IN MEMORY OF EMMA GILMORE.

Oh, why do we mourn for our loved ones, That pass from our bright homes away, Laid at rest in the cold, damp graveyard Until the awakening day!

My home is now lonely and saddened By the loss of one sweet little face That was loaned me awhile but to gladden My heart with its innocent grace.

She is mourned by the once complete circle; Laid away in her green, mossy bed, Resting sweetly. So peacefully sleeping, Angels pillow her dear, shining head.

Earthly paths were too rough to be trodden By such pure and delicate feet And she was called by bright angels to Heaven To walk on God's beautiful street.

The dear face made vain by earth's suffering Is now with great joy overcast, As if the angels soft whisperings Had brought her sweet peace at last.

Just think of her now as an angel, With her pure and bright shining wings, Now at rest and free from all suffering What joy to my poor heart it brings.

My darling, it seems, was but given To brighten my home for awhile; Where now drawing my thoughts up to Heaven She's where the good and the beautiful dwell.

She has passed over the dark mystic river, The secret of which none can tell, Till we all meet in that blessed forever, Farewell, little Emma, farewell!

The Indian Problem. Suppose Chief Joseph, Chief Douglas, Chief Sitting Bull, Chief Ju,

Chief Geronimo, or any other of the murderous Indians, had been served under American law as Chief Poundmaker is being served under Canadian law, would not the lives of hundreds of innocent persons - victims of their butchery - have been saved? No doubt of it.

Not one of these offending Indians was ever so much as brought to trial, though the blood of the slaughtered settlers cried aloud against them for vengeance. Now, mark how it is in Canada!

The Indian chief Poundmaker, who became a party to the half-breed rebellion of the north-west, was captured and is undergoing trial at Winnipeg, Manitoba.

The indictment against him is for treason-felony, and the object is to prove that he captured a provision train, and wrote a letter to Riel, in which he boasted of having killed six soldiers.

If the testimony sustains these charges, as it seems to be doing, Poundmaker will suffer death on the gallows - a sentence which is now impending over Riel. The Canadians have a different way of dealing with the hostile Indians from that which is common - not popular - in the United States, which, instead of punishing the murderers re skins, puts them on the reservations and feeds them with government rations - Call.

Exposition at New Orleans. On November to New Orleans will re-open the exposition business in that city under the name of the North, Central and South American Exposition.

It is held under the immediate management of a chartered company of the citizens of New Orleans. As the name indicates, it is designed especially to cultivate a closer acquaintanceship between the different sections of the American continent.

It is said this is designed to inaugurate a "hemispherical policy" by which Americans shall be induced to trade with Americans. It will inherit many of the exhibits which were there last winter.

Of course, the south American nations will be especially invited, and for all practical purposes it should be a more profitable arrangement than the congress talked about by the South American commission. In order to obviate the annoyances and difficulties which were so common at the exposition last year, a double track steam railway will be built from a central portion of the city to the ground.

Shade Trees. EDITOR REVIEW: As you seem to wish to agitate any and all questions that are for the social and moral benefit of Roseburg, allow me to suggest that now is the time to begin to agitate the subject of planting shade trees.

Our streets should be ornamented with these beautiful objects of nature. I would advise that there should be a united effort this season in this direction. By this means Roseburg would add much to the many advantages it already possesses. Our citizens should not pass this matter idly by but at the proper time should act upon it. A great, forward step all along the line should be the watchword this year. J. H. C.

The Darwin Statue. The statue of Darwin in the Natural History museum London, is a grand piece of sculpture, the marble spotless white, the pose easy, the resemblance striking. The great theorist is depicted, in heroic size, seated in a large arm chair, his legs crossed and a light overcoat thrown carelessly across his knees.

The massive brow, the pensive eyes, the thoughtful lines above the lips, all betray the mask of boundless knowledge. In a glass case near by the Darwinian theory is shown at a single glance. The skeleton of a man and that of a monkey are suspended side by side.

AN IRISH PARLIAMENT.

The latest sensation in English politics is Mr. Parnell's Dublin speech. In that address he declared that there was only one thing on the programme of the Irish parliamentary party, namely the restoration of the Irish Parliament. When that Parliament assembled in Dublin, he said it would develop the Healy clauses of the Land act, make tenants owners of their holdings, and secure to laborers a share in the land.

He dwelt upon the importance of securing loyal and self-denying members in the next Parliament for the final battle for home rule. He even went so far as to forecast the work of the Irish Parliament, which he said would consist of a single chamber. In a later address he declared that if the Irish only used judgment and moderation they would see the two English parties competing to settle the Irish question.

The Irish leader's utterances have called forth a storm of anxious and angry criticism. The Standard, the leading Tory organ, says: "Mr. Parnell has declared war. It will be a shame and a disaster if English statesmen of both parties fail to battle him."

The Times says that no prudent politician can afford to underrate the importance of the step taken by the Irish Nationalists at the Dublin conference. The tone of the comments of the London press generally shows that it is recognized that in the present condition of parties a leader of the capacity and resources which Mr. Parnell is known to possess is a factor of the first importance.

Flying Machine. A story comes from Cairo, Ill. to the effect that the veritable flying machine has been invented. It says that it is not improbable that the solution of the great problem of building a flying machine has been brought about by a Paducah, Kentucky, man, who in the presence of several reporters and many citizens attained at least some degree of success in the premises.

Prof. Calvin A. Hayes is the progressive party who has caused the sensation, and while the inner mechanism is not given to the public, its general outside appearance is not unlike a large army tent, the lies of the tent representing the wings of the machine. The first start was interrupted by a break in the wings. Later the guys were loosened, the wings flapped, and then the machine sailed forty feet into the air, guided in various directions by the Professor, finally landing safely near where it started, having made a tour of a couple of hundred feet. The inventor claims he can come from Paducah to Cairo "as the crow flies" in an hour and a half.

The Caroline Islands. The Caroline islands, or New Philippines, on account of the seizure of which by Germany Spain impotently raves, comprise a scattered group of about five hundred islands lying a little north of the equator and New Guinea. The inhabitants, numbering say 30,000, are swarthy, the soil produces the vegetation peculiar to the torrid zone in abundance, and animal life is prolific.

The action of Germany is in accord with the policy of colonial aggrandizement that has recently characterized the statesmanship of Bismarck and Wilhelm. They are certainly as well adapted for German settlement as the portion of Zanzibar, on the east coast of Africa, seized by the German fleet, or the dozens of factories dotting western Central Africa, that are under the protection of the same mighty Teutonic power.

The great powers of Europe are outrying each other in reaching out for whatever territory to be found that can be taken without great risk of war or much expense. The Caroline islands were discovered in 1543, named after Emperor Charles V, and claimed by Spain on the ground that they form part of the Philippines, one-half of which are under Spanish rule.

Senator Colquitt has furnished the first instance in the history of Georgia where father and son represented the state in the senate of the United States. Such occurrences are very rare. There are only three on record. They are those of Senators Bayard, Don Cameron and Colquitt. The Bayards have represented Delaware in the senate without interruption for three generations. Don Cameron took his father's seat. There was thirty years between Walter T. Colquitt and his son in the senate. -Savannah Ga., News.

Labor and Intellect. We are always in these days trying to separate the two; we want one man to always be working, and we call one a gentleman and the other an operative; whereas the workman ought often to be thinking, and the thinker often to be working, and both should be gentlemen in the best sense. As it is we make both ungentle, the one envying the other despising his brother, and the mass of society is made of morbid thinkers and miserable workers.

STATE NEWS.

The Standard Publishing company has been formed in Portland, S. B. Pettigill, J. K. Kelly and C. B. Bellinger being the incorporators.

The O. P. R. R. wants Albany to put up $20,000 to bring the bridge, railroad and car shops to that place. Albany should have no trouble in raising that amount.

The cost of running the city of Portland under its charter, for the fiscal year up to the 31st of December last, was at the rate of $856 per day, leaving out Sundays and holidays. -Welcome.

Miss Belle Waters, of Jacksonville, who was so severely burned a few weeks ago, died September 1st after much suffering. Her remains were buried in the town cemetery the following day.

Weston Leader: The general land office has rejected Oregon's claim to 48,000 acres of so-called s-ramp land in Lake county alone. Land-grabbers seem to be out of luck under a democratic administration.

A gentleman who is extensively engaged in the grain trade, informs a News reporter that the wheat crop from Portland to Eugene is twenty-five per cent short. Between Eugene and Ashland it is fifty per cent less than last year.

Columbia county contributes two bunches of shingles to the Oregon exhibition car which it would be hard to beat. One bunch is composed entirely of shingles 20 inches wide, and the other is made up of 16 and 24 inch shingles, with narrow ones to fill in.

W. S. Ladd's artesian well east of of Portland is down 1200 feet. At a distance of 750 feet the top of a fir tree was struck, and 400 feet farther down the butt of the tree was reached. It was curved so the machine did not have to bore clear through its lengthwise.

It is rumored that the Oregon and California Company, through an agent, is securing the right of way in Linn county side of the North Santiam toward Minto Pass. It would appear from this that the Oregon and California is about to connect itself with the Oregon Short Line.

The demand for Oregon pairs is increasing. Mr. F. H. Page, of Portland has sent several car loads to St. Paul and Chicago already and has received orders for as many more. The white varieties are favorites. Each pair is carefully wrapped in soft paper and packed in boxes containing about forty pounds.

The Baker City "Sage Brush" of last week says: Eastern cattle buyers are arriving in our country nearly every day, and the only thing to be regretted is, that there is not enough cattle here to supply their wants. The demand for beef cattle, especially, is greater than for many years, and in this section the surplus of this class of cattle is limited.

East Oregonian: Already Portland butchers are becoming anxious in regard to the probable scarcity of beef next winter, on account of so many Eastern Oregon cattle raisers of Umatilla county have been sending large shipments lately to Chicago, and Portlanders are beginning to worry about their supply for the future. Fat cattle will no doubt bring a high price before another harvest.

Astorians have noticed during the past few weeks, a young man on the streets who towered head and shoulders above all he met in nature. His name is Dred Madison, a native of California, aged twenty-one years; he stands six feet, eight and a half inches, and is not done growing. Bailey, the manager of Robinson's circus, caught sight of him yesterday afternoon and hung to him until the young fellow agreed to go with the show. He gets a free ride to Cincinnati, and by next spring he will appear on the bills as "the great Oregon giant - eight feet high." -Astorian.

The Portland News has it from good authority that the Oregon Pacific Railroad Company will soon begin work on the extension east toward Boise City, Idaho, where connection will be made with the Chicago and Northwestern. It is said the Mount Jefferson or Minto pass has been selected as the route through the Cascades. The route will be from Corvallis northeasterly along the Willamette to Albany, crosses the South Santiam south of the mouth of Thomas creek, and crosses near North Scio to the North Santiam. A man well known in railroad circles said he had definite knowledge that work would be begun within a month and ventured the prophecy that Boise City would be reached by next Spring, and by June 15, 1886, trains would be running direct from the East to Yaquina City.

"When I came to New York," said a countryman, "I allers go round holdin' on to my pocketbook like grim death. You can't tell what minute some feller may rob you. This city is full of thieves." "Have you any money with you?" "I've got about two hundred now I sold an old boss this mornin' that I shticked up for $200 that wasn't worth $75. I see in a minute that the feller I sold him to didn't know nuthin' 'bout hosses." -N. Y. Sun.
