MERRY CHRISTMAS.

"In accordance with the time-honored custom," the printers will take a holiday during Christmas week, consequently there will be no paper issued next week, excepting a sheet for advertisers only. In the meantime we wish our patrons a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year, promising them a better newspaper after the holidays.

OUR SALMON.

It has been contended by many fishermen who have watched Pacific coast salmon to ascertain their habits, that the salmon never return to the ocean, and that after spawning the salmon naturally, then and there, end their existence. The same fishermen have also argued as proof the diseased condition of the salmon when having reached their spawning beds miles from the ocean in the fresh rivers and streams. We have always thought there was some mistake in this, and while we have frequently noticed diseased salmon in our sweet waters, we have been inclined to one or two conclusions—either that the salmon that we find diseased have beaten and bruised themselves, until they have become half rotten, against the rocks in the river in their passage from the sea to their spawning beds, or that we have a salmon separate and alone in its species and at all times unfit for table use. We prefer to stand by the thought that the bruised salmon bruise themselves in passing the rapids in the rivers in the earliest stages of water, and that the same species pass to the headwaters of the rivers during the greater freshets, and during the same freshets again return to the ocean, there to recuperate for another spawning season. It would be difficult to prove the return of the salmon, we speak of to the ocean during the heavy freshets, for them, owing to rapid currents, heavy floating drifts and muddy water, it is impossible to drag nets and catch the returning fish if there were any. But if it has been established in the East that Pacific Coast salmon will live and flourish in fresh water streams—why cannot we believe that those salmon which ascend our rivers during the period of extreme high water, and thus save bruising, feed and fatten after spawning, and quietly return to the ocean after recuperating their wasted strength? It would certainly be easier for them to run down stream than go up stream; and it will be remembered that the time for fishing has past when the salmon could possibly return; and if it were not our streams are so muddy as to forbid or[illegible] the kind.

WE HOPE IT IS TRUE.

An exchange gives us the following item of news:

It has been decided that General Howard will not return to the department of the Columbia, but will have an eastern department.

We hope all this is true. We would be pleased to have Howard return to Washington, since it was there he robbed the Freedman's Bureau fund or bank, to the extent that it was a question whether the United States district attorney would have him indicted before the United States grand jury in Portland, or not. And in following in the course of natural events, Gen. Howard has been recalled to the scene of his criminal or doubtful acts. The criminal has too often, for his own good, returned to the place haunted by a guilty conscience and a reproachful mind. It may be that General Howard has not worked out his destiny, and has got something to do in this life before he shall be called to another. In the sight of the law it may be that his offenses against the freedmen may not now be recognizable, through the matter of liquidation. It may be that in the East he will go free though guilty. Yet, if this be so, it would not surprise those who think for themselves, should Gen. Howard return to Portland, and once more become commander of the district of Columbia, from which place and by virtue of the appointment, while preaching the words of God and the Gospel, he permitted liquor to be carried to a drunken Major Campbell, who in his drunken frenzies, committed crimes and offenses contrary to the dictates of humanity and in disregard of the duty of an officer of the American army, and unbecoming a gentleman of honor. Of these crimes Gen. Howard had perfect knowledge—was informed of them through the sworn affidavits of ministers of Greek church; and yet General Howard shielded Campbell from punishment, though among Campbell's crimes was that of starving and working, in the pitiless storms of an arctic winter an oldlieutenant of the Russian army, retired from service, to death. We can prove that Major Campbell did not only this, but that while the father of two orphaned children, so far as their mother was concerned, was incarcerated in the guardhouse, the two children had to fight with the post's dogs for the refuse to sustain life thrown out at the rear of the guardhouse. To-day Gen. Howard is as guilty of those outrages as were Campbell, since it can be shown that when there was a remonstrance against his sending liquor to add to Campbell's madness, he kept up the supply. And at that time Gen. Howard was preaching temperance lectures, and praying in the rooms of the Young Men's Christian association.

Modern ladies, after a long use of cosmetics and powders, cannot call up a charming blush with the same readiness that their grandmothers could. Blushing has become a lost art; hence science has been brought to bear upon the question, and the result is the production in London of what is called the "blushing bonnet." To the ribbons of any bonnet which are tied under the chin, are fastened two small, powerful steel springs, which end in round pads. These are brought close against the temporal arteries by the mere bending of the head, thus forcing a rush of blood into the cheeks, and producing, what to the masculine observer looks like the genuine blush of modesty. The inventor of this machine will soon retire on a fortune.

We don't hear any more about the rising of the Kurds. These natural freebooters thought it would be fine sport to harry the dwellers in the lowlands of Turkistan and keep up their old hereditary prestige in rapine. The Persian government did not fancy the diversion of the mountaineers, and determined to punish them severly. The regular troops are now treating the Kurdish bands to their own style of warfare. Every few days we read of fifty or more villages being burned by the Persians and large herds of cattle captured. This species of punishment will have an excellent effect, leniency being thrown away upon such people.

South Carolina is a peculiar state. The census returns showed some curious figures, but equally strange are the names of many townships For instance, there are Alligator, Ebenezer, Sammy Swamp, Giddy Swamp, Scuffletown, Swimming Pens and Dark Corner. As regards the methods of its politicians, the last name might be applied to the entire State.

Mrs. Neal, of Milton, N. C. was burned to death while praying in front of a grate.

Gen. Miles has been assigned to the command of the department of the Columbia vice Howard removed. It will be remembered that Gen. Miles is the brave commander who overtook and captured Joseph's band of murderous Indians while Howard was an hundred miles away, and running at the rate of 15 miles to the Indians' 30 per day. Gen. Miles will be kindly received by our people, who are already predisposed in favor of so gallant an officer.

Hancock carried four counties in Iowa over Garfield. Curiously enough they were named Jackson, Johnson, Lee and Davis. These counties join the northern line of Missouri.

There are now in California 891 lodges of Odd Fellows, 64 encampments and 60 lodges of the degree of Rebekah.

FELLOWS' Compound SYRUP OF HYPO-PHOS-PHITES

WASTING DISEASES.

Such as Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma, General Debility, Brain Exhaustion, Chronic Constipation Chronic Diarrhea, Dyspepsia or

Loss of Nervous Power,

Are positively cured by FELLOWS COMPOUND SYRUP OF HYPOPHOSPHITES.

As phosphorus enters so largely into the animal economy, it becomes par excellence the best vehicle with which to associate the other vitalizing ingredients of healthy ingredients of healthy Blood, Nerve and Muscle. In Fellows' Syrup of Hypophosphites are combined all the substance found necessary to insure robust health, and whereas it was invented with a view to supply every deficiency, it certainly has performed some wonderful cures.

MANCHESTER, N. H., June 12, 1880.

Mr. JAMES I. FELLOWS:

Dear Sir—I wish to acknowledge the great benefit I have received from the use of "Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites." I have been an invalid for nearly two years, with a bronchial affection that had become chronic. In the Fall of 1878 I had a physician eighty days in succession, besides the counsel of several others. They gave me but little encouragement, some of them none. Last July I was advised to give your remedy a trial. I did so, and in less than one week there was a marked improvement for the better. I have continued its use from that time until the present improving all the time, and I can truthfully say I am more than a hundred per cent, better than when I commenced its use. I have increased in weight about fifteen pounds, and my cough, which was fearful, has nearly disappeared. I believe had it not been for your Syrup, I should ere this have been beyond the cares of life. Very truly yours,

ALBERT STORY.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitute for this, under any circumstances.

FREE BOOKS

—TO—

SUBSCRIBERS.

Having made arrangements to club the DOUGLAS INDEPENDENT with the CINCINNATI WEEKLY COMMERCIAL, we announce that we will furnish the DOUGLAS INDEPENDENT and the CINCINNATI WEEKLY COMMERCIAL, a large 8-page 56-column Family Newspaper, one year, for $3 and will give as a free prize to each yearly subscriber under this clubbing arrangement any one book he may select from the following famous works—postage paid and free of all cost—the books being Harper's Editions, unabridged, beautifully printed on good paper, in paper covers:

1. "Jane Eyre," the celebrated novel which made Charlotte Bronte's fame.
2. "The Days of Pompeii," Bulwer's historical romance of universal popularity, the most fascinating of his productions.
3. "John Halifax, Gentleman," Miss Mulock's masterpiece, a story of the sorrows and triumphs associated with low birth and iron fortune.
4. "The Posthumous Papers of the Pickwick Club," the work that gave Charles Dickens his celebrity; the most humorous and always the most popular of his works.
5. "The History of a Crime," by Victor Hugo. The terrible narrative by the great French poet, novelist and historian of the crime of Louis Napoleon in strangling the liberties of his country.
6. "Henry Esmond." A novel. By Wm. Thackeray—the most artistic, popular and characteristic of the works of the wisest novelist of this time.
7. "Eothen." By Alexander William Kinglake. One of the most charming narratives ever written; full of pen-pictures of life in the East, including admirable accounts of personal experiences in Egypt and the Holy Land.
8. "Journal of the Plague in London." By Daniel Defoe, author of "Robinson Crusoe." The true history, by one of the most distinguished writers in our language, of the mysterious and awful visitation of the Plague to England.
9. "Poems of Wordsworth." Chosen and edited by Matthew Arnold. The most popular and select edition of the works of one of England's greatest poets, whose writings owe their celebrity largely to the excellent understanding they display of the sentiment and scenery of country life.
10. Three volumes "English Men of Letters" (in one). 1. Robert Burns. 2. Oliver Goldsmith. 3. John Banyan. Of these volumes the first is by Principal Shairp, the second by William Black, the brilliant novelist, and the third by James A. Froude, the distinguished historian. No more marvelous book than these three marvelous biographies make up has been issued in modern times.

It will be seen that these books comprise a wide range and striking diversity of the most brilliant and pleasing productions of modern authors, including Novels, Travels, Poetry, Biography and History—so that all tastes may be consulted and each subscriber will be embarassed only by the riches of the variety in selecting his favorite book for a Free Prize.

Subscriptions payable in advance, and the Free Prize Book must be ordered at the time the papers are subscribed for.

Free specimen copies of the Cincinnati Weekly Commercial may be obtained by addressing M. HALSTEAD & Co., Proprietors Commercial, Cincinnati, Ohio, and free specimen copies of the INDEPENDENT can be obtained by addressing this office.
