

ROSEBURG REVIEW.

FRIDAY, MAY 8, 1885.

Miss Cleveland's Appeal to Girls.

Mr. Stearns of the National Temperance Society and Publication House, has shown us a copy of the Youth's Temperance Banner, for February 11, 1882, in which is the following beautiful article for young girls, by Elizabeth Cleveland. It is certainly something wonderful in the ways of Divine Providence that a lady of such excellent Christian temperance principles, and experience as a teacher, should be raised to preside in the Presidential Mansion, and doubtless from thence to exert a purifying influence, as in the case of Mrs. Hayes, over the whole land. The following is the article:

RESPONSIBILITY OF GIRLS IN TEMPERANCE WORK.

J. G. Holland wrote in Mrs. Hayes' album these words: "Women only can make wine-drinking unfashionable, and heal the Nation of this curse." What did Dr. Holland mean by "women only"? Is it true that only women can make wine-drinking unfashionable and heal the Nation of this curse?

What did Dr. Holland mean by "women only"? Is it true that only women can make wine-drinking unfashionable and heal the Nation of this curse? You and I need to know first; because if only we women can do this thing, why it is an awful responsibility upon us, each one of us. And if somebody else can do it, we, like all the others, would like to give that somebody else the job. Five years ago, at Washington, Mrs. Hayes became mistress of the White House, and it was for her, and no one else, to say what the social atmosphere should be which surrounded her guests, and how they should be entertained at her house. Well, she did an unheard-of thing. She banished wine from all her entertainments, with just one exception. Secretary Everts made a fuss. He was mortified. He could not endure to have Lord and Lady English, Count and Countess French, Baron and Baroness German, come to the White House dinners and have nothing fit for them to drink—not a drop of poison! It was too utterly queer! So Mrs. Hayes made one exception in favor of those great foreign highnesses, and allowed wine upon her table in their presence. But only for once. Her conscience—high-souled woman that she is!—smote her for that one little cowardly compromise with wrong. She could better endure to have Secretary Everts and the Smiths ashamed of her, than to be ashamed of herself. So she quietly and forever after prohibited wine from her table, and cheerfully endured the lifted eyebrows and shrugged shoulders of the diplomats, British, French, Russian—all, and the little short-lived hiss of "fashionable" society, until that hiss turned to a cheer, and fashionable society retired and rolled like the wind, and trotted on behind its mistress. It became unfashionable to serve wine and to offer wine while Mrs. Hayes was in the White House.

What Mrs. Hayes did in the White House every woman can do in her own home, if she will. If the girls who read these words will each of them, all together use their influence on the side of temperance, they can make temperance fashionable where they are. Will you do it?

General Grant does a manly thing in refusing to drink wine everywhere and in all society. It is only a strong man who can keep his wine-glass upside down—in this case right side up too!—while all the grand people around him are sipping champagne and toasting each other in sparkling drinks. No one can tell how "far this little candle sheds its light." But no man can do for a fashion in society what a woman can. It is women only, as Dr. Holland said.

I wish some strong, bright angel stood before you, just now, while you read, girls, to flash before you, as no words of mine can, the power you possess to help or to hinder the cause of temperance; to make you feel your responsibility, because you are girls, in this matter; to shudder at its weight and to never cease trying to fulfill it! Doubtless you have heard a great deal about the value of your smiles; but do you know the value of your frowns? I wish I could make you feel the value of your frowns and the importance of knowing just what to frown upon. What a man must do by a blow a woman can do by a frown. When the time comes that the young man who now shares his time in your society and the saloon, who jokes about temperance in your presence, and takes a glass, socially, now and then; is made to feel that these things cannot be if you are to be his companion at party, ride, or church, that good society can not tolerate these things in its members; in short, that this kind of man is unfashionable and unpopular, then alcohol will tremble on its throne, and the liquor-traffic will hide its cavernous face.

Inasmuch as our much respected co-temporary has taken so much pains to make a mountain out of a mole hill, by showing up a simple typographical error which appeared in our issue of April 24th, we would state that our dear Bro. was as much mistaken as any one. By reference to the official records it will be seen that at its last session the legislature passed House Bill No. 43, appropriating $10,000 for immigration purposes. Bro. Harsh put that in your pipe and smoke it.

The 4th of July celebration at this place will be under the supervision of the Yankee Doodle Band. This means a magnificent success.

Some time ago one of your correspondents wanted to know how to prevent mice cutting out hay. I answer, capture them by placing an old fashioned churn in the hay having the top even with the surface of the hay put in some grain and every mouse in the barn will want to know what is in that churn. I do not like the conduct of mice very well so if we catch all we can around the premises there will be some in the country to replenish. I forgot to tell you how to get them out, hold a tom cat by the tail while he catches them. L. C. H.

The following we take from Wednesday's Oregonian:

"The three passenger conductors on the west side division of the Oregon & California, G. M. Stroud, D. C. Bogart and A. K. Colborn, were relieved this week and their places supplied respectively by Charles H. Carter, M. C. Webster and Charles W. Kline. Messrs. Carter and Kline have been baggage masters, and Mr. Webster was transferred from the east side. No reason has been assigned for the change, and it is understood that the conductors were not informed of any cause for their dismissal."

The whole community here was much surprised to learn of the discharge of men who had been in the employ of the company so long, and these same men having by their experience in handling trains and passengers, and their gentlemanly deportment toward the traveling public, secured the confidence of all. It is regretted by every one that such an act became necessary, and is especially unsatisfactory because no explanation is given them. These were faithful servants.
