ROSEBURG REVIEW

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1885.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

[From our Special Correspondent.]

Washington, Oct. 31, 1885.

Only a few weeks now remain before the assembling of Congress. Not only the United States, but the whole civilized world awaits with interest the first message from a Democratic President since 1860. Mr. Cleveland has not yet put pen to paper in preparation of this message to Congress, nor have any suggestions or memoranda been submitted to him. He will commence this work early in November, and will devote some hours to it daily until Congress meets.

In view of the seclusion needed for this work came the President's edict on Wednesday, closing the White House to the office seeker and his influence from the first of November to an indefinite time. Colonel Lamont thinks the rule may be relaxed a little when Congress meets, so as to admit Senators and Representatives, but the desire of the President is to withdraw from the annoyance permanently.

Under the new arrangement aspirants for positions will have to reach the President through the heads of Departments; but he will still feel under obligations to seek information as to their fitness for office from such sources as he may prefer, and in such ways as he may see fit to adopt.

No one at a distance from the Capital—indeed no one whose avocation does not bring the matter directly to his notice—can realize the enormous demands that have been made upon the President's time, since his inauguration by petty place hunters. Those who appreciate the duties of his office, and who know how Mr. Cleveland's performance of them has been impeded by these exacting importunates will commend the new rule. In order to prepare himself for the questions of the winter, the line had to be drawn at last, not in a spirit of exclusiveness, as the unthinking may claim, but in defense of the public interest.

The growth of the country and the modern system of rapid transit may yet make necessary some limitation to the freedom with which the Executive is approached. This being a Republic, of course the President belongs to everybody. He is a perennial circus that must be seen and shook. He is by far the most easily approached ruler in the world. Any citizen can walk into his private office unannounced, introduce himself, and be accorded a personal interview. Men call upon him because they voted for Buchanan; bridal couples call upon him as a spectacular part of the honeymoon; and politicians from all parts of the Union insist upon making his personal acquaintance.

Candidates for the districts offices and their friends are growing anxious as November approaches, for it is thought that early in that month the President will begin to make the long discussed changes. The latest gossip says that Gen. Farnsworth will be the next Marshal of the District of Columbia. It is known that the President has wished to have a personal friend in the office which is so close to himself. Gen. Farnsworth is a close friend of the President, and was upon his staff when he was governor of New York.

The President is experiencing difficulty in re-organizing the Civil Service Commission. He regards reform in the Civil Service one of the most important features of his Administration, and he is trying to secure men for the place whose names will guarantee a practical carrying out of the duties of the office. It is hard to find such men as possess the necessary qualifications, and who are willing to make the sacrifice. The salary is only $3,500 a year. Three gentlemen have already declined appointment. Congress will probably be asked during the winter to increase this compensation.

There are quite a number of house hunting Congressmen in the city who are deploring the scarcity of suitable residences. The transient winter population of Washington is so large that the supply of desirable furnished houses for rent was exhausted some weeks ago, and many of the late comers will be compelled to put up at hotels. This mode of living is not fashionable here, however. It is the custom for public men to keep house. Congressman Fisher, of Michigan, and Bayne, of Pennsylvania, failing to get the kind of houses they want, made arrangements yesterday to board their families during the session of Congress. The latter, though a Republican, remarked that the Cleveland administration was a good one, and suited the people of the country.

The alleged facts in the Johnson-Grant political scandal started by Chauncey Depew throw discredit upon both the men involved—upon President Johnson for treasonable intentions, upon Gen. Grant for criminal silence. When a criminal charge like this is allowed to sleep until the lips that might refute it are sealed by death, the presumption is that it is false. The slander of the living is infamous; the slander of the dead is ghoulish.

SENATOR ELECTED.

We opposed the extra session, for reasons which were good and sufficient and have no cause thus far to regret our course. Much new legislation has been introduced, and but little work done on the imperfect laws that had been passed at the regular session. The United States Senator was the great desideratum of the extra session. There were many aspirants for the exalted position. But J. H. Mitchell, can exclaim, veni vidi vici. H. W. Scott ought to receive a resolution of thanks from Mr. Mitchell's friends, for the important assistance he (Scott) rendered in the election of the Hon. gentleman. Scott's wrath was made to praise Mitchell. The Oregonian impeached its own veracity in the mind of every one almost without exception, when it said, "we have no personal malice against Mr. Mitchell." Everybody believes that to be false, and by the law maxim, "falsus in uno falsus in omnibus," the people would not give credence to anything that the Oregonian might say. We regard that the election of Mitchell has another significance, and that is, it rebukes that kind of journalism indulged in by the Oregonian, which is so reprehensible in this enlightened age. A Journal, "scrub" or "monopolist," that invades the sacred precints of the domestic circle, should be condemned. Political or personal opposition, does not give a man the right as a well bred gentleman to flaunt the flambeau of domestic improprieties, by exposure for one's own personal gain or vindictiveness. There are other remedies that can be used to correct irregularities that the Oregonian speaks so loudly about. The people at present do not believe the allegations made by the Oregonian against Mr. Mitchell. H. W. Scott has unwittingly rendered J. H. Mitchell an excellent service, and his friends should commend the fact, but condemn the motive. The REVIEW prophesied the election of one of two men, Hon. Binger Hermann, or Hon. J. H. Mitchell. And taking in the whole situation from our standpoint, we are compelled to rejoice with those who weep.

There seems to be no doubt of the fact that a large number of the negro voters in Virginia who had formerly been Republicans cast their ballots for the Democratic candidates at the recent election.

This also results from MAHONE'S loss of the Federal patronage in Virginia and the removal of Republican officeholders, whose chief business was bulldozing colored citizens into voting the Republican ticket.—World.

Undoubtedly. The bloodshed at Danville and all the Southern outrages complained of, occured when the country was under a Republican Administration. Nothing of the kind has happened since the Democrats came into power, last March. Again in the same editorial, the esteemed Journal says:

The esteemed Republican Providence Journal remarks:

The election in Virginia was doubtless very far from being an ideal one, but it is apparently a considerable improvement over the state of things that resulted in the bloodshed at Danville.

During the election last week in Baltimore a negro was shot and killed for soliciting another negro to vote the Democratic ticket. The person who did the shooting is one of John Sherman's men who want "a free ballot and a fair count."

PURELY VEGETABLE.

Are You Bilious?

The Regulator never fails to cure. I most cheerfully recommend it to all who suffer from Bilious Attacks or any Disease caused by a disarranged state of the Liver.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. W. R. BERNARD.

Do You Want Good Digestion?

I suffered intensely with Full Stomach, Headache, etc. A neighbor, who had taken Simmons Liver Regulator, told me it was a sure cure for my trouble. The first dose I took relieved me very much, and in one week's time I was as strong and hearty as I ever was. It is the best medicine I ever took for Dyspepsia.

RICHMOND, VA. H. G. CRENSHAW.

Do You Suffer from Constipation?

Testimony of HIRAM WARNER, Chief Justice of Ga.: "I have used Simmons Liver Regulator for Constipation of my Bowels, caused by a temporary Derangement of the Liver, for the last three or four years, and always with decided benefit."

Have You Malaria?

I have had experience with Simmons Liver Regulator since 1865, and regard it as the greatest medicine of the times for diseases peculiar to malarial regions. So good a medicine deserves universal commendation.

Safer and Better than Calomel!

I have been subject to severe spells of Congestion of the Liver, and have been in the habit of taking from 15 to 20 grains of calomel, which generally laid me up for three or four days. Lately I have been taking Simmons Liver Regulator, which gave me relief, without any interruption to business.

EDITOR REVIEW: Notwithstanding our board of Immigration inviting people to come to Oregon notwithstanding our three great railroad interests doing the same thing the latter parties much interested in inducing immigrants to settle here, it is a fact just at this time that more people are leaving Oregon than are coming, and why is it, I will tell you (its a secret and you must keep it) It is because there is little demand for labor and the want of proper spirit in building up and sustaining home manufactories and home industries is the cause of it, a great ado was made last fall because the State Fair got their posters printed in Cincinnatti, Ohio and I think the complaint a just one, and no criticism could be too severe, but they (the managers) were doing only what almost every one else is doing until at last there is scarcely any home enterprises that is flourishing and hence little or no demand for labor. This cannot always last, the people must wake up to the great importance of sustaining home institutions or we will be shrinking instead of increasing our population.

C. A. REED.

MAHONE of course explains the defeat of his party in Virginia on the stale plea that the colored vote was intimidated, and the election vitiated with fraud. But he does not undertake to explain the mysterious and phenomenal purity of certain electoral districts which gave the Republican ticket a handsome majority. Is it not a little too thin, this constantly-repeated assertion that the success of the Democrats always means fraud and corruption, while Republican success is a pleasing proof that the vote has been free and the count honest? We once knew a man who was so astonished at his failure to be elected to a small office that he asked one of his friends if he could think of any reason for his failure. "Well, Jack," said the friend, "I guess the principal reason was that you did not get enough votes." But this is not reason at all to the Republican candidate in the southern states who is always sure that he would have been elected by a magnificent majority if it had not been for the wickedness of his opponents who scared all his friends.

It is a very common remark among Republicans that Cleveland is better than his party. Very well, if this be true, it speaks in the highest terms of the wisdom, prudence and good management of the Democratic party in putting forward its very best man for office. We express, very freely, our unqualified conviction that this remark may not always be made about men who are often called to important stations in government by the Republicans. We do not believe, for instance, that Blaine is better, or even as good as his party. If he is, then the party falls far short of what it claims to be. —Democrat.

In his campaign speech in Virginia Senator Sherman exhorted Virginians to discard the political opinions of Thomas Jefferson and adopt those of John Marshall, assuring them that the doctrines of the old federal party,—a party driven into retirement more than eighty years ago—were the only proper doctrines for the country to adopt to-day. But the Virginians thought differently, by a large majority.

A Pretty Woman's Secret.

Fear of discovery, when she resorts to false hair and dyes, is a source of constant anxiety to her. The very persons from whom she most desires to hide the waning of her charms are the ones most likely to make the discovery. But there is no reason why she should not regain and retain all the beauty of hair that was her pride in youth. Let her use AYER'S HAIR VIGOR, and, not only will her hair cease to fall out, but a new growth will appear where the scalp has been denuded; and locks that are turning gray, or have actually grown white, will return to their pristine freshness and brilliance of color. AYER'S HAIR VIGOR cures

Hereditary Baldness.

GEORGE MAYER, Flatonia, Texas, was bald at 23 years of age, as his ancestors had been for several generations. One bottle of HAIR VIGOR started a growth of soft, downy hair all over his scalp, which soon became thick, long, and vigorous.

is not a dye, but, by healthful stimulation of the roots and color glands, speedily restores to its original color hair that is Turning Gray.

MRS. CATHERINE DEAMER, Point of Rocks, Md., had her hair suddenly blanched by fright, during the late civil war. AYER'S HAIR VIGOR restored it to its natural color, and made it softer, glossier, and more abundant than it had been before.

Scalp Diseases

Which cause dryness, brittleness, and falling of the hair, dandruff, itching, and annoying sores, are all quickly cured by AYER'S HAIR VIGOR. Cured HERBERT BOYD, Minneapolis, Minn., of intolerable Itching of the Scalp; J. N. CARTER, JR., Occoquan, Va., of Scald Head; MRS. D. V. S. LOVELACE, Lovelaceville, Ky., of Tetter Sores; MISS BESSIE H. BEDLOE, Burlington, Vt., of Scalp Disease and Dandruff. Torpidity of the roots of the hair, which, if neglected, may result in incurable baldness, is readily cured by AYER'S HAIR VIGOR. As
