SOUTHERN OREGON NOTES.

The latest and standard novels at Dr. Hamilton's cheap—from 10 to 20 cents.

Just received at S. Hamiltons a quantity of Gasoline for burning in lamps.

Dr. G. Flett has gone to Portland on a visit and probably will remain there during the winter.

The Ashland woolen mills have received recent orders for their superior goods from Kansas city, Missouri and Portland. This is evidence of their excellence—something new in manufacturing in Southern Oregon.

Josephine has raised $3,000 for the Crescent city wagon road and Jackson has promised $5,000, but is short $800 of that amount. If the money is raised the road is to be in order for freighting next spring.

THE MEETING.

Last Friday evening there was a meeting of the tax-payers of Roseburg at the court house. After Judge Mosher and Hon. L. F. Lane had spoken upon the proposed amendments to the city charter, Gen. Lane took the stand. He opposed the amendments with the best of argument, and his speech was heartily received. The speech had the fire of youth, the wisdom gained only by experience. the thought of one whose brain had gained power and right to respect through long years of serious, earnest study. And in his speech the General begged not the points at issue. In good, plain English, that he might not be misunderstood, he declared the purposes of the amendments to be nothing more and nothing less than the injury of the people by a ring—the members of which had already been beaten by the courts—and the gratification of personal spite. He pointed to the significant fact that these proposed amendments were not the work of the people, and that the people knew nothing of them until they were returned from the legislature; that they were given existence in the womb of hate and born in secrecy and at midnight. All knew that they were aimed to injure one certain individual. For that individual he cared nothing—he might be sunk into perdition for all he cared; but that individual was an American citizen, a tax-payer, and was entitled to protection in his rights. He wanted nothing more than the old charter; it had served us well in the past, and it was good yet—and better than the new one proposed when the new one was intended to gratify personal hatred and work personal injury. He showed that the proposed new charter would rob the people of their rights, and he urged the people to remember it was best that they should be their own masters. In proof of this he called the attention of the tax-payers of Roseburg to this one solemn, startling truth in the history of the world, that no people ever surrendered rights to rulers and ever reclaimed them.

In conclusion, let us say this: Gen. Lane is one whose past life we must honor. whose name is above reproach since it was never connected with a disreputable act, whose experience is greater than ours. He can have no other interest in this matter than to warn the people of Roseburg of the danger before them. Let the tax-payers remember his warning and take it into careful consideration as they would the words of a prophet appointed by Providence. No one wants more than is right who is at heart honest. No one with the feeling of a free man can desire to be the slave of a ring or any one man. If we vote for the amendments, in the language of Gen. Lane, we vote to be all this, since we put ourselves in the ring's power—to own us body, soul and breeches, and to trade us to the devil if it will be thought to the promotion of the rings private interests to do so with us:

THE POINTS IN THE CASE.

On Monday next the citizens of Roseurg will be called upon to vote for or against amendments to the city charter. There would be, perhaps nothing surprising in this, were it not that the amendments proposed were conceived in the brains of Fink and Mosher, who personal hatred has found an abiding place, and whe e there exists but a thought looking to the personal injury of a man whom the parties named cannot hurt otherwise. That man is Sol. Abraham. And having failed to work him wrong through the provisions of the present city charter, Fnk and Mosher would have new powers delegated to them by the legislature of the State, that they may destroy, so far as possible, the property of one who is not otherwise than a good citizen, an enterprising citizen, and is aiding in the work we are all attempting to increase the prosperity of the town.

The amendments were conceived and brought forth in secrecy, contrary to the wishes of two of the members of the board of trustees. Under the cover of darkness they were given to Senator Colvig, in the shape of a bill, and it was thought by Mosher and Fink that they would trick the people of Roseburg by having the work done to gratify their personal spite before the people knew what they were doing or what they wanted. In the same brains in which the black-mud swindle found creation, in the same darkness that infamy found life, in a back-room, in dark corners, and for personal gain has this last conspiracy been hatched.

We have argued this question before. We have challenged Fink, Mosher and others to show us by the opening of the street in question that the people would be benefitted thereby. There has been no answer. Then what are we to believe?—simply that the people of Roseburg are asked to help Fink and Mosher and others to injure Abraham for the reason only, they do not like Abraham. It is enough to fight one's own battles without taking up the wars of others; it is enough for the people of Roseburg to pay for their own self-government and the advancement of their own town interests, without paying more to help Fink and others fight Abraham. There has been too much of that kind of work in county affairs already. If Fink and Abraham have their quarrels, let them alone to settle their quarrels. without calling upon the people to help pay the expenses. And in this case, where Abraham asks only quiet possession of property for which he has paid his hard-earned money, how can the people, who are benefitted by his enterprise, ever consent to vote for robbery? These are the points in the discussion.

The Ashland Tidings, in giving an account of the late stage robbery says: The tracts of two or three men were traced some distance from the place of the robbery, when it was evident that the men had taken off their boots and tied rags about their feet to keep from leaving a trail by which they might be followed. The robbery was at the point where the stage was frequently stopped in former times, whence escape is easy through the shick chaparral either toward the coast or the Klamath Lake country.

PRESIDENT HAYES IN OREGON.

His Reception in Roseburg. Grand Gala Day With Our Citizens.

When it was finally announced that President Hayes would in the course of his travels in Oregon, pass through our little city, our citizens immediately took steps to give the President and the party accompanying a hearty welcome.

On Friday last a call was issued for our citizens to meet at the court house for the purpose of taking some steps towards a proper recognition of our President. Quite a number of our prominent citizens in response to the call met on Friday evening, and the meeting was called to order by the Hon. J. C. Fullerton, and Wm. I. Friedlander, Esq., was chosen as President, and R. Newcomb, Esq., secretary. After some general discussion the following committees were appointed by the chair.

ON RECEPTION,

Hon. Jas. F. Watson, Hon. W. R. Willis, A Marks, Esq., F. P. Hogan, Esq. and Hon. J. C. Fullerton.

ON ARRANGEMENTS,

P. G. Strickland, R. Newcomb, R M. Davis, E. G. Hursh, and W. F. Benjamin.

The following ladies were also appointed as a floral committee.

Mrs. J. C. Fullerton. Mrs. R. Newcomb, Mrs. W. R. Willis, Miss M. Wheeler, Mrs. D. C. McClellan.

ON FINANCE,

Hon. Jas. Hamilton, D. Bushy, Dr. Rice, T. R. Sheridan and H. C. Stanton.

The committee on arrangements met on Monday and the following programme was made.

At the firing of cannon, the various committees to meet at the Metropolitan hotel and form in procession in the following order:

Corriages containing Hon. J. F. Watson, W. R. Willis, Gen. Joe Lane, Hon. J. C. Fullerton, Mrs. R. Newcomb, A. Marks Esq., Mrs. J. C. Fullerton, F. P. Hogan Esq., Miss M. Wheeler, City Officials, County officials, committee of arrangements on horseback acting as Marshals.

PREPARATIONS.

During Monday and Tuesday the ladies of the committe, in connection with many others, were busily employed in trimming wreaths and floral decorations with which to adorn the hotel, the residence of Judge Willis and the arch of Welcome that was erected across the street from Marks' building to M. Josephsons.

Our city was all commotion in making preparations, and the people from the surrounding country poured in to help and assist our citizens in showing their regard to the Chief Magistrate of our Nation. By Wednesday morning the streets were full and every available room in town was engaged. Never in the experience of the oldest inhabitant was such an excitement seen. The streets and buildings were loaded with evergreens and bunting, and the national emblem waved from every point. The evening train of Tuesday brought a number of visitors from abroad, while the special train that arrived from Portland and Salem on Wednesday added a crowd of the most prominent citizens of our state to the number,

Promptly at half past three o'clock the procession formed and moved out of town, and proceeded to the top of Sheridan's hill, about two miles south town, where, in a few moments, the stage having the Presidential party on board drove up. Wm. Carll Esq., division agent for the stage Co., introduced Gen Lane to the President and the General said: "Mr. President it is my duty as well as my pleasure to welcome you in behalf of the citizens of Roseburg to Douglas county. We hope your vist amongst us will be one of pleasure and profit, while we are pleased to extend to you the curtisies of our people." The President simply said "thank you." Mr. Hayes then descended from the stage and was introduced to those present and entered the carriage with Gen. Lane, Judge Watson and Judge Willis, Mrs. Hayes took a seat with Hon. J. C. Fullerton Gen. Sherman laughingly remarked that he did not desire to descend as he had a fine team to ride behind and the party had nothing but cayuse horses. The stage fell in behind the carriage containing Mr. Hayes and the procession entered town. The streets were densely crowded and the party was received with great enthusiasm as they passed through the street and were taken to the residence of Judge Willis.

AT W. R. WILLIS'

The party were immediately shown to their rooms where they were enabled to get rid of some of the dust that had accumulated during the trip. About six o'clock P. M., anumber of the citizens of Portland and Salem called and made such arrangements as were deemed necessary for the following day. Dinner being ready the party sat down and enjoyed themselves until about 7 P. M.

THE RECEPTION.

At 7:45 o'clock, President Hayes and Mrs. Newcomb, Mrs. Hayes and Mr. R. Newcomb Secretary Ramsey, Gen. Sherman, Gen's. Howard and Morrow proceeded to the Metropolitan hotel, where the reception took place. Mr. Newcomb officiated as master of ceremonies and introduced Gov. Thayer and Secretary of State Earhart; the Governer in a few pleasing and timely words extended to the President and his party and invitation to become a guest of the State of Oregon and to visit the Capitol during his stay. The President answered, thanking the Governor and stating the programme that had been laid out. Secretary Earhart then addressed the Presiden t and reiterated the invitation of Governor Thayer. Calls being made for the President, the party ascended to the balcony of the hotel where the Hon. James F. Watson introduced the President to the public in the following words:

Mr. President: The people of Roseburg wish to take this opportunity of welcoming you to their city and of conveying to you an expression of their esteem for your personal character as well as their respect for the high office which you hold. In this tribute I can assure you that we all join without regard to political affiliations. In your journey you have visited cities of prodigal wealth and eastern magnificence, but in none I hope have you met with a warmer welcome. Like the widow's mite our homely welcome is all that we can give, but such as it is it is yours. Oregon has been a state of the union for more than twenty years, and you are the first president of the United States who has visited us. Allow me again, in the name of all the people of Roseburg to welcome you to our town and state. Fellow citizens, allow me to introduce to you R. B. Hayes, president of the United States.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

President Hayes responded as follows:

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen: My first duty, I think, is to make my acknowledgments for this welcome to the committee, to the governor of the state of Oregon and to the mayor of the town of Roseburg. I must not forget to give thanks for the generous words of welcome spoken to me as I approached the town upon the hill not far distant by those who welcomed me on behalf of the people of Douglas county and of this town. This reception is not intended to honor the qualities of anybody it is a manifestation of the love and attachment to the government in which you all live, to the union, to the states, to the constitution and the principles of free government. For the time being, happening to be the prominent officer of the republic, in some sense I represent to you all these desirable ends now. My friends, I am not here for the purpose of making speeches. I came to Oregan because I wanted to see Oregon; I came because I wanted to see the people of Oregon, and I understand very well that I was not likely to see Oregon and the people of Oregon unless I came here. Nor were you likely to see the president of the United States unless he came here. it was altogether improbable that any such assembly as this should have an opportunity to visit Washington. We all desire that the relationship between the people of the older states and the people of this coast should be kindly, friendly and fraternal. The more our people know of each other the more certain it is that this relation should be such as I have described. Therefore it seems to me altogether fitting and proper that I should follow the example of the most illustrious president of the republic, the first, who at the commencement of his term of office traveled through each and every one of the then existing states of this union. I am glad that I have had an opportunity to visit you, I regret that circumstances are such that I cannot remain and form a more intimate acquaintance with you. I am glad to say that I have with me traveling, the Secretary of War, Gov. Ramsey, of Minnesota, himself as well as you, an old pioneer and early settler in a new state, familiar with the perils, the hardships and privations of settling a new country, and I am fortunate also, in having [loud cheers] of whom I neednot speak. His name is so associated with the most notable and illustrious events of our history that all here are anxious to hear him and make his acquaintance. Now my friends in taking leave of you let me introduce to you Gov. Ramsey, Secretary of War.

The secretary of war spoke in a happy vein, and was followed by General Sherman. The general was greeted with cheers, addressed the citizens in a manner which elicited frequent and hearty applause.

The party then decended to the parlor and the doors being thrown open the citizens filed in, and a general introduction took place, which lasted until half past nine. The President and lady with Mr. and Mrs Newcomb returned to the residence of Judge Willis, where quite a number of the friends of the President and General Sherman were met and a pleasant hour passed in chatting of old times.

I Wish Everybody to Know It.
