two cases involved lands near the state line.
The Lakeview officials have rendered decisions in two other cases, in which the contests were instituted two years after the parties had made commutation proof, but patents have not yet been issued. It was the opinion of the officials that the entries had been made solely for the timber, and that the residence and cultivation of the land was a mere pretense. It was therefore held that the proofs should be rejected and the land held for entry.
All of the decisions being rendered are on the same line, and in every instance they are adverse to the homesteaders. It is now quite generally recognized that no applicant will be able to make proof on a homestead in the timber, and most of the persons holding are relinquishing and placing timber and stone filings on the claims. It is quite evident that while Uncle Sam was dilatory in enforcing the public land laws, now he has once started matters are being carried to a point that makes it almost impossible for any one to acquire land under the homestead act.—Ex.

Welcome the Victors.
Portland proposes to give the Olympic victors, Smithson, Gilbert and Kelley, a grand reception on their arrival in America.
A liberal fund is being raised for the purpose, and no effort will be spared to make the occasion a memorable one.
Aside from the example given in honoring the American winners in the inter-national contest, it will be an immense advertisement for Portland and Oregon. A part of the plan proposed is to bring the athletes across the continent from New York in a special car, which will further amplify the advertising feature, as the car will no doubt be decorated in such a manner that no one of the millions who will witness its passage can remain in ignorance of its destination and purpose.

FIERCE FOREST FIRES

Raging in the Timber East of Detroit.
A report from Detroit says that forest fires are continuing unchecked and some of the most valuable timber in the state has already been destroyed. A large force of rangers is fighting a further advance of the flames, which will cause a great loss if not soon checked. The timber is reported to be very dry and the fire, fanned by a strong breeze, is spreading rapidly.
A number of small forest fires are reported as being started in the mountains west of here, but have caused no serious damage as yet. Smoke overhangs this portion of the valley.
A later dispatch says: Because of lack of men, the Government forest rangers are almost powerless to fight the big forest fires now burning in the National forest reserve in southeastern Marion county, 15 miles northeast of Detroit. A ranger came out to Detroit last night to secure more men to help fight the flames, but his efforts were unsuccessful. He finally threatened to invoke Government authority to force men to go to the rescue of the reserve, but no steps have yet been taken in that direction.
The reports which have reached Detroit say that very little damage has thus far resulted to good timber. The fires have been confined principally to areas which have been swept by previous fires, which have killed the trees, but left them standing.
Forest fires in green timber generally run through rapidly and leave big trees standing, but the present fires in dead timber are consuming the old trunks and sweeping the ground almost clean.
Though the fires have not thus far invaded green timber, there are some large bodies of fine timber which are in imminent danger. Unless the rangers secure more help big damage may result before the fires are extinguished.

FORMER CORVALLIS GIRL

Has Nervous Prostration.—Miss Minnie Woldt.
The following item, concerning Miss Minnie Woldt, a former Corvallis girl, will be read with interest by many people in this city. It is taken from the Portland Telegram, in which city Miss Woldt now resides:
"Becoming excited as a result of yesterday afternoon's fire, Miss Minnie Woldt, an operator in the long-distance department of the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Company, was stricken with an attack of nervous prostration, and for a time it was feared that she would not survive. She was taken to the home of her parents at 370 Second St., and although she has not spoken since yesterday, she is resting easy and it is thought will soon recover.
"Miss Woldt is a frail, nervous girl, and although she was seldom ill, it is feared that the excitement caused by the southward sweep of the flames, which she could see from the window of the telephone exchange and the rush of work that always comes during fires led to the sudden breakdown. Since arriving at home she has been in a semi-conscious state. The physician is of the opinion that the girl had a severe attack of hysterics."
Miss Woldt has many friends in Corvallis who will be sorry to hear of her illness and all hope for a complete and speedy recovery.
Prof. J. B. Horner and family arrived yesterday morning from a six weeks' sojourn in Berkeley, Calif. They had a delightful time.

WEDDED AND GONE.

A Eugene Groom and Corvallis Bride.—Scott-Keady.
Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Keady on Ninth street was celebrated the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mabelle, to T. Winfield Scott of Eugene, about 40 relatives and friends being present.
At the stroke of eight, Miss Cleo Johnson played the wedding march and the bridal party entered and moved forward through the back and front parlors and took a position under a large floral arch, from which was suspended a beautiful wedding bell of white sweet peas. The dainty little ring bearer, Emily Keady, led the way, followed by S. K. Hartsock, best man, and Miss Edythe Keady, bridesmaid, and lastly the bride and groom.
At the arch the party was met by Rev. J. W. Armstrong of the Episcopal church who performed the impressive ring ceremony.
The bride, who is a beautiful and winsome girl, was indeed a lovely picture in a Princess gown of cream silk voile, carrying a shower bouquet of white carnations and orchids. Miss Edythe Keady was daintily gowned in white swiss. The rooms were prettily decorated with sweet peas and clematis.
Following the congratulations light refreshments were served.
During the luncheon the bride tossed her bouquet and in the rush Miss Hettie Lilly bore it off in triumph, which indicates that she will be the next blushing bride. An unusually large number of very handsome and costly presents were received by the young couple, much silverware, cut glass and hand painted china being included.
Later the happy couple, by clever maneuvers, eluded the party of guests and reached a waiting automobile a few blocks distant, thus missing a shower of rice and old shoes. They proceeded to Albany and took the overland train for Eugene where a pretty home awaited them.
The bride is one of Corvallis' most lovable and popular girls, who by her womanly attributes has won a large circle of friends in this and other towns where she is known. The groom is a young man of worth and is interested in the Red Cross pharmacy of Eugene. Both he and his bride are OAC graduates and are followed by the best wishes of a multitude of friends.

Saturday afternoon, in Kings Valley, occurred the funeral of Minnie Pearl, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Townsend, old and esteemed residents of that place. The services were conducted at the cemetery by Rev. C. T. Hurd of Corvallis.
Deceased was born in Kings Valley, January 1, 1894. Her death occurred at Newport last Thursday morning at 9:20, although she had been ill for a year or more. She went to Newport on the Saturday previous to her death, accompanied by her mother and others from the neighborhood in which she lived. In asking permission to go on the trip she told her papa that it would be the last place she would ever go, seemingly aware that death was near, although other members of the family did not realize it. The parents and one brother, Cecil, are the immediate survivors. The remains were brought out from Newport to Wrenn, Friday morning, and were conveyed thence by private conveyance to the last resting place in the valley where the young girl was born. The mother has been in a serious nervous condition ever since the daughter's death. Much sympathy is felt for those bereft. Deceased was a niece of Mrs. Addie Price, Mrs. Clyde Beach and Ernest Rodgers of Corvallis and a granddaughter of Mrs. Agnes Rodgers.

DISASTROUS FIRE IN ALBANY

Iron Foundry Destroyed.—Company Will Rebuild.
The main building of the Albany Iron Works, the largest foundry in Oregon outside of Portland, was destroyed by fire Friday night, says an Albany dispatch. The loss is placed at $20,000, with $9500 insurance on the whole plant. As part of this insurance is on the building saved, the net loss is considerably over $10,000.
The flames completely destroyed the large foundry building, the pattern-making shop and the blacksmith shop. Only the shell of the big machine shop stands and the office was almost gutted.
The only brick building of the plant, which was used as a warehouse, was saved. This contained practically all of the patterns, which are valued at $10,- 000, and the saving of it prevents a far greater loss.
Before the flames were extinguished officers of the company announced that the plant, which is one of Albany's leading industries, will be rebuilt at once.
George C. Tracey, a local painter, received an injury while working with the volunteer firemen. The safe in the office tipped over against him, crushing him against a table. The extent of his injuries has not yet been determined.
The fire started close to the furnace and as moulding had been in progress that day it is supposed some fire had leaked and lodged in the woodwork.
The fire started at 9:45 o'clock and spread quickly.
Fireman devoted their principal efforts to the machine shop, and though the building burned around it the machinery was not overheated and it may not be seriously damaged.
The Magnolia Laundry, adjoining the foundry, was saved after a very hard fight, the only damage to that plant being from water thrown in the interior. A residence at First and Montgomery streets also caught fire, but was saved with very little damage.
The principal owners of the Albany Iron Works are John Holman, vice president; State Senator Frank J. Miller, secretary-treasurer, both of whom reside in Albany, and J. A. Wilson, of Salem. The president of the company is Thomas Holman of Salem. There are several other stockholders.
