LOCAL ITEMS.

We are in receipt of a note from Rev. M. C. Miller from which we learn that he is considerably improved in health and has hopes of ultimate recovery. His address is shop Council Grove, Kansas.

The Rev. Walter Marvin held services at the St. George Episcopal church, on last Wednesday evening, to an appreciative audienco. On the next day he administered the hely communion to the members of his congregation. The Rev. Mr. Marvin has but lately been admitted to the ministry and has already exhibited qualifications which have endeared him to his congregations and will undenbtedly place him at the head of the church he so ably represents.

D. C. McClallen, our energetic road supervisor, started out mounted and spurred, the other day, fully determined to secure a large amount of road work that day. His cayuse however, had no such ambition and absolately refused to enter upon the business. The result was a small-sized circus in which the horse fell, carrying Mac with him. In the fall Mac struck his head upon a rock and suffered quite a severe wound. We are pleased to know that the injury is not se-

DIED.-At Portland, Oregon, on Friday, October 19, 1883, Maggie, wife of Dr. W. Lang Chapman, aged 17 years and 11 months. She was buried on Monday, October 22, in the Catholic cemetery in East Portland. The funeral ceremonies were conducted S. Smith & Co. in the cathedral, with all the selemnities of the Catholic church. The floral tributes attracted attention, not only from their profuseness, but by their taste. The attendance of mourners was very large. The services at the Cathedral were conducted by very Rev. Father Fierens, Vicar General, and at the cemetery by Rev. O'Dea. Dear Maggie was known to every one as the daughter of the late J. C. Floed Sr., and by every one loved and respected. No fairer lily, just fully bloomed, was ever cut down by the scythe of death. She left a child of six weeks, a bereaved husband and mother towards whom the sympathy of the whole county goes out to sustain in her many afflictions.

> THE authorities in Ireland are endeavoring to put down the practice of holding "wakes," which have contributed largely to the spreading of infec- there. tious disease, and with fatal results in some instances. At the Athone petty sessions recently, a man was proceeded against by summonses for permiting a 'wake" to be held in his house, contrary to the provisions of the public health act, the deceased person, his child, having died of scarlatina, from which another child had previously died. It was proved that the defendant had been warned by the police not to hold the "wake." The magistrate explained that the penalty for such an offense was £5, but as it was the first cause of the kind which had come up before them they would reduce the fine to 10 shillings.
