BRIEF MENTION

Dr. Swick is located at Judge Hursh's office.

Judge Bonham and family are at Snowden Springs.

We don't want to advertise the new sign of Haffenden Bros. It is large enough to speak for itself.

Chas. L. Mosher has returned to to Roseburg and the Star. Fraternally, Charley, here's our [illegible].

Rev. McDonald will hold divine service in the Episcopal church, with holy communion, to-morrow.

I. R. Moores remembered the INDEPENDENT office during the week. He was in the city on business connected with railroad lands.

If there is any one in Douglas county who is happy, it is our friend, S. Cohen. It is a girl; and he has a boy old enough to say he is "papa's man!"

Brigadier General A. W. Compton has returned from his mines on Grave Creek. Of the mines we will speak hereafter; of A. W. C.—well, we'll go fishing with him S—'aturday!

Henry L. Hanson, convicted of stealing a Winchester rifle from the store of Sheridan Bros., has been pardoned from the penitentiary by Gov. Thayer. Next!

Were we a mathmetician we would endeavor to "figure up" the number of school teachers in town. To "do a sum" of this kind, we would have to write to the father of mathematics for instruction—if we could remember his name and address.

We acknowledge a friendly call from our old friend, J. M. Bower, Esq. The "old, young man," is as good looking, as pleasing in general appearance and as sensible in his way of talking as he used to be; and we were "glad to see you, boy!"

D. M. Love, of Portland, advertises through the Star for a wife. Perhaps he has taken the proper course, and advertised in the "proper" paper. Anyway, we announce the fact of his desires and thus we give a poor, hard-up man's notice general circulation.

The Inland Empire and the Roseburg Star have gone into partnership in their complaints against "Junius Brutus," this paper's special reporter of Supreme Court decisions, "unfiled." They are playing against a sharp instrument, and our advice while they affect to believe they are toying with an insect of harmless species; is:

Beware of the bee,
And mind it while I sting,
For if you play with that fine bee,
You'll surely feel his sting!

Fell Off the Grade.

When the stage left Canyonville, going south the other evening, J. C. Ulam got aboard, and notwithstanding the expostulations of Mr. Roberts, the driver, contended he was going home. Mr. Ulam's place of residence was in the opposite direction, but the driver thought when the other stage was met in the canyon, Ulam would see his mistake, and return. Accordingly the stage driver drove on and met the other stage on one of the steep grades in the canyon, and there Ulam was convinced that he was going in the wrong direction. He climbed out and started to get on the other stage, but before he reached it, he stumbled and went off the grade and rolled and tumbled over logs and brush until he reached the bank of the creek, sixty or seventy feet below. Both drivers immediately took their lighted candles and went to Ulam's assistance, expecting to find him dead; but when they reached the bottom of the canyon, they found Ulam half way under a huge log and his feet on the edge of the creek. He was badly bruised and unable to walk; but the drivers finally succeeded in bringing him to the top of the grade, where he was put on the returning stage and conveyed home.

Arrested.

Friday morning Hardy Elliff was taken to Portland, charged with cutting timber on government land. Mr. Elliff informs us he has cut timber on an old homestead claim, and certain Deputy Marshal Burns had got hold of an innocent man. We expect to hear of Mr. Elliff's discharge without blame upon his arrival at Portland.

Prepared for Winter.

Mr. Henry Griffin and Mrs. C. C. Brown were married at Looking Glass last Wednesday. Mrs. Brown is well and favorably known as the charming landlady of the best hotel ever known in Looking Glass, and the happy pair have our best wishes for a happy wedded life.

Will Soon Move.

We hear that Dr. Higley will soon remove his drug store to the building formerly occupied by S. M. Moore as a saddlery and harness establisument. The building is now being fitted up for the Doctor.

NEW YORK, November 6.—The result on the State ticket is close, and both parties claim the victory. It will take official figures to decide.

ALBANY, November 6.—The Evening Journal claims part of the Republican State ticket besides Cornell elected. Haskins has a majority of 455 over Potter. Cornell's plurality is 42,484.

PHILADELPHIA, November 6.—Fifty out of sixty-seven counties in Pennsylvania, officially received, put Butler's majority at 47,021. Seventeen counties to be heard from, which last year gave a Republican majority of 11,951.

HARTFORD, November 6.—Net Republican majority in the senatorial districts is 26,131.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., November 6.—Returns from the interior are coming in slowly. The indications are that the Republican State ticket is elected by a majority of 25,000.

BALTIMORE, November 6.—Hamilton's majority for Governor is 21,740. The legislature stands: Senate, 19 Democrats, 5 Republicans, 2 independent Democrats; House of Delegates, 66 Democrats, 16 Republicans. Democratic majority on joint ballot, 60.

Sad Accident.

We are called upon, to note a case of accidental shooting. Last Friday Silas Marvin, Newton Claibourn and two others went out into the mountains hunting. Saturday morning they started up a canyon, two on each side, and before they had proceeded more than a couple of miles, Marvin saw something moving on the opposite side of the canyon in the brush, and without thought raised his gun and quickly fired. He was too good a marksman as the result of his shot proved. At the crack of the gun some one screamed, and when he crossed the ravine he found that he had shot Claibourn through the side, nearly under the left arm. The agony of Marvin can be more easily imagined than described. He at once went to the house of the boy to search for his father (C. W. Claibourn) and not finding him there hurried on to Oakland. The distressed father did not reach his son in time, for the poor boy died in the woods, and his body had been brought home. The deceased was about twenty-two years of age, a bright and honest young man and universally respected. What makes the matter worse, if such is possible, he and Marvin were the warmest of friends.

Why Don't You Buy?

All steady and constant writers will agree that they find their work easier and more agreeable when the pen they use is suited to them. This being true, it is singular that Dr Hamilton does not sell in one day the complete stock of fine gold pens which he has now ditplayed in his show windows. The pens are of every shade and grade. In the lot can be found those which answer to the most delicate touch, and others which are suited to the stiffened, cramped fingers of age. These pens are sold at a trifle above cost, and will wear a lifetime.

Should be Removed.

We notice a lot of new gravel has been placed on the streets at the junction of Washington and Jackson Some of "the gravel" would be called boulders in the mines. In time when the gravel settles, the large rocks will be on top, and necessarily will have to be carted away. Would it not be as well for the board of Trustees to see to it, that nothing but fine gravel is placed upon the streets?

Land Office Business.

Following are the transactions in the U. S. Land Office in this city, for the month of October, for a report of which we are indebted to the Receiver: Three hundred and ninety-six acres sold for cash; 20 homestead entries, embracing 2,254 acres; 24 preemption filings; 10 final homestead proofs, embracing 1,136 acres; 8 donation certificates issued; 1 entry of timber land.

New Business.

Mr. Simon Caro, of the firm of Caro Bros., left for Portland this week to purchase a new and complete stock of goods for the firm's new store at Oakland. New goods have also been ordered from San Francisco. The firm's place of business in Oakland is next door to the old stand of Wheeler Bros., and "Uncle Aaron" will be the captain in charge.

An Elopement.

Charles Jones, a blacksmith at Camas Valley, ran off last Sunday with the daughter of a Mr. Benham. The girl was but 15 years of age, and Jones is an ex-convict. They went in the direction of Coos Bay, where we hope some kindly J. P., or minister has tied the knot which will save the girl in name at least, if not altogether from disgrace.

TEACHER'S INSTITUTE.

The Teachers' Institute for Douglas county, met at the courthouse, in this city on Wednesday last, at which time there were present, Prof. Powell, Prof. Heard, and all the teachers of the county.

The Institute was called to order by Prof. Powell, and R. Newcomb was elected secretary.

Proceedings were opened with prayer by Rev. Bell, and sweet music by the choir.

The opening remarks—and very sensible remarks they were—were made by Prof. Powell.

Prof. Heard then addressed the Institute on compound numbers and explained the matter in a very admirable manner, after which a general discussion was had. The next order on the programme was primary reading by Prof. Powell, all knowing his capabilities, we need say nothing further.

Music by the choir.

Orthography and the elementary sounds by G. T. Russell of Oakland, was an able and very instructive address.

AFTERNOON SESSION

Opened by music by the choir.

After which Mr. B. A. Cathy demonstrated oral lessons in grammar in an admirable manner and was followed by a very spirited discussion on the tenses.

Institute closed at 4 P. M.

EVENING SESSION.

Music by the choir.

Lecture on atmospheric air illustrated by experiments by Prof. Powell, was a feature of the evening.

Music by the choir.

Essay on "Higher Education," written by J. Shepherd—read by Mr. J. W. Strange.

Music by the choir.

SECOND DAY.

Opened by song by Mrs. Higley.

Followed by a dissertation on fractions by Mr. Hutchison, of Oakland, after which, a very spirited discussion.

Music.

Prof. Powell then explained his manner of teaching reading to the younger scholars.

Mr. Hursh then introduced spelling in his usual energetic manner, and we are inclined to think some of the teachers leaned that they might attend a spelling school with benefit.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Opened with music, and followed by a general discussion on nouns and their properties, led by Mr. Cathay.

Mr. R. Booth then informed the Institute what he knew about history and the manner he used in imparting to his scholars.

Prof. Powell then gave the teachers a general explanation of the school law.

THIRD DAY.

Music.

The morning exercises commenced by a very able and instructive explanation of percentage by Prof. G. A. Brodie, and a general discussion on the same subject by the teachers.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Opened with music.

Mr. Cathay introduced his ideas of the verb in on able manner.

Dr. Browne then told what he thought was the best manner of conducting examinations and it was considerable.

After a piece of music a recess was had, followed by Prof. Powell who gave the teachers a programme for conducting daily exercises with explanations. Hon. A. F. Campbell followed with a very interesting discourse on the school laws of Oregon.

General remarks by Miss Tate.

Adjourned.

The Oakland Election.

The city election at Oakland was held last Monday. The "disorderly" town mentioned in the petition sent to the last Legislature begging for incorporation was as quiet and as orderly as is usually a Quaker meeting. No one declared war; no one put on war paint and declared himself "chief;" all entitled to vote went to the polls and voted, and the day was decided in favor of those opposed to incorporation by an average majority of 38 votes. Following are the names of the officers elect: Trustees—J. R. Redman, Wm. Hargan, James Hazelton, J. C. Young. L. C. Wheeler; recorder—George Settle; treasurer—P. Renhaven; marshal—Alex. Hobert. The friends of incorporation polled the large number of fifteen votes. Eight of the voters were candidates for office, and in voting for each other did not receive two votes apiece. Had the candidates in question voted for those on the opposite side as is usual, some one man would not have received a vote, and seven would have only received one! The vote speaks for itself—right here we admit we can say nothing worse for the candidates on the incorporation ticket.

LETTER FROM J. C. SHAMBROOK.

ED. INDEPENDENT:—On September 5th, 1879 I left the beautiful little city of Oakland, Oregon, destined for the Blue Grass State, Kentucky. I engaged the California Railroad company to convey me to the metropolis of Oregon where I was to bid adieu to my "native land" for a while, which circumstance weighed heavily upon my mind; but the moment arrived when I boarded the steamer which was to carry me through the "Golden Gate" to the metropolis of the Pacific, San Francisco. San Francisco was reached in due time and we were soon on our journey for the East. Our company consisted of some old residents of the Pacific coast who were going to the homes of their childhood to see parents, brothers, sisters and friends. Others were in our company who had ventured to the far-off Western land and becoming homesick, discouraged, or otherwise dissatisfied were now, to use their expressions, returning to the "land of God," there contented to live and die. Our journey was pleasant in the most part and enjoyed by all. The scenery was grand and we had the pleasure of viewing those great landmarks and freaks of nature of which we have so often heard parents and friends speak. These great natural curiosities are grand and are viewed with pleasure by every one passing through that region. We passed through a great variety of country, good, bad and indifferent of which the average Western is quite familiar. Utah has the appearance of being a noble country, well improved near the Great Salt Lake, and from the many children that may be seen on every hand in that country, would lead a person to believe that crops in Utah are as certain as they are in Oregon. The people in this country appear to be very prosperous, as the many fine residences there will attest.

At Ogden we changed cars and then we were traveling on Jay Gould's road at a rapid rate, and now were approaching the East. The scenery on the Rocky Mountains was grand and any eno who admires the work of nature would have enjoyed this part of the route "hugely." Our company became greatly excited as we passed through great droves of antelope at which numbers of shots were fired by our excited crowd, but without effect. In merriment we rolled onward and soon we had evidences of civilization, as we rolled on down toward the great plains of the Platte river. Thousands of cattle, sheep and horses could be seen grazing on the grass covered prairies, but houses did not deck these plains, which would cause a person to wonder why this great evidence of civilization was absent, and why it was that these beautiful plains were unoccupied and unclaimed except by the wild animals which wander too and fro over them undisturbed Thus we traveled on toward Omaha where we again changed cars, and were soon flying through the thickly settled country of the East, and how different this country from the Pacific coast. Instead of fields of golden grain were cornfields seemingly of eneless extent and forests of timber, entirely different from that on the Pacific; such was the character of the scenery on to Louisville, Kentucky, at which place we arrived in due time, safe and sound, where we at once made preparations for taking a rest. After taking some refreshments and recuperating a little, we at once set about on a tour of inspection.

Louisville, claiming a population of one hundred and eighty thousand, stands in the lead of all Southern cities as a business centre. Merchants and traders from the Southern States come to Louisville for their supplies, and many people come here during the Summer to pass the Summer months in enjoyment in this city, it being a pleasant place to live, healthy and not subject to epidemics or diseases, as other Southern cities are. We find the average Kentuckian to be very hospitable, social and pleasant and we cannot help being impressed with their generosity. We also find them to be a sporting people, fond of the race and chase, always ready to boast of their pretty women, who are very numerous, and as lovely in appearance as heart could wish.

Louisville is one of the finest medical educational centres in the United States, having unlimited advantages, being in a healthy and salubrious clime; and where economy is an object of the students, Louisville is the place for enjoying this advantage to its fullest extent, as good board and lodging can be obtained for twelve dollars per month.

The Louisville Medical College at which I have matriculated, is the leading institution of the city, at which students from all parts of the United States matriculate annually. The Faculty is composed of the ablest men in the South, whose training has been the best and of many years standing, which secures to the faithful student of this school a complete and thorough understanding of medical science. The professors of this institution are very diligent in their labors and take a great interest in instructing and advancing the student.

LOUISVILLE, KY., Oct. 20th, 1879.

CALAPOOIA ITEMS.

Mr. Webb and Baker are running four teams plowing.

Wm. Deardorff sold his fine Pinto horse to Peter Burns, the accommodating mail carrier from Looking Glass to Oakland.

Commissioner Cook, we are sorry to say, was taken quite sick last week but at this writing is regaining his usual standing in health.

Elder S. S. Martin, pastor of the Baptist church here, failed to fill his appointment at the Calapooia school house last Sunday, his presence being desired in Coos county.

Some unknown scoundrel, during Mr. B. Y. Hartley's absence, broke into his house and turned things upside down in a general manner, in search of valuables. The would-be rogue's search was fruitless and o course he did not get away with anything of any value. We predict a few doses of cold lead would be a nice treat for such house plunderers.

Why call the INDEPENDENT'S correspondent from Calapooia a simpleton? A fool or a child would be the better words. All stated by the Calapooia correspondent of the INDEPENDENT was that the Star was losing subscribers, and if the Star correspondent does call us a simpleton, which means fool, he must remember that the old adage is to the effect that fools and children always tell the truth. And is not the correspondent furnishing a witness against himself? Be we either fool or child, it seems we must have told the truth when we reported the Star was losing ubscribers here. The proof, however, is in the receipts of the postoffice. And be we fool or not, the truth is told, and whether under the name of "Apwer" or a different disguise has been assumed by the Star's correspondent the fact is seemingly apparent—he cannot be a child, he is not a fool; but he is an idiot. But, in the ducking business, I would say that the correspondent is insolent and ungentlemanly in his remarks. No MAN would ever allude to that which concerns him not, and no GENTLEMAN would speak of anything would bring a pure woman's name into public discussion. Chesterfield has written some letters on deportment of gentlemen. Perhaps, had the correspondent read those letters he would not have written as he has. If he had read them, then we will say this much; He profits not by what he reads, since his senses are coarse, and his breeding is that of one who cannot learn, though taught by the best of masters, to be a gentleman.

An entire new discovery. The best preparation for the hair that has ever been presented to the public. It will immediately free the head from all dandruff and scurf, and produce a new growth where it has fallen off. This vegetable remedy is recommended by a large number of physicians, and by every one who has used it. It is sold at a very low price in order to introduce it to the Douglas county markets.
None genuine unless signed by the proprietor. Address, JOHN MEDLEY,
Oakland, Oregon.
