RESOLUTION OF ENDORSEMENT

WHEREAS, THE DOUGLAS INDEPENDENT a newspaper published in Roseburg, has been published in this county for the period of three years; and

WHEREAS, said newspaper is now well established, and during a three years' trial it has faithfully served the interests of the producer and tax-payer; therefore be it

Resolved, We, the members of the Umpqua Grange No. 38, do give THE DOUGLAS INDEPENDENT our unqualified endosement, and would recommend it as a newspaper worthy the patronage of every farmer and tax payer in Southern Oregon.

{L.S.} GEO. W. JONES, Master.
J. P DUNCAN, Secretary.

TO ADVERTISERS.

The DOUGLAS INDEPENDENT has the largest circulation of any paper published in Roseburg in the counties of Douglas, Jackson and Coos, and will furnish the proof of our assertion when demanded by responsible advertisers. KELLY & WELLS.

ADDITIONAL PROOF.

We have often asserted that a mixed, independent administration of county affairs is a benefit to the county in which such investment in politics is made. As often have we given proof as to the truthfulness of our assertions in the premises. The present administration of county affairs is decidedly mixed so far as concerns the two political parties in the matter of the political complexion of those who are holding office. The sheriff, clerk and treasurer and one county commissioner are democrats, but their influence and their work have been and are evenly balanced by the majority of republicans who sit in the county and commissioners' court—one judge and one commissioner. From the commencement of the work of the present mixed administration there has been an evidenced purpose on the part of every officeholder to cut down expenses, and economically administer county affairs. The large and burdensome county debt, which began with the black mud swindle of $15,000 and which confronted the present officeholders in the shape of a heavy load to begin with, independent of the trouble to direct and provide for the expenses to accompany another year's work, has been wiped out of existence. This was promised for the mixed administration before its election by this paper. That there in reality exists no county indebtedness to-day is evidenced not only in the fact that county warrants command one per cent. premium upon gold, but outside of that one important fact, are accepted by the sheriff in full amount for all taxation. When there is another fact in proof, pleasing to taxpayers. Last Monday morning County Treasurer Wright sent below, to the State Treasurer, the sum of $2,532 50 in State taxes, making the whole amount sent up to the date stated, to the State Treasurer, $12,931 88. The balance to be sent is only $2,000, and that will be forwarded before the expiration of the time allowed by law for the payment of such taxes. The point here is, that for the first time in three years State taxes have been paid without crowding the time prescribed, and Douglas county was the first to pay State taxes of all the counties in the State. And the county treasurer also informs us that he has known wealthy men—men who appreciate valuable, interest-bearing securities—to come to the sheriff and pay their taxes in gold coin when they were possessed of interest-bearing county warrants, thereby showing that they valued the warrants in their possession more than what is often termed the "almighty twenty-dollar piece." One wealthy gentleman, whose name we suppress for obvious reasons, when paying his taxes, amounting to $ 2 0 or $1,500, dropped in besides his gold, one single county warrant, calling for $2, and sighed because his change was not sufficient to make up the full amount, and that the warrant was not valuable enough to pay him for the trouble he might experience in hunting up some one who had $2 to loan him for a short time. It is certain the warrant, as small in amount as it was would never have left his pocketbook, had he known before the total amount of taxes he had to pay.

What other county in the State is there to-day under partizan management can boast of this much? There is not one in all Oregon. Where is the administration within the last five years of local government done better? It is true, there was a time in the history of this county before when the county was out of debt. But that is nothing in comparison to the present. That was a time before unscrupulous democrats and unscrupulous republicans were allowed to form a ring having for its purpose the plundering of the people. That was a time when republican and democratic candidates were not the result of the convivings of a ring the members of which cared more for pelf than principle or honesty. Then no ring had ever plunged the county into debt to the amount of $15,000 to perpetrate a black mud swindle, which will be remembered as long as any of the present generation of taxpayers in this county have existence.

But the mixed administration is the honest choice of the people who voted for every member of it because they believed each member was an honest and capable man. That the results are gratifying is proof of the wisdom and good judgment of the people when they are left free to act for themselves, and are not trammeled in their utterances or driven to the polls to vote as so many sheep to the slaughter by the command of party leaders. It is further proof that when the people are their own masters they generally have what they most desire to come about to suit their own wishes. This being true, where is the argument against the people always being their own masters? Who will say that it is a necessity with them that they go to party leaders for instructions how to vote or have party leaders pick out the candidates for them to elect to office? The man who would argue that the power of nomination must exist in party leaders, asserts that the American people are incapable of thinking for themselves, and to all intents and purposes contends that the matter of government for the people by the people is sheer nonsense, and should never be thought of by the people. It is the duty of independents to oppose all such reasoners as would argue that they must have a master to argue and reason and act for them, as the democratic and republican leaders in this county claim they have a right. They should do as they did nearly two years ago. They made a venture then and it was a profitable one. The work is to done again, and all to be performed by them. Let them again make the effort, and turning a deaf ear to the party managers, assert their freedom which gives them a right to think and act for themselves.

BE ABOVE SUSPICION.

It is a matter of amusement to see how the members of the Roseburg ring is now working in its efforts to secure control of the county at the next election, supported, as it is clearly to be seen, by its two papers—both weakly. In the first place, we hear democrats agreeing for the nomination of a republican now holding public position for the place of congressman for Oregon. Again, we hear the same democrats urging the nomination of another republican for office arguing that said republican will defeat certain democrat! How much love for party is there in all such proceedings? Would not a man of common sense say that such democrats were democrats for the time being, and because they can thus serve their own private ends, and would not a man with the intelligence mentioned believe that such democrats are more desirous of pocketing a dollar or two, or two or three thousand dollars, than to work the promotion of a principle of an honest party? For our part we cannot be otherwise than suspicious of a candidate for the nomination for congress on the republican ticket who finds advocates before the nomination on the democratic side of the house, nor have we anything otherwise than suspicion of the another candidate. It looks strange, at least, when such men are the choice of democrats, and such democrats are members of a corrupt political ring. In this writing it is not our purpose to pen our thoughts in Greek or to write in Latin. Plain English suits our purpose best. And our purpose is to benefit both the candidates named. We but speak for the great public which looks upon the ring as dishonest and its candidates as having the support of dishonest men. It matters not how honest the candidates may be, the fact of the class of their supporters is regarded as a bad omen. It would be far better that all candidates should declare they despise the ring and want none of its support, if they desire election to office. A worse reputation could not be given a man in Douglas county to-day than that he is a Fink man and the ring's candidate.

GENERAL GOSSIP.

J. D. Miller, of Oregon City, has failed for $ 0,000.

We have received a copy of the Herald, a wide-awake, newsy republican paper, published at Albany, Oregon. We wish it success.

Three hundred mounted men rode through Elliott county, Kentucky, whipping all the reputed thieves and hanging two confessed highwaymen.

Wm. Nosh, a lad about 13 years of age, residing on the Dixon place, in Jackson county, was accidentally drowned on the 2d inst., in Evans' creek.

Fears are entertained that the late gales have proved disastrous to the men on Tillamook Rock. Steamers have been unable to reach the rock for several days.

An enthusiastic Grant man in Washington thinks the General's will be the only name mentioned before the national convention for the presidency, and that Blaine will be content to take second place.

Mammoth City is called the drunkard's paradise. There is no city or town government, and the county jail is 81 miles away, so that, as a general thing, men are not arrested for any crimes less heinous than highway robbery or murder.

The impression prevails in Congress that the pension business has been overdone, but still bucombe bills are being continually introduced to deplete the treasury. Over five hundred millions of dollars have been paid out the past sixteen years.

The Salem Mercury has been removed to Portland, and will there, hereafter be published as a democratic newspaper. Portland needs just such a newspaper; the democratic party will not be the loser by the change, and we wish the "Portland Mercury" success.

Wang Fook, the murderer of the Chinawoman, Ani Qui, will on Tuesday, the 20th inst., expiate his cold-blooded crime on the gallows in the court house yard Salem. A motion for a new trial was not made, and every hope to cheat justice and the gallows has been forsaken. He will surely receive his deserved fate.

The loss sustained by the fearful storm in Portland last Friday was over $75,000. The roads of Clarke county, W. T. can be scarcely seen by reason of the density of fallen trees, and one man walked on the bodies of the prostrated monarchs for a mile without being able to touch the ground. In places they are piled ten feet high.

Several lives were lost in the storm of Friday in Portland and in Clarke county. At Portland two men were killed, at La Center three children were crushed to death by a falling tree, and at the Spirit Lake mountains a child was torn from the hands of its mother by the wind and killed by a falling limb, and its father badly crushed by a falling tree.

Prof. Klinkerfus, of Gottingen, ridicules the notion, to which he assigns an English origin, of the danger to the earth of the present position of Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus and Neptune. He scouts the idea of the epidemics of the sixth and sixteenth centuries being caused by a similar phenomenon, declaring that such a phenomenon did not then occour, and can only occur, even excluding Neptune, once in 420 years.

The Pacific Coast hop crop was estimated by good judges to amount to about 10,000 to 11,000 bales for the year 1879. Up to Dec. 1, 1879, 8,385 bales of hops had been exported. There are now about 750 bales on hand in San Francisco and 300 elsewhere, leaving about 1,035 bales for consumption at home. There is every indication that hops will go to a higher figure than any are yet reached before the next session.

ON DISBARRING ATTORNEYS.

Last week we had reference to an affidavit submitted to the supreme court by four attorneys. At the time we had but little space at our disposal—no more than enough to say that part of the affidavit which declared we stated to either one of the men whose names were attached that Sidney Dell was the author of "Junius Brutus" letters was false. We had intended to write an answer to the affidavit, but Mr. Dell saves us the trouble by the following letter addressed to the editor of the Oregonian, which letter appeared in the Oregonian of Tuesday morning:

I notice in Friday's issue o your journal a copy of an affidavit filed on Thursday in the supreme court of Oregon by W. H. Effinger, W. Lair Hill, G. H. Durham and H. Y. Thompson, charging me with composing and publishing a "false and scurrilous travesty of the decision and opinion of the court," in the Walker-Teal case. Goethe says:

'Boldness has genius, power, magic in it."

But this charge is unabashed effrontery. The affidavit is the first step in the proceeding to disbar me and take the bread out of my mouth for daring to open it in defense of popular rights. The charge is ambiguous. It does not specify whether the falsity is in the facts as stated by "Junius Brutus" or not. If they mean to allege that the facts in the case as stated by "Junius Brutus" are false in any material particular then they are wilful falsifiers. I have repeatedly in the public press dared these men to deny these facts. I so offered in the Oregonian of Oct. 31st in the following language: "If any one can deny the facts or refute the logic, I agree to resign the office of attorney in the supreme court, to which I have a vested right under the constitution and the laws." No one dared take it up; and when on December 7th some one signing himself "Phillipi," and whom I supposed to be W. H. Effinger, slipped into the Standard under the mysterious caption, H. and W. vs. T and G," as if shrinking from public observation, and made a distorted and pecular defense, I at once replied politely, stating the facts and asking "Phillipi" to admit or deny them, and when the facts are agreed upon we could proceed to the discussion before the bar of public opinion. The only reply I had was a broadside of editorial abuse, and "Phillipi" was heard of no more. The affidavit men, therefore, do not mean to allege, I suppose, that I have made a false statement of the facts. If, then, the facts are correctly stated the conclusion of law drawn by "Junius Brutus" is irresistible. Such is the belief of the independent bar and people of Oregon. Such is the universal criticism of the press of this coast, and all the eastern newspapers which have criticised it. The decision of the court is utterly indefensible and in disregard of the plainest fundamental principles of law. If, then, the facts are correct and the conclusion of law sound it must be that these affidavit men mean to charge that the imputation of motive to Judge Kelly of acting upon the partiality of friendship for a man who had done him a great favor was false. This, however, is like special pleading on a trope, or a bill of indictment against a metaphor. If there is no law to sustain the decision it is plain that some motive must have actuated the judge. Is, then, the imputation of partiality to a friend a "false" inference? If it is, then some motive beside mere frailty must be inferred. Less generous persons than myself assert graver reasons. I scorn to charge any criminal motive unless I had the proof. I am prepared to show that the facts, on which my inference is based, are true. The only difference between me and the rest of independent bar is that I express publicly, in behalf of public justice, what they express privately. If, then I am to be silenced by the supreme court so should be all the independent lawyers in the state, and nobody allowed to practice law except the servile flatterers of the court and the members of the legal ring. Our English forefathers went into revolution and overturned the "star chamber" courts, and succeeded in establishing the fundamental principle that "no court shall be secret, but justice shall be administered openly and without purchase." This great principle has been adopted in our constitution. But of what avail is the principle, if none but servile flatterers of the court are allowed to practice before it? How can the people ever know the outrages on justice if an honest attorney tells them at the risk of having his only means of livelihood cut off by these powerful public servants? Is it not plain that such a course makes the decisions of our highest court a sealed book to the people and the court a "star chamber" whose judgments may be peddled out to the highest bidder? An independent and fearless bar is only real guaranty of the people against the tyranny and injustice of the courts; and if the people fail to stand up to and support the attorney who has the courage to assert their rights they deserve to be robbed, and to hold their lives and property by the frail and uncertain tenure of the whims, caprices, or even venality of their highest courts. If the court decide according to law, they can bear criticism, and the only effect of an unfounded attack upon them is to relegate the attorney who makes it to the scorn and contempt of all good citizens. If the attack is just and unanswerable before the bar of public opinion, then the effort to destroy the fearless attorney who makes it will be a confession by the court of wrong doing, and will only provoke the indignation of a free people. In this connection I give the following extract from the views of a distinguished jurist and statesman announced in the supreme court of the United States nearly fifty years ago. He says "In no civilized country with which I am acquainted has the power been assumed of striking an attorney from the rolls of the court for publishing even a libel. * * * It is the distinguishing glory of our institutions that a public functionary can claim no immunity, no exemption from public scrutiny and public censure, that does not belong equally to a private citizen." Another equally distinguished said: "By the summary process adopted by the judge, the attorney is stripped of every right guaranteed to freemen. His prosecutor is the judge himself; the offense imputed to him, cloak the matter as we can, is one against the judge himself; and he the aggrieved party, erects himself into a tribunal, to try before himself and punish by his sole authority, this wrong against himself. * * * I am fully warranted in maintaining that no adjudged case in modern times can be produced showing the exercise of the power of an English punishing courts, as for contempt, libelous publications on courts or parties to suits, in reference to causes finally adjudicated and decided." Another who obtained even a wider fame not only in this country but abroad, said: It is important then to know whether henceforward an attorney must humble himself and before the sycophant of a judge, whom he may despise, under the penalty of being deprived of the right to practice his profession before him. If a judge be weak, or if he be wicked, his judicial conduct is as fair a subject of discussion among lawyers as among any other class of citizens; and for exercising this right they incur no punishment which cannot be inflicted on any other person. If this proposition be not true, they become the mere creatures of the court. Instead of being the firm and fearless asserters of their clients' rights, they must cringe and assent to any and every intimidation of the judge at the risk of their ruin. The public have almost as deep an interest in the independence of the bar as of the bench. * * * If I write and publish an article which a Judge may consider as a libel upon himself, is it not enough that he may appeal, like other citizens, to the laws of his country for redress, and have me fined and imprisoned for the offense? Shall he be permitted to take the law in his own hands, and add to this punishment a forfeiture of my means of subsistence by taking away my profession? Even the punishment of a libel as a contempt, by fine and imprisonment, would be mercy, when compared with this power. Had the judge in this case the power to suspend the attorney from practicing his profession? * If he has, the members of a profession which has ever stood foremost in the defense of civil liberty, are themselves the veriest slaves in existence."

Such a power might be claimed by a Scroggs or a Jeffries, but for my part I propose, in defense of my clients' rights to expose judicial outrages whenever my duty demands it, be the consequences what they may.

These affidavit men likwise call my review "scurrilous." Now this means "low and obscene." Surely, these injured attorneys who can't defend their decisions in the public press, and rush to the court to punish me for exposing the wrong, do not understand the English language when they apply such a term to my review, reprinted in Saturday's Oregonian, and to which I call public attention. If any more decent and polite language can be used in expressing the ideas, I confess I have never yet found it. Severe it may be, but scurrilous, never! And yet these reckless men have sworn that it is so.

These affidavit men also take pains to swear in effect that they have traced up the authorship diligently until they have "treed" me. They had only to apply to me and they could have learned it without difficulty. I never sneak around like some men, or hide behind cripples. If I have a charge to make, I make it openly, and stand by it till I am convinced of error.

In conclusion I will add that this is no longer my cause. It is merged into the higher and more important cause of the supreme court and a legal ring against popular rights. I understand that one of the judges says that I am "a troublesome fellow and must be got rid of." It is a little troublesome to have a fearless attorney practicing in a court where law is disregarded. If I am silenced though, who then will dare hereafter assert the just rights of suitors except by severile flattery or submission to the ring? very respectfully,

SIDNEY DELL.

Henry Kelso was arrested at a ball at Independence last Christmas eve by the marshall of that place, on an order by Sheriff Mathews of Washington county, on a charge of seduction of a young woman under promise of marriage. Last Friday, says the Independent, the prisoner was brought before Justice Cave, at Cornelius, and was bound over in the sum of $200 to appear at the next term of court. W. Johnson and L. Kelso, went on the bond. Young Kelso, when first brought down, got a release from arrest on the recognizance of his father, and took out a license and went to the injured girl's home and offered to marry her, but she very decidedly refused, telling him it was too late.

We suppose the republicans of California will have to stand Gorham as a member of the national republican committee until the next convention selects a new committee next June. Since the republicans oppose Gorham for any position the democrats think him a saint, but when the republicans tolerated him without opposition, he was called the vilest of the vile.
