The hopping season, in nearly all the yards around Corvallis, will close next Saturday. The picking season has been perfectly delightful for the work and the children will come from the fields with a nice little sack money to buy their school supplies.

Mrs. James Shipley was called to Philomath, Monday, on account of sickness in the family of her daughter, Mrs. Ola Smith.

Fred Raymond's famous comedy "The Missouri Girl" will be an attraction at the Opera House Monday night. The fact that this is the twelfth season for this play is a most conclusive proof that good, clean, wholesome theatrical productions are always welcomed and generously patronized by the theatre-going public. The comedy is so closely interwoven with bits of pathos and with sensational incidents as could actually occur in the lives of such people as exist in "The Missouri Girl," that the entirety is a revelation in simplicity and interest in play building.

Mr. Raymond has equipped the play with the best of accessories, and has spared no expense making this production one thoroughly worthy the patronage accorded it. Advance sales tickets Wednesday morning, prices 25 to 75 cts.

Alex Campbell is on the street again after a sick spell of several days' duration. The effects are plainly visible.

Mrs. B. C. Williams and daughter, of Eastern Oregon, arrived Tuesday and will make preparations for the school year.

Moore.—We accept the olive branch of peace so graciously extended. "May friendship and brotherly love prevail and every moral and social virtue cement us."

The farmer who understands the business of raising potatoes and planted a liberal acreage this year, will make good money. They are now selling at wholesale at about 60 cents a bushel.

A. D. Limbocker shook hands with many old friends here Monday, after which he took the train for Newport, to spend the winter. His brother has bought a cottage there and the two old gentlemen will take life easy.

Mr. Steele, of Polk county, has bought the H. M. Finley property on 4th and A streets and will move in about the 15th of November. Mr. Finley will now devote his entire interest to his farm south of Corvallis. Sale was made by A. L. Stevenson.

Robert Campbell and Isaac Porter returned Sunday from their camping expedition in the Alsea country. They killed two elk and one deer. "Uncle Bob" seems to know just where to go to find the game and when he looks along the sites of a gun something nearly always happens.

There seems to be some misunderstanding in regard to the registration for the November election. Only such persons who did not register in June or have changed their location will be required to register.

It has been gently whispered in our ears that a nice little path is being worn across a certain meadow in the Bellefontaine neighborhood. If the good brother keeps up the present rate of speed, she certainly cannot resist the gentle wooing and something is sure to happen. Patience and perseverance will accomplish all things.

Miss Mary Southerland has accepted a position as instructor in Household Science in the New York public school. She has held a similar position at OAC for the past two years and while we regret to lose her in the various branches of useful work in which she was engaged here—in the college, in the church, and Christian Endeavor—we rejoice in the thought that strict attention to business and the cultivation of the mind, OAC is sending her young people away fully equipped for Life's work.

For fun and amusement in large quantities—go to the opera house tonight.

Judge Baster, of Nebraska, is visiting his old friend and neighbors, W. G. Davis and wife. Mr. Barter is a very pleasing gentleman which can easily be accounted for as he was formerly a newspaper man. He visited Corvallis a few years ago and expresses surprise at our wonderful growth.

The theatrical season opened at the opera house last Tuesday night with the "Little Prospect" as an attraction. The attendance was not as large as usual which was perhaps due to lack of advertising. Manager Groves was engaged in very important business at Salem in a little show of his own.

The people in the Alsea country are having royal sport in killing elk. Quite a number have been killed and the herd separated, which makes it interesting for the man with the gun. Mr. Phillips killed one last Saturday. The season will close on Sept. 15, and the hunters are making good use of the time, realizing that this will be their last opportunity for perhaps ten years to come as the question will undoubtedly be up at the next session of the legislature and a law passed to protect them.

Ex-Judge W. W. Condon, of Tillamook, has moved into the E. E. Berger house on 8th and Harrison streets and will become a permanent citizen of Corvallis. He has been attracted to this city by the splendid school facilities, having two boys who are now in the public schools and will later take up the college course. We are pleased to note this addition to our ranks, as it indicates that this class of people are beginning to appreciate the pleasant surroundings here afforded in which to spend their declining years and educate their children.

History has been telling us that John Brown was dead, but we learn that he is in the Benton county jail awaiting trial on the charge of selling mortgaged property. It seems he borrowed money from one McGillis giving him a mortgage on a horse and his father claimed the horse belonged to the parental estate and took possession. Mr. McGillis had the young man arrested for selling mortgaged property. In the preliminary hearing he was bound over awaiting the action of the circuit court.

The Missouri River Valley is one of the most successful hog sections of the U. S., and corn has always been the basis of this industry. Today one of the most popular stock-fattening foods in the Missouri River region is a mixture of alfalfa meal and sugar beet pulp, which is produced in Colorado. Advice recently received from that state show that numerous new mills are being erected, and certainly the Pacific Northwest should give this industry every possible encouragement, and this is particularly true since the great international concerns like Swift & Co. and others have decided to locate upon the Pacific Coast, and they are spending millions of dollars in building their plants at Portland. A good reliable fattening food equal to corn would make this section of the U. S. the very richest portion of our great Republic.

The young man is a bright fellow with an excellent reputation and we commend him to his employers as such.

Sunday will be rally day in all branches of the work at the Presbyterian church. All members are earnestly requested to be present on this occasion. If the front seats are all full you will be permitted to drop back on the rotary system. Dr. Bell will keep you awake during the service and the ushers will give you ample time to put your liberal collection in the basket. Every body welcome.

Henry Rooper has arrived in Corvallis from Nome, Alaska, where he has spent the past few months, and will remain for the present in this city. He is an old-OAC student and basketball star and seems glad to be back in his home town. He states that Haman Bilyeu, another old player in OAC's basketball team, will possibly soon return to this city from Nome.

Mr. Hostetter, Grand Master of the I. O. O. F. order, visited the local lodge Tuesday night and gave a very interesting talk on the growth, financial matters and other important subjects in connection with the order. They report him a very interesting speaker and had the members who failed in attendance been present he would have poured hot shot into them for failing to do their duty to the order.

No event has taken place in the last year that will be more beneficial to the Pacific Northwest than the visit of the delegates in attendance upon the National convention of the American Association of Traveling Passenger Agents. These men have traveled through Washington, spent three days thoroughly investigating Seattle where they held their convention, visited interesting points on the Sound; then they came
