The opinion of the Supreme court of the United States in deciding the civil rights bill unconstitutional, has given full recognition and effect to the doctrine of State rights, in its entire scope. The decision should forever silence the cavil of political shysters who claim there is anything dangerous to our institutions in a full recognition of State sovereignty. Those cavilers for a strong, centralized government, where State lines are obliterated, should forever hold their peace. This decision of a Republican Supreme court recognizes in its fullest and most comprestrict construction of the delegated on the broad and fundamental princi- in october. ple that a 'sovereign State has a right under the constitution to regulate its own domestic sffairs, without interference from the national government. It recognizes the fact that individual rights and privileges" belong to the people in their sovereign capacity? of State governments. The decision is in itself a guaranty of the perpetuity, strength and beauty of our institutions, and proves that the judiciary is a check upon hasty partisan actions by the legislative or executive departments of our government, and that safety to our institutions lays in a court well versed in the constitution and laws.

He implored the mercy of the court. The court thereupon, after stating to the prisoner the crime of which he stood self-convicted, and giving him a few words of admonition, sentenced him to six years' imprisonment at San Quentin.

A Washington dispatch says: Sherman's speech to the boys in New York is handed a around, read and commented on in a way that may be said to be significant, in the usual way of putting it. The soldier element in politics is well nigh eliminated, but for a considerable time there has existed an effort to try to revive it with Sherman. This, despite the fact that he declared that he wished to be let alone, and his intention to live henceforth quietly among his friends. It is perfectly well known that he is not averse to the semination. The General himself, in his speech to the boys, has done not a little to promote it. The purpose has actual body with life in it. The prometers of the idea hold that, as the time has come when the Presidential question must be dealt with, and there are no prominent Republican or Demo cratic leaders who can rally the country, they believe the idea of putting him on the Presidential ticket is not an impracticable one. Old soldiers, including not a few Confederates, will rally for him as a candidate, and that Republicans and sundry fragmentary organizations, marching under diverse banners, will center on him.
