

WASHINGTON LETTER

Washington D. C. Nov. 16th. 1886.

The question of vital interest now to the Republican Senators is whether the Nebraska legislature will return Senator Van Wyck or some other reliable brother. During the last session whenever "cray horse" Van Wyck as he was sometimes called, arose to ask the consideration of a resolution which was inimical to any fat corporation, or went against any old abuse, there was a good deal of laughing and winking on the sofas in the rear of the chamber.

In like manner Senator Riddleberger always seemed to succeed in making himself ridiculous. When he insisted on a hearing in opposition to executive sessions of the Senate, he was invariably out of order; yet whenever he made the same point of order on another Senator, it so happened that the point which was good as against him was not good as against others.

Now it appears that the stone which the builders rejected has become the head of the corner. These two Senators who were objects of ridicule and irritation on to the Republican brotherhood, hold the balance of power between the two parties in the Senate. They were never in harmony with their party and could never be relied upon when a vote was called. So, as they are not Republicans in good and regular standing, the Senate is not Republican, and there is a fat ahead. The Senate stands thus; 37 Democrats 37 Republicans and the balance of Power party, composed of Senators Van Wyck and Riddleberger. It is quite certain these gentlemen will be very graciously treated this winter by Republican Senators although the Philadelphia Press said it might be better to have the Senate Democratic than to have it Republican by the aid of such men.

The suggestion that Mr. Carlisle is disqualified for the speakership in the Fifth Congress because his opponent will contest his election, is considered practically absurd by such able and experienced parliamentarians as for instance, Congressman Welborn, of Texas. The further question of the propriety of his appointing the committee which is to consider his own case is a reflection that every member in Congress would feel like resenting.

Without distinction of party the Congressmen who have served with Mr. Carlisle would be perfectly satisfied to trust the whole matter to him, assured that he would not raise a hand to save himself from defeat, if by so doing he would be taking an unfair advantage of his opponent.

A finer tribute is seldom paid to a man in public life than the recent expression of interest in Mr. Carlisle's fortunes, by the best people of every partisan faith. The example is all the more significant from the fact that in becoming the object of so much unfeigned regard, the Speaker has never abated one iota of his loyalty to the Democratic party.

The police scandal has been the talk of the town during the week. It is alleged that the Chief of Police, in his cabinet councils which he holds at nine o'clock every day, at his office, instructed his Lieutenants to "spot" Congressmen who were inclined to dark ways in order that they might be able to influence these Congressmen to vote for large appropriations for the Metropolitan Police force. Lieutenant Arnold, who is charged with having betrayed the secret, has been summoned before a court martial, and much interest is manifested in the trial. It is the most important agitation in the police affairs of the District that has occurred since the investigation made into the iniquities of the detectives corps three years ago, and there is little doubt that justice will ultimately be done, no matter who is hurt.

Society gave a little flutter during the week to prove that it is not lifeless. A lunch party given by Mrs. Whitney in honor of Mrs. Cleveland, was characterized by that elegance of appointment which has marked all the entertainments given at the hospitable home of the Secretary of the Navy. There were nineteen young ladies invited to meet the lady of the White House. Autumn's own flowers, Chrysanthemums, were used in decorating the table, and the corsage bouquets, which have been regulated to lunch parties, were of violets and were placed at every cover. The White House is very quiet just now, as the President refuses to see all the callers, and is absorbed in the preparation of his message to Congress.

My Favorite Receipt.

Some time ago the Royal Baking Powder Co., conceived the idea of collecting from its patrons, redistribution among them when printed in book form their best and favorite methods for the preparation of articles of food of all descriptions. In response there were furnished a very large number of practical receipts, from which were selected the 3000 contained in the book entitled "My Favorite Receipt." The publication was intended originally for the contributors only, but the collection proved to be of such remarkable value that its publishers believing its circulation would be productive of good in affording a larger knowledge as to the practical preparation of real home cookery in a way to make it most whole, some and appetizing, have issued an edition for general circulation, which is sold at cost of production and postage. "My Favorite Receipt" contains formulas for the preparation of almost every known dish in every conceivable way. These have been classified into departments representing Soups and Broths, Fish and Shell Fish, Vegetables, Meats, Steaks, Poultry and Game, Eggs, Salads, Desserts, Breads, Cakes, Condiments, Beverages, Ices, Preserves and Pickles, Preserved Meats, Canned Vegetables, etc., to which a copious index is added. Every branch of the culinary art has received ample attention. The publication is one of unusual value, from the fact that the receipts are thoroughly tested formulas of genuine home cookery. In it each contributor vouches for the utility of her receipt not only, but attests that years of experience have proved it is the best way of making the article named, and signs her name and address to it as an evidence of its genuineness and her faith in its superiority.

The practical character of the receipts will especially commend them to American housekeepers. While cookery of the very finest and richest, as well as that more plain and economical, is provided for, "My Favorite Receipt" is not, like many of the cook books of the day, a collection of impracticable, untried, or foreign formulas, following which frequently results in a failure and a waste of good materials. The contributions are from every part of the country and give the best experience of the best cooks for preparing the dishes peculiar to each locality.

"My Favorite Receipt" handsomely printed and bound, is sent by the Royal Baking Powder Co., New York, at the nominal price of 50 cents, to any address, express charges paid.

"What kind of a dog is that you have?" asked the editor, addressing the foreman of the composing room. "I call him a compositor dog," was the answer; "its a name I invented myself," said the foreman, as he helped himself to a cigar from the editor's box "Why do you apply the name to him? What resemblance does a dog bear to a compositor, or vice versa?" "Well, the dog is a setter." Then the editor, with a melancholy look, turned to complete his article on "the lessons of the great strikes."—Ex.

A Chicago man, too lazy to work, too proud to go to the poorhouse, and too honest to steal, determined to commit some genteel offense, which would give him free board and lodging in prison, without leaving a stain on his character. He therefore went out and began kissing all the girls he met. Before he could find one who would order his arrest, he starved to death.

It is estimated that in 1784 there were 420,000,000 pagans in the world and that these had increased in 1884 to 835,000,000.

There is an intellectual and refined sensationalism as well as a vulgar; sensationalism of thought as well as word. Some seek notoriety through the eccentricity of their thoughts, others through their words. Both will have their reward.

God cannot guide those souls who never trust him enough to believe that he is doing it.

After Queen Victoria became engaged to Prince Albert she saw the Duchess of Gloucester, and told her she was to make her declaration before the Council the next day. The Duchess asked her if it was not a nervous thing to do. She said: "Yes; but I did much more nervous thing a little while ago." What was that? "I proposed to Prince Albert."

"And now let Mr. Bartholdi make another Liberty to stand at the Golden Gate in California. But in place of a torch she should be represented waving a Chinaman in air by the slack of his copious overalls, preparatory to slinging him at the setting sun."—N. Y. Herald.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria. When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria. When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria. When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.
