

DEATH OF TWO GREAT MEN.

The death of General Joseph Hooker at Garden City is something for the nation to weep over. He was a man who ever had a personal identity. He was the brave and gallant soldier who was many times honored for his daring courage in the war with Mexico. He was the road builder of Oregon as the inscribed marks of his work yet to be traced all along the Canyonville canyon will silently testify. When it came to battle for the preservation of the Union of these United States and the perpetuation of the best form of government God's glorious sun ever shone upon, there he was known and honored as "Fighting Joe Hooker."

He met with defeat in his true. But no historian will ever write that defeat came to the hero because he was lacking in courage and honesty; even his last fight with Death was one in which Fear took not a single part, and Hooker would have lived had not the odds been against him in the form of Old Age and its attending disorders. The nation will ever have respect for the departed hero in public demonstrations of grief—in the way of guards of honor and national salutes; but the most sincere tribute, and the one most touching and glorious to the memory of the dead man is and will be the deep, silent and impressive sorrow of those who loved or admired the man while living for his individuality and his twin-brother Fearlessness.

The sudden death of Senator Chandler, following so close upon that of General Hooker, is to carry out the old adage that the death of one man is like that of another. It is a sad thing to see that no great spirit ever left the world that we know of without it was accompanied by another. Zachariah Chandler's ghost was a great spirit. While living he was a great man. It makes no difference if Hooker was a Democrat and Chandler a Republican. Both were great men and both died and but a few hours (a second in the whispering of an angel's wing) intervened in the flight of two souls for their abiding place. It may be many thought this idea, given birth during the days of strange superstitions and foolish thoughts, was but a fancy of that time. But who can prove truth is to the contrary?

But leaving this one thought out of the question, the death of Chandler is a serious misfortune to the country and the Republican party. He was, like the late Senator Sumner, the impersonation of an idea. He was of that unyielding character which belongs to the statesman of the first rank. He was one of those men who were not only the authors of great ideas, and coupled with these combinations he had firm resolution and fixed purposes. Like Sumner, from the road which led him in the direction of the end he pursued accomplishing, and again like the Massachusetts statesman he believed not in the honesty of the Republic which permitted slavery to exist within its confines. As a Republican he simply lived, as a Republican he argued for universal rights, and a Republican he died.

We say this for the reason that the man's ideas and purpose may be truthfully and honestly stated. What does it matter if any other matters the dead man's mind was not only as clear as crystal, but it was also as broad as the world for it? All great leaders are known for their own ideas, and said to say, whether successful or not, the time is fixed when they shall be remembered only as an illustration of some starting and before incomprehensible point in the magazine of life, and then that is the end of them. "Simply this and nothing more."

"Junius Brutus" report of an "unfiled" opinion in the Supreme Court of the State of Oregon in the case of Hunt and Walker vs. Tieghl has everywhere been favorably received. The extra edition of the Independent, which contains the full text of the opinion, has been distributed to all the members of the family to take notice of the fact that the present Supreme Court is in disrepute, and that the people of Oregon should be thankful to "Junius Brutus" for his manly and independent courage and his knowledge of law which allows him to name the fault in the Judge—in the eyes of the law correctly—in the light of all fairness. We might add, it is a pity there have been no more of the family. The minute the present Supreme Court members of the family to take notice of the fact that the present Supreme Court is in disrepute, and that the people of Oregon should be thankful to "Junius Brutus" for his manly and independent courage and his knowledge of law which allows him to name the fault in the Judge—in the eyes of the law correctly—in the light of all fairness. We might add, it is a pity there have been no more of the family.

An attaché of the Bodie Standard recently, on the occasion of his birthday, went in debt for a spring chicken to the extent of $1.25, wherewith to appropriately celebrate the event. Upon dressing the fowl five distinct articles of gold jewelry were found in its crop, which aggregated $4.85. He sold the fowl, paid for the bird, and with the remaining $3.40 coppered the coin—and lost.

Walker's Statistic for the produce exchange, after a careful estimate, places the wheat crop of the United States this year at 425,000,000 bushels. The Spring wheat crop is over estimated. The amount consumed by 48,000,000 persons, plus the amount required for seed and other purposes, is placed at 250,000,000 bushels, leaving 175,000,000 bushels for export to Europe and 15,000,000 bushels for other ports.

The election at Oakland last Monday resulted in a victory to the anti-incorporators. The original incorporators were defeated by a majority so large in comparison with the minority vote that it seems they had all their money put up on winning a slow race! But don't cry, boys. You know that the people of these United States are devilish clever. When a thing is done that does not suit their particular fancy they abide their time (as in this Oakland matter), and then they go to work silently, surely and effectively correct the wrong done. Hurray for the people!

THE SCHOOL-MARMS.

The town is full of them—we mean school-marms. They are in the neighborhood, dimpled chin, low-pleasant-voiced, and were you to meet them in the street they would wear their best dresses, neat shoes or boots, and are so dainty in their dresses when crossing the street that we feel like exclaiming in the language of a mortal bard:

Oh, I'd like to be a scholar And with the scholars stand, A kiss upon my forehead, Then I'd make the sweetest music, Something beyond you-ho! That's the way in my creation, Between you and I.

Then they are everywhere to make the lover of the good and the beautiful feel bad—because he cannot appropriate all that there is nice in the world to himself. No wonder the fair sex in Roseburg, in the way of self-protection and to keep their sweethearts at a safe distance, would like to see the school-marm. If the Institute should continue another week we would not be surprised to hear that the daily custom had become general to offer in addition to the usual evening prayer—

And make our husbands faithful to us! I really am, I swear! The very old Adam is in all mankind. He could not resist the charms of Mother Eve, and for the love of a beautiful woman threw the world and eternal peace away. There are just now a number of married men in town who may throw their eternal peace away, if they do not blame them severely we pick them from Shakespeare the following drolery which they may paste in their hats and retain for future use:

I'm sorry I met the school-marm—I really am, I swear! See this patch upon my forehead? Then I haven't a hair!

A correspondent wants to know if we regard a Republican to be better than a Democrat. If the Lord loves us—and we hope He does—He has never given us power to discriminate between the two parties. So far as the leaders of the two parties are concerned we regard them as cut from the same piece of cloth, since all are anxious and willing and will under any circumstances take office—when they can get office. As to the rank and file of both parties—the men who do the voting—we have always found them the same, and there a Democrat will be found as good as a Republican. We have warm friends in both political parties, but it matters not who is a Democrat or who is a Republican. The matter of political belief upon their part has no effect upon our love for our friends.

The three members by two members of the Supreme Court to disbar "Junius Brutus" must have been manufactured or started by some one high in authority with the view of intimidating the public and the truth teller. In either case the reporter of opinions "unfiled" can and will write and be credited between you all if need be. His crucifixion, in the event such a thing takes place, will not essentially injure the man, but it will be a blot on the name of the man who will be soiled them work cheaper than ever.

Sixteen years ago a woman at Bridgeport, Conn., was accused by a neighbor of stealing his watch. There was no evidence against her, nor was she able to give satisfactory proof of her innocence. She grieved constantly over the matter, and of late, as she grew old and decrepit, she feared that she would die without being able to clear herself of the disgrace. But the watch has now been turned up by a plow in a field where the careless owner originally lost it.

We hear considerable to the effect that politicians have commenced laying their wires for the next June campaign. We wish to be particular in our statements that the names of those who will not give names of the "early birds" just now; suffice it to say that they are after the "worm." Under the present state of existing affairs "Don't" advise you to vote for any man yet; but wait and see whether or no the ring members will support him.

Our readers will be surprised to learn that Chas. De Young has been indicted by the Grand Jury of San Francisco for an assault with intent to kill. They only hope that a verdict, rendered by an honest jury of gullible, will blot the name of the man from the records of the State. The time for assassination has gone by. There will not be any power; and no man must be permitted to play the part of an assassin, even in the defense of any one, if he provokes the assault.

All parties knowing themselves indebted to the property of the poor, honest citizen, are hereby notified to make immediate settlement by cash or note and thus save costs hereinafter mentioned. WRIGHT & CARLSON. June 4, 1879.

The undersigned has a fine lot of Spanish Merino Rams, both thoroughbred and graded for sale cheap for cash or on proved credit. For further particulars inquire of THOMAS SMITH, Wilbur, Douglas Co., Oregon, Aug.

I will give the above reward for any information which will lead to the detection of the thief and recovery of the ninety-two bushels of wheat stolen from Mr. Palmer's warehouse a short time ago, and I would warn the people of Roseburg to be on their guard and advise them to take precautionary measures against theft. ANDREW SAWYER, Long Prairie, Douglas Co., Ogn.

Notice to Debtors. Having disposed of my interest in the hardware business and store in Roseburg to R. S. and J. C. ANOTHER TRIUMPH FOR THE WEBB-O-T STATE! NO MORE KIDNEY TROUBLES. NO MORE BACK ACHES! Oregon has long been noted for the wonderful variety of her natural resources. Her hills and valleys are stored with the choicest of Nature's lavish gifts. One by one these elements of her greatness are being sought out, understood and adapted to the use of her people. The latest of these discoveries is THE OREGON KIDNEY TEA. A plant which grows in the mountain fastnesses which are seldom trodden by the foot of man. This remedy presents the leaf in its natural state, and is not one of those nauseous liquids, put to sell, which too often cover nutritious and delicious drugs, but is kind nature's own remedy for "last, best gift to man." The tea made by boiling in water and certain natural substances, and filtered through a fine strainer, and is a most wonderful adjunct to other remedies in sustaining life during the process of Diapirasis.

There are thousands afflicted with diseases of the kidneys or urinary organs who suffer in silence rather than make known their troubles. Others seek relief by the use of various patent medicines, which, if they do not aggravate the disease, at least do not lessen it. Even those who secure the advice of physicians often fail to get relief, owing to the fact that the medicine prescribed is not adapted to the case. OREGON KIDNEY TEA is a strictly vegetable production and the most powerful and reliable of all remedies for the kidneys and urinary organs. The tea is prepared from the choicest of the kidneys and urinary organs. It is a most powerful and reliable of all remedies for the kidneys and urinary organs.
