about two hundred passengers on the boat—one hundred on the hurricane deck—and as they pressed to one side the boat careened over away from the wharf and caused the crowd to rush to that side, and threw the struggling mass into the water. As the boat gave way the roof of the upper deck came crashing down on the engine, and broke off the safety valve, causing the steam to rush out, the fearful noise adding new terror. The boat rolled over more, catching her gunwale on a spile, and became fast, and her great weight caused the supports of the hurricane deck to give away, and the whole structure fell down to the water line. The water at this point is over ten feet deep. Many swam to the wharf 20 feet distant, others held hold of the wrecked hull, and some to the floating roof. Many prominent citizens, ing roof. Nevertheless, the speaker did not think the use in the evening. theless, the speaker did not think the use of the pledge was the best way in which to secure reform. It would be much better to pass a law in the legislature reducing salaries. The safest course though to be pursued by the convention was not to risk an election where great principles were involved. As the disputed question was one which would be decided by hos tile courts and might askey get before a jury, it was therefore foolish to take of rebellion when the matter could easily its sattled in a far more sensible and peaceable masner.

Here the discussion upon the legality of the salary pledge came to a close and the nomination for the office of district attorney was proceeded with. The following list of candidates was read by the scoretary: John L. Murphy, Judge Robert Ferral and M. C. Hassett.

Liverprool, July 5.—A leading grain circular reports that the grain trade at British agricultural markets during the week exhibits further progressive improvement, the surall quantity of wheat offering being readily taken by needy buyers at an advance of 1 to 2 shillings per quarter. The few cargoes of the coast are fairly inquired for but firmly held. There is an improved demand for shipments, fair business being reported. There has been moderate business at Liverpool and neighboring markets since Tuesday in wheat, at fully Tuesday's market, and somewhat more tone, with a fair amount of business in wheat and tolerably good demand for flour at the current price. Corn was less pressed and steady business is reported. The late decline on new has been nearly recovered.

The House of Commons on the Causes of the Depression of Agriculture.

Loxons, July 5.—In the house of commons last night, the government agreed to a motion of Henry Chaplin, conservative, for the appointment of a commission to enquire into the causes of agricultural depression and how far they were created by, or are remediable by legislation. The matter caused a great deal of trouble. All sides agreed that a great cause of depression was American competition. Chaptin in his opening speech said he regarded free trade as a question definitely settled; but he could not shut his eyes to the failure of many of the predictions of advocates of free trade. He did not propose a remedy now, but only asked for inquiry. He pointed out that the future fate of British agriculture was dependent upon the cost of production in America. Strawberries, currants and tomatoes are better medicine than calomel or jalap, and rather better to take. Apples freely eaten do the work of vermifuge or lozenesten do the work of vermituge or lozenges. Every fruit or berry has a mission to man hid away within it. Therefore, set out a strawberry bed, if you haven't one. If there is no other place, border your garden walks, and with a sharp hos and straight line keep the edges cut clearly, leaving a rich mat of vines two feet wide. Plant currants. A fresh cutting will grow if you but stick it in the ground. Border the fence with raspberries. Walk around your place during the early spring days, and make a mental inventory of every spot where you can stick in a fruit tree or berry bush. Plant something.

s J. S. Clarke, the actor, who lives in London most of the time. Clarke bought is J. S. Clarke, the actor, who lives in London most of the time. Clarke bought the Broad-street Theater, in Philadelphia, I few years ago, and played there on his last visit to this country, instead of going to the Walnut, as usual. Manager Goodwin, the lessee of the Walnut, retaliated by hiring the Park Theater and transferring his best engagements to that honse, leaving only second-rate stars to the Walnut. The latest blow at the Walnut was he production of an absurd drama from the pen of a Bhiladelphia court interpreter. Nearly all the lawyers of the city made the occasion one of great hilarity, jibing the author, commenting loudly on the play, and hectoring the unfortunate performers.—N. Y. Sun.
