The State Insurance

We have but a few words to say in reference to this company, and they are as follows; we have to some extent examined into the ability of the com pany to pay all contingent losses, and find them amply able to discharge every accruing liability. Further they are a safe and cheap company to do busi ness with. Again this is a home company, and all things being equal, they should be patronized. Also we know more than half the men who are directing this business, and can say that they are men of integrity, financial ability, and honest men.
