Genesee Boatmen.
When we went to Tivoli last week we returned in a special train with several hundred Genesee boatmen, who were invited to come for a boat race on the Genesee river. They had been to the cascades, the baths and the Temple of Sybil, but I overlooked a young woman society here. They had been to the Genesee Boatmen.

These Genesee, though no doubt strong and like boat rowers, are not of the same quality. They are positively not, and formed a striking contrast to the Apollo-like forms of the Romans at the regatta on the Tiber. This regatta was organized for the benefit of the marine hospital for children, and was, as usual, on Sunday afternoon.
The border of the river was covered with people, who manifested great enthusiasm, and a prize was awarded to the winner of the regatta.

A Rebel Reminiscence.

In order to give anything like a graphic account of the escape from Rock Island Prison, which I am about to relate, it will be necessary for me to say the first person. Being a prisoner of war, I am naturally a little of a story teller, and I don't know any such thing as not to tell a story. I am naturally a little of a story teller, and I don't know any such thing as not to tell a story.
