

ROSEBURG REVIEW

FRIDAY, MAY, 6, 1887.

THE HAMILTONIAN DOCTRINE.

The one great fundamental and central idea of the republican party is the centralization of power in the general government and the destruction of the power of the states.

Hamilton was afraid to trust the people. He continually taught the weakness of democracies and sought to inculcate the doctrine that simply to strip the English monarchy of the hereditary right of succession was to make the strongest and best government.

Hamilton was sincere in his purposes but he was not in accord with the determined wishes of a liberty loving people. From time to time the doctrines of this American monarchist are alluded to by some apish imitator of British aristocracy as the true theory for our government.

The republican party built upon the insecure and rejected doctrines of Hamilton cannot survive the sectional issues and animosities of a rapidly dying past.

Its theories are un-American and were so declared at the very formation of the government. It is dead. The exigencies of the time that called for a "higher law" and tried men's souls have happily passed and the extraneous issues of slavery and its corollaries have been settled forever and the pendulum of American freedom swings back to the sublime idea of an indissoluble union of indestructible states.

The Jacksonville branch railroad is still the talk of the town, though a few are getting very impatient, but it will be at least three weeks before the committee will be able to make a definite report. Everything is being done to the committee can do in the way of soliciting aid from a distance, and correspondence is going on constantly with the parties who furnish railroad material.

The editor of the Oregonian took occasion in his last Sunday edition to refer to the little difference of opinion that exists between the Jacksonville Times and THE REVIEW. Now possibly when we spoke of newspapers "smelling of whisky" we trod upon the toes of the Oregonian, and it may be that caused him to flinch. We beg pardon, we should not tread on sore corns, for no doubt it hurts.

There should be a thorough investigation by the Cleveland administration concerning the delay in the construction of the locks at the Cascades. A Portland paper publishes some very serious charges about this matter.

The newest newspaper in New York is called The Lamb. We fear that when this newspaper lamb encounters the newspaper lynx, it will fall into the hence like a green pea.

The leading Republican papers of the nation are turning towards John Sherman as the leader for 1888. This will not interfere with Mr. Cleveland's re-election.

COL. DAN LAMONT, the President's private secretary spent a day recently with Gov. Hill of New York. This has set all the political gossips to work.

Even in sickness an American statesman is in peril. The physician sent to attend Blaine was named Mudd.

READ THIS.

With the present influx of immigration, and its character, this great northwest will go forward at a rate unprecedented. The late immigration taken as a whole, is much better than in former years. Some ten years ago the people in the east had a mania for government land. Everyone almost, felt the pride of their lives to get a home.

The Statesman coterie is large and active. This paper is forging to the front, and Messrs. Hendricks & Sauter are live men, and are willing for their success to depend upon their own efforts. Ike and Ted are at the wheel and are indispensable to the Statesman's force.

The Willamette University is doing an excellent educational work. The Railroad Commissioners will take a trip to the Southern terminus of the O. & C. Railroad at an early day to hear any suggestions that may be made to them to facilitate their work in carrying out the law as prescribed by the last Legislature.

The Republican majority of the State Senate of New York attempted to retain two Republicans in office by refusing to consider the nominations made by Gov. Hill. Lieutenant-Governor Jones however read the message of the Governor when the Republican clerk refused to do so, and at present the Republican majority is in a very embarrassing position.

The San Francisco Examiner contains an interview with Senator Hearst in which that gentleman states that Gov. Hill, of New York, will not be a candidate for the presidential nomination in opposition to President Cleveland, but that on the contrary will be one of the warmest supporters of the president.

There can be no mistaking the growing sentiment of the people in favor of the President, as has been stated he stands as the personified conscience of the country. The words in which Jeremiah Black spoke of Andrew Jackson are equally as applicable to Grover Cleveland; "no trucking to popular errors; no wailing of power to pass; no base appeal to the sordid passions; no baiting of traps to catch the favor of the people, ever disgraced his manly statesmanship."

Mr. Rice lost a valuable horse last week. Hamming birds are quite numerous in Mr. Jones' orchard. Wonder who that was that fell out of the back last Sunday.

The picnic at Myrtle Creek, owing to the rain was almost a failure. Mr. Mark Smith and wife spent last Sunday visiting friends in this neighborhood.

The Century magazine for May has a very able editorial endorsing the Cleveland administration.

The Echo is still booming the Drin-Scottsburg railroad with a zeal worthy of success.

SALEM NOTES.

Salem is a beautiful city. The M. E. Conference (District) is in session in this city, and the clerical representation is good, and a deep interest manifested in all the leading moral issues of the day.

The Statesman coterie is large and active. This paper is forging to the front, and Messrs. Hendricks & Sauter are live men, and are willing for their success to depend upon their own efforts. Ike and Ted are at the wheel and are indispensable to the Statesman's force.

The musicals in the University chapel last Wednesday evening was superb. Miss Parish is the best soprano singer in Salem and some think the handsomest young lady in the city.

Fred Cronmiller is at the case in the state printers office, and talks and looks yearningly for his "Hyacinth" that lives in the city among the hills of Southern Oregon.

Hon. W. H. Byars is now engaged in making maps for the county of Marion etc.

The State laws will be out in a short time, earlier than ever before. Willis McElroy would like to come to Roseburg.

Supt. McElroy is always on the fly, or working to the hilt in his office. The Railroad Commission is in session this week.

Geo. McBride, secretary of state is an unmarried man. The citizens of Salem are a church-going people.

At the barracks of the Salvation Army last Sunday evening there was a "knock down and drag out" fight. A dozen or more were engaged. The Salvationists were in the wrong this time.

A fire broke out in the I. O. O. F. building last Tuesday morning doing some damage to the regalia and other property.

The state officers are all hard at work and they are doing thorough work. The Willamette University is doing an excellent educational work.

The Railroad Commissioners will take a trip to the Southern terminus of the O. & C. Railroad at an early day to hear any suggestions that may be made to them to facilitate their work in carrying out the law as prescribed by the last Legislature.

E. M. Waite is a fine bicyclist. It looks so odd to see a man with a hoary head astride of the bicycle. The railroad trains show a business appearance about Salem.

The Interstate Commission is pronounced a very hard working body of men. There can be no doubt but that the days of the railroad supremacy have gone by.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria. When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria. When she became a Miss, she clung to Castoria. When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.
