The Ute . Comm Los Pinos Agency, Nov. 14 .- Ouray caried his point at the Indian council on the night of the 12th inst., and the principal chiefs of the White River Utes, except Jack, were present at the agency yesterday, ready to give testimony when called upon. The Indians who testifled before the commission are sworn in by Chief Ouray according to the custom of the Ute nation. Douglas was the first witness called. At the order of Ouray he arose from his seat, and standing erect with arm raised, administered the oath to himself as follows: "By the Heaven above, by the earth that will receive me, by the Great Spirit that looks down upon me, I dare not speak anything but the truth." This was said with much force and with an appropriate gesture. The oath like all the Indian testimony, was trans-lated into Spanish by Ouray and then in-

At first he was nervous and very pale, but towards the close of his testimony had regained his wonted composure. He saw nothing, heard nothing, and took no part in the killing of Meeker and the em-ployes and the fight with Thornburg. He found also Mrs. Meeker running around oose, and took her to his house and took care of her. His time was so much oc-cupied with the care of his wounded boy that he did not know what was going on. At the time the killing of employes com-menced he was in a warehouse, and does not know who began the attack. He says that his feelings overcame him, and it made him cry to think into what a condition his friends had fallen. Mecker told him that in two days soldiers would come. Douglas replied it would be better to have officers come to the agency and have a council, and try to settle existing difficulties, as the Indians were afraid of Douglas in the morning and meet the offi-cers; but while they were talking the fight with Thornburg was going on, though neither Douglas nor Meeker knew it at the time. Oakland Marsh Lands. The Central Pacific Railroad Company to-day commenced snit in the third district court against the city of Oakland to quiet title to about 500 acres of land lying along the water front of that city and on the south side of Sun Antonio creek. This course has been made necessary by the recent agitation of the water front question in Oakland and a squatters' war which had been in progress on the marsh land. The land in question is worth about half a million dollars.

The new constitution provides that the directors or trustees of corporations and joint stock associations shall be jointly and severally liable to creditors and stockholders for all moneys embezzled or misappropriated by the officers of such corporation or joint stock association by poration or joint stock association during the Iterm of office of such directors or rustees. To evade this provision an agreement is being signed by the stock-holders of one of the largest banks in the city waiving such liability on the part of the directors, unless such embezzlement or misappropriation shall be the result of co-operation, collusion or negligence of such director or directors as may be sought to be made liable for such embezglement or misappropriation. Other banks are about to pursue the same course.

Burke against J. C. Flood and others amounting to $38,911,000. Burke gether with copies of complaints in the actions pending and was demurred to by the executors and legatees of the estate. Judge Myrick, of the probate court, in overruling the demurrer says that sufficient appears in opposition to show that a partial distribution should not be made until the controversy as to the rights of Burke is disposed of.

Charles DeYoung in Court, In the municipal criminal court to-day argument was entered upon in regard to, the validity of indictments found by the last grand jury. Charles DeYoung was called upon to plead to the indictments found against him for assault to murder I. S. Kalloch. Mr. Campbell who was with Mesers. Cohen and Lloyd, appeared for defendant, moved that the indictment he set saide on the following grounds: be set aside on the following grounds: That certain grand jurors who were not qualified to act in the case, were present when the DeYoung indictment was acted upon; that after the death of Mr. Cun-ningham there were only eighteen grand jurors, and that number did not make a grand jury; that Mr. Burton had no au-thority to act as foreman of the grand jury; that Juror Eggers only heard part of the evidence in DeYoung's case, and that really only twelve found the indiciment against DeYoung. The first ground was disproved by the testimony of H. F. Williams, one of the grand jury. The last one, admitted by the district attorney regarding Juror Eggers' testimony, was ruled out, and counsel proceeded to ar-gue the question of there being only eighteen on the jury after the death of

A foreigner might have supposed that the restoration or the destruction of the Tuileries was as grave a matter as that of the rebuilding of Jerusalem after the captivity, symbolizing, if not a religion the rebuilding of Jerusalem after the captivity, symbolizing, if not a religion or State, at least a form of government. The Sanballats of the day were MM. Proust and Clemenceau. The former urged that after eight years' indecision, it was time to remove the ruins, that any remains of interest could be preserved in the museums, that the present garden should be extended; and that the Tuileries could not be harmonized with the Louvre without being rebuilt in a different style. M. Clement cean denounced the ruins as an insult. Baron Haussmann, formerly famous for his demo'itions—he protested he had demolished only what was mean and insalubrious, but he was twitted with mutilating the Luxembourg gardens—was this time champion of conservation. He regretted the eight years' inaction, but, while disclaiming any desire for a restoration fitting the palace for a royal residence, he urged the rebuilding of the central portion, the galleries of Philibert Delorme, and the two Medici pavilons as a present.
