Death to Prairie Dogs and Ants. [Leadville Cor. Dallas Herald.]

Some three years ago, while making a trip across the confinental divide, I stopped for dinner at a road-side tavern, situated in a creek valley; close at hand was a prairie dog town, numbering over 500 inhabitants. Not long since, I had occasion to stop at the same house, and saw that the small level prairie, once occupied by prairie dogs, had been inclosed plowed, and was then covered with a luxuriant crop of grass. Seeing no signs of the little beasts, upon asking what had become of them, I was told they had been exterminated in the following way:

Balls of cotton or rags were saturated with bi-sulphide of carbon—an impure preparation will do and is cheap—pushed far down into the holes, and the holes firmly packed with earth. Bi-sulphide of carbon being an ex tremely volatile fluid, quickly evaporates and forms a heavy gas, which occupies every chamber and gallery of the animal's dwelling. This gas is as promptly fatal to animal life as the fumes of burning sulphur or carbolic acid

My informant also destroyed in a similar way several colonies of large ants, of the same species as those found in Texas. He built a fire close to the ant-bed, shoveled the earth forming the ant-hill into the fire, so as to burn up the ants contained in it with their young, then scraped the surface of the ground clean, and waited a while to give the ants a chance to clear the tunnels from any earth that may have dropped into them. A ball of cotton saturated with bi-sulphide of carbon was placed in the center of the bed, covered over with a tin vessel large enough to embrace the greater number, if not all the outlets, and earth was packed about the tin, so as to exclude air. Next day the tin was duced to $1.224, which is now the outside removed. He showed me the sites of several ruling price for an article that will-rank beds in his yard where the ants had been order of their discovery these words killed in this manner. When a person passes near one, say within three or four yards of its lurking place, it starts up and gives chase, and will often follow for a distance of thirty or forty yards. I came once very nearly being bitten by one of these savage creatures. Riding at an easy trot over the dry grass, I suddenly observed a spider pursuing me, leaping swiftly along and keeping up with my beast. I aimed a blow with my whip, and the point of the lash struck the ground close to it, when it instantly leaped upon and ran up the lash, and was actually within three or four inches of my hand when I flung the whip from me. The gauchos have a very quaint ballad which tells that the city of Cordova was once invaded by an army of monstrous spiders, and that the townspeople went out, with beating drums and flags flying, to repel the invasion, and after firing several volquality Calcutta wheat bags, standard size year exceptionally favorable to them, suggested this fable to some rhyming satirist of the town.

That Husband of Mine.

[New York Sun.] A woman hastily entered a Harlem lager beer saloon and demanded of the proprietor: "Has my husband been in here?" "I don't know him. Is he a tall man?"

"Yes." "Red-headed?" "Yes, and red complected."

"Full beard?" "Yes." "Wear a slouch hat?" "Yes."

"He was here not five minutes ago. He came in, drank a lemonade, and then walked down the street." "Drank what?"

"Lemonade." "Wrong man!" she said, shooting herself out of the door.

Iodide of Potassium is one of the strongest of the minerals use in medicine, and has produced much suffering in the world. Taken for a long time and in large doses, it dries up the gastric juices, impairs digestion, the stomach refuses food, and the patient declines in health and weight. Persons with Blood or Skin Diseases should be careful how they take these n ineral poisons, as in most instances the effect of them is to almost permanently impair the constitution. To take the place of these poisons we offer you a safe, sure, prompt, and permanent relief from your troubles.
