

EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

Last Tuesday morning, we with our traveling companion Dr. Bunnell boarded the Coos Bay stage with our faces turned toward the sounding sea. Jack had been committing deprecations upon the green verdure all along the line, and his footprints were seen upon every forest leaf. Starting early as we did, we felt his nipping icicles to our discomfort before the rising sun drove him to his retreat. Arriving at the 18 Mile House we lunched, and then proceeded to ascend the coast range. About 3 o'clock P. M. we reached the summit and then down the declivities we sped, arriving at the

STAGE STATION kept by B. R. Mynatt in first class style. Here our food was wholesome, beds clean, and all necessary comforts given to make a poor weary sojourner feel quite refreshed. Next morning very early, in fact too early for our liking, we arose, and then while making a hasty toilet we realized that we were of all men in the United States the sorest, except one, and that was Morrison of Illinois. The second day's journey we began with a little drizzle to cheer us by the way. Thence through mountain, mist and mud, (an alliteration—Burchard) we sat beside the indefatigable stage ribbon manipulator, until we came to

Coos City the end of our buckboard journey. We say right here that Mr. McCulloch has good horses and good wagons, and considering the roads that he must pass over, he makes good time, given all the comfort possible, and his employes are attentive. At this point we embarked on the steamer Myrtle and went to Uter City where we awaited the arrival of the train from Coaledo. We learned that this railroad company charges 50 cents for about five miles travel, when under the laws of Oregon passengers should only pay 20 cents, or 4 cents per mile. Will the Coast Mail or the Coos Bay News be so kind as to ask Bro. Signy why this is so? From this place Capt. Lightner pulled in his ropes and was soon docked at the wharf at MARSHFIELD where we were met by a number of friends and taken to the well kept Blanco Hotel where we had dispensed to us the necessities of life in sufficient quantity and quality to insure our continued existence. Immediately after tea we went to the beautiful Masonic hall with its appointments well arranged and its settings in order. Here we met companions Hyde, Nasberg and Golden when we proceeded to the preliminary work in instituting and consecrating the new chapter at this place. The members of Arago Chapter No. 22 are a number of brothers well qualified to perform the duties incumbent upon them.

On Thursday we went to Empire City where we met J. J. Lamb the county clerk and his interesting family, and Mr. Herlocker the sheriff, these being our old time friends whom we had not seen for five years. Remaining only about one hour in this city where the ocean surges roll, we returned to Marshfield and pursued our labors. A large delegation of companions and brothers came from the Coquille country Thursday evening to join us in the work of the Royal Craft. In the midst of these labors we pen these few jottings, and shall give the conclusion of the whole matter later, in our next issue. We met many of our old friends, and to mention our newspaper friends Messrs Gray and Bennett, both of whom by their cordial attentions show that they have a large patronizing constituency. Bro. Gray edits the Coast Mail, and he makes it a lively and reliable sheet; and the pity is, that with his fund of information he still obstinately persists in being a republican. Bro. Bennett is at the helm of the News, and makes that paper an indispensable factor for information (as its name indicates) in Coos county. The News is a strong supporter of the administration, and gives no uncertain sound. We must also be allowed to speak one word of W. H. S. Hyde who is a large hearted and enterprising gentleman, and the only objection that we found with him, and it is certainly unmitigated and unpardonable defect to exist in any man in this advanced age of the world's history, and that is; he is an old bachelor of some 60 years standing, and yet continues in all the meridian glory of a perfect manhood.

Marshfield is a resort town, and transacts considerable business in the coal and lumber trade. The city supports good schools and contributes liberally to the support of churches and all benevolent enterprises. The business houses in the city are well and commodiously built and all indicate prosperity. We find one peculiarity in reference to this country, and that is, this people belongs to Oregon politically, but to California commercially. This ought not so to be, and if we had a railroad to the interior of our own state, we would save much commercial traffic to our own profit. We should have railroad communication via Roseburg to the heart of our own young and growing country. We are looked for to a lecture on Saturday evening, and will hold forth at Empire City on Sunday morning, at this place again on Tuesday evening of next week, with several other precincts to hear from. In our next we shall have something to say of Empire City, Gardner, Scottsburg, Drain etc. The hospitality of these friends is well up to the mark, and we have had at times serious doubts as to the probable recovery of Bro. Bunnell, who is now suffering from an overdose of clam surfiteure.

EX-PRESIDENT ARTHUR DEAD.

Chester Allen Arthur was born in Fairfield, Frankland Co., Vermont, October 5, 1830, and was a son of Rev. Wm. Arthur a Scotch Presbyterian emigrant from north of Ireland. His son Chester was quite a poor boy as Garfield; he earned his way through Union college by teaching school, and graduated with honorable distinction in 1849. He taught school several years after leaving college, and about 1854 he went to New York City and entered the law office of Hon. E. D. Culver. He first attracted attention as a lawyer by bringing suits to vindicate the rights of colored people to ride in horse cars. When the war broke out in 1861, Mr. Arthur, whose remarkable executive and administrative powers were already known to Gov. Morgan was appointed by him as a quarter master-general of the state. At the close of the war he retired to private life and resumed the practice of his profession. He was appointed collector of the port of New York in 1871. Which office he filled with honor until 1878 when he retired. In 1880 he was nominated for vice-president of the U. S. and elected. He became president September 19, 1881 upon the death of Garfield. Arthur governed as if he were responsible to the nation for the wisdom or folly of his government.

His rapid decline in health was remarkable. When he was inaugurated president, Sept. 19, 1881 he stood for the best type of American manhood; a self-taught, self-wrought man; a stout soul in a stalwart body. For months his splendid strength had been worn to the verge of the grave, and on the morning of Nov. 18, he died at his home in New York City. The news of his death was a great surprise, notwithstanding the alarming rumors of his health during the summer. A stroke of cerebral apoplexy, sudden but not wholly unexpected by his attending physicians ended his life. He leaves two children, a son and daughter; his wife having died in 1881. The above is a short outline of Arthur's life as we get it from our exchanges.

The poem, "The Angel of the Covenant," recently published by THE REVIEW is receiving notice by the press in various parts of the state. The Benton Leader man became so enthusiastic over it last week that he devoted the leading column of his editorial page to the poem, comparing it with the works of Homer and other Grecian authors. It is indeed gratifying to know that the poem ranks so high as to be classed at once with the ancient classics. Since the appearance of the first book in THE REVIEW, there has been such a growing demand for it that we shall be compelled to publish the entire poem in book form.

A MAX was sent to the chain gang in North Carolina a few days ago for trading wives with a neighbor. He pleads in extenuation that he did not know that the act was a crime, and that having a chance to get a better looking woman than his own wife by paying $1.50 to boot, he thought he had a right to make the trade. It would seem from this showing that our foreign missionary societies are overshooting the mark widely when they train their guns on China and Hindostan.—Gazette.

DURING his New York visit Mr. Blaine visited Beddo's island and viewed the statue of liberty. It is solemnly asserted by eye-witnesses that while Mr. Blaine was gazing up at the serene face the lid of the statue's left eye slowly closed down and was elevated again, and the knowing ones believe that this portends good luck for the man from Maine.—World.

AFTER considerable delay of a poetic character the name of "Oak View" has finally been conferred upon President Cleveland's rural home in the suburbs of Washington. The place used to be known as "Pretty Prospect" and then the newspapers tried to give it the name of "Red Top," but the president has finally settled down to something that is both appropriate and euphonious.

Gov. Moody's term as chief executive of Oregon will expire January 10. He has already begun on his last message to the legislative assembly.

NOVEMBER will close a bloody record for murder in Oregon.
