Jack defended himself with rocks so vigorously that one Chinaman was killed upon the spot and another so injured that he died next day. We have heard of no arrests.

The Jacksonville Times says: Dolsen's party have finished their surveys and have been disbanded for the winter. The road is now definitely located to the Centennial bridge across Rogue river, and two lines have been run from there to a point just below the mouth of Bear creek—one on the north and the other on the south side of the river—and one of these lines will surely be adopted, leaving the terminus of the survey at the same point in either case.

A like reduction has been made between all other points.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

As had been frequently announced, the teachers of Douglas county, with the many friends of common school education, met at the Court house in this city, on Wednesday evening, to attend the opening exercises of their annual convocation.

The weather being very inclement, and the city having several other public attractions on the same evening, yet there was a goodly number present, who felt fully repaid for their attendance. Prof. E. B. McElroy, State Superintendent of Instruction called the meeting to order, with a brief speech which convinced his hearers that he is alive to the importance of the work in which he is engaged, and that he is an energetic worker.

Prof. Cathey followed in some earnest and practical remarks which met with cordial approval from the audience. Hon. A. F. Campbell was then introduced and delivered the address of welcome. His address is indescribable, abounding in beautiful similes, and practical suggestions. Among other things, he remarked very aptly that the work of the teacher is to instruct pupils in thinking and obeying. The response to this address was delivered by Hon. H. P. Webb, whose remarks, like those of his predecessor, were of the choicest English and full of practical suggestions. It is to be regretted that all the friends of education were not present to hear them.

The exercises of the evening were interspersed with music, under the direction of Prof. Cathey. Especially worthy of mention was a solo by Mrs. Flint, with chorus by Messrs. Cathey and Miss Cathey. The opening exercises gave promise of an earnest and interesting meeting.

THURSDAY. The exercises of the institute were continued on Thursday morning by the appointment of a committee on organization, consisting of the following persons: B. H. Cathey, H. P. Webb, and Miss Anna Kent, after which Mr. H. P. Thomas led in the discussion of the school laws of Oregon. He was followed therein by Prof. McElroy, Cornwall and Benson. After music Rev. J. H. Cornwall led a very interesting discussion on "Nouns and their Properties," followed by Profs. Cathey, Day and others. Miss Kent then read a carefully prepared and most excellent paper on school government. Miss Mollie Lehmann then read an instructive essay on "How to teach Reading," after which H. S. Strange, in a brief but masterly address, opened a discussion on the subject of history, followed by several teachers deeply interested in this important study. The day's exercises were closed with an essay on "Aesthetics in the School Room," by Miss Alice Mosher, which fully merited the applause it gained.

FRIDAY. The exercises of Thursday evening were opened with a quartet by Messrs. Cathey and Campbell, Mrs. Campbell and Miss Grube. It is needless to say to a Roseburg reader that their singing was splendid. You all knew that it was. After this Miss Edie Byars charmed the audience with her skillful recitation of "The Modern Cain." Then came a solo by Mrs. Flint, entitled "Peek-a-boo," which was received with enthusiastic applause. Prof. McElroy then delivered an earnest, manly, practical address on the "Grading of our Country Schools," in which, for about thirty-five minutes, he held the fixed attention of his audience to the importance, the necessity and difficulties attending the proper classification of district schools. We trust that his remarks may be as seed cast in good ground, that they may bud, blossom and bear fruit. This was followed by also solo, from Miss Helena Holman, entitled "Flee as a Bird." Her voice is powerful and musical and shows skillful training. She was well received by the audience. Miss Mollie Lehman was then introduced and charmed the audience with an amusing recitation of "Prayer and Potatoes." The exercises closed with another quartet by the same parties who sang the opening quartet. It was simply beautiful and was especially well rendered.

FRIDAY. Exercises opened with a song, led by Prof. Cathey, after which M. E. Pogue opened discussion on the subject of the best system of readers and spellers. Mr. Pogue criticized the present series very fiercely, upon which a large number of teachers and others, being deeply interested, joined in the discussion, which occupied the entire forenoon.

In the afternoon J. E. Day read a paper displaying considerable patient research, on the "Rise and Growth of Language." This paper was chiefly historical, but was listened to with careful attention. Mr. Day was followed by Prof. Cornwall, in an eloquent address on "Education and Christianity." After him Prof. Cathey followed, reading a carefully prepared paper on "Order in the School Room."

Prof. Cathey is a capable and enthusiastic teacher and his remarks were full of practical hints, deduced from his own successful experience. Mrs. Webb then discussed, in a short and spicy talk, on primary teaching.

The evening session opened with a special quartet, after which Miss Hattie Benjamin recited, with splendid effect, "Sister and I," for which she merited and received considerable applause. After an excellent solo by Mrs. Flint, who sang with her usual charming skill, Prof. Condon, of Eugene, was introduced, and delivered a deeply interesting lecture on "Evolution Essentially Deistic," which was listened to by the audience with intense interest. After this, another solo by Miss Holman, was finely rendered. A good quartet was well sung by Messrs. Campbell, Cathey, and Mrs. Campbell and Miss Ella Grubbe, after which the meeting adjourned.

WHEREAS, The teachers and friends of education having assembled here for an annual discussion of topics calculated to improve and advance the condition of our schools and methods of teaching, and

WHEREAS, We have been the recipients of special favors and courtesies from the citizens of Roseburg, from the O. & C. R. Co., and from Sheriff Purdon, of this city, therefore be it Resolved, That our sincere and heartfelt thanks are due to the citizens of Roseburg for their uniform courtesy and hospitality.

Resolved, That our thanks are due to Mr. Pardon for the many favors in connection with the use of the court house.

Resolved, That our thanks are due to the O. & C. R. Co. for their generous action in offering reductions in fares to and from the convocation.

Resolved, That we tender our grateful thanks to Prof. Condon, for his kindness in delivering for our benefit an able and interesting lecture.

Resolved, That we tender our thanks to Prof. McElroy for his zeal in the cause of education, and we wish him abundant success in his labors in improving the public school system of Oregon.

Resolved, That it is our experience that such meetings as the one now drawing to a close, are invaluable to teachers and to the cause of education, and we respectfully urge that school directors, as far as lies in their power, encourage their teachers in attendance thereupon.

H. L. BENSON, H. D. THOMAS, HATTIE BENJAMIN, Com.

DEATH OF A PIONEER.—Wm. T. Perry, who died at Norway on the 4th and was buried on the 5th inst, was born near Hartford, Conn., November 19th, 1809. In 1839 he was married to Ann Abell, who died at Norway, June 16th, 1879. To this union were born six children—2 sons and 4 daughters—all of whom are living except one son, who died in infancy. Perry was one of the first pioneers of Oregon, having crossed the plains in 1842. He first settled in Oregon City, and in 1843 he moved from there to Clatsop plains. In 1851, in company with Aaron Rose, who settled on the plain on a part of which the town of Roseburg was soon after located, while Perry settled on the adjoining plain on Deer creek, and soon afterwards erected on that stream the pioneer flouring mills of Douglas county, which added materially to the thrift and prosperity of the then young town of Roseburg. In 1858 Perry moved to the Coquille river and located on the old homestead near Norway, where he resided until his death. He was a true, honored and highly respected citizen; a man of indomitable energy, and one who was always in the lead, clearing the way for others to follow. The people in the vicinity of where he lived have lost a kind neighbor and the community at large a good and valued citizen. A host of friends mourn his death.

FIRE AT THE SILTZ.—On Wednesday evening, November 1st, at about 6 o'clock the boarding hall, old commissary building, school house, wood shed and about 50 cords of wood were burned. Most of the government supplies and furniture were saved. The children were all saved and no accidents. Loss, six or eight thousand dollars. The government is the main loser, yet the loss falls heavily upon the 44 children that were in the hall. The fire originated in the third story of the building, but just how it occurred no one knows. Mrs. Taff and Miss Doty, who have labored so hard to improve and civilize these children of the forest were the greatest personal losers. Miss Doty lost all her personal effects. A building will be fitted up temporarily and the school will go on as before.

We are requested to announce that Rev. M. C. Miller will be unable to meet his appointments at Canyonville and Cow creek next Sabbath, on account of sickness in his family.

WILBUR NEWS.

Farming is being pushed rapidly ahead. Several already have their crops nearly in.

Uncle John Lawton's new house is completed, and presents a neat appearance.

One of our good looking young men who attended the institute, declares—well, we will not tell, but he lost a picture that he intended for another girl.

Prof. Benson was presented with a fine boy a short time ago. It weighs 10½ pounds, and, we will wager, is a Democrat.

Rev. W. C. Chattin is still conducting a series of meetings, and is having considerable success, which he deserves, as he is a faithful worker.

The Plaintiff calls one of our representatives a bald-headed stalwart. Judging from the depth that stalwartism is being buried in the Eastern States, they will all be bald-headed before they are returned to the Legislature.

A young men's literary society is to be formed this week. The boys are determined to improve with the world.

Olud C. Butler, of Elkton, died last Saturday and was buried at this place on Tuesday. Mr. Butler was formerly a student of this place, and was respected and beloved by all who knew him. He was a young man of more than ordinary ability, was a pleasant talker in debate, and strictly conscientious in all his dealings. The sympathy of this neighborhood is extended to his bereaved wife. May the same Hand that guided him through life, support and protect her in this hour of bereavement.

RESERVOIR BROKE.—The reservoir connected with the Oregon City water works, broke last Thursday morning, about day-break, and let the water out, flooding that part of the city in course of the torrent to the river. The reservoir is located on the bluff in front of Singer's mill. The water rushed through the mill race and under the mill without doing that structure any damage. Mr. Singer lost several hogs. The city brewery was damaged about $500. The water works were damaged about $1,000.

We learn from Mr. Bell that the officers of the coast survey on board the steamer Arcata have completed the survey of the harbor of Siuslaw and will report that it has the deepest entrance and the shortest bar of any port on the Northern Pacific coast. The Arcata took down 600 barrels of salmon caught in the bay this season. The wagon road from Florence to the head waters of the Siuslaw has been completed, with the exception of ten miles. This section offers many inducements to immigrants.

The U. S. steamer Corwin, Lieutenant Commander Healy, hearing while at Alaska that the Indians had taken possession of one of the American Fur Trading company's stations and held all the employes prisoners, Commander Healy, with as little delay as possible, went to their relief, and as the Indians were very hostile, shelled their village and released all the men held as prisoners. The prompt manner in which they have been punished will, in all probability, teach them a lesson which they will not forget very soon.

Last Sunday afternoon, about six o'clock, as Mr. E. Wolford was returning home from Silverton, where he had been with his two daughters to attend the dedication service of the new M. E. Church, the horses became frightened and ran off a bridge, about four miles from that place. The carriage was upset by the fall, and Miss Gertrude Wolford was thrown under the feet of the horses and trampled to death. A little nine year old daughter of John Wolford was also an occupant of the buggy, and sustained some injuries. The balance of the party escaped unhurt.
