ROSEBURG REVIEW

FRIDAY, MAY, 13, 1887.

THAT RAILROAD ONCE MORE.

It is a settled and a well known fact that nothing would add more to the growth and progress of Southern Oregon than a railroad from Roseburg to Coos bay. It would give the grain growers of this section the benefit of San Francisco as a a market instead of Portland and would increase the price of every bushel of grain raised by from five to ten cents. Another point; the railroad would be a paying investment and would bring in a handsome return on the capital which would construct it. THE REVIEW is not, at the present writing, thoroughly conversant with the present status of the Coos bay railroad company but is under the impression that the franchise passed into the hands of the O. & C. R. R. and from that corporation to the Southern Pacific. If so, efforts should be made to induce this powerful company to construct the road. The matter should be placed before them in the correct light. We are under the opinion that a sum of money should be raised in Douglas and Coos counties in order to employ some capable man to gather statistics regarding the feasibility of the route and the resources of the county and have the same presented to the Southern Pacific company, and if they would take no action on the matter, then to carry the same before Eastern capitalists. Let us make one more effort to get this railroad and let us make it now. What say our Coos bay friends?

BROTHER BLAINE.

We cannot refrain from giving the Oregonian's estimate of "brother Blaine" in the following:

"The trip of Blaine to the Indian territory came near costing him his life, but it has doubtless convinced him, as it has all impartial political observers, that there is a wide and deep under current of opposition to his renomination in 1888. Republican opposition to Blaine includes the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, the Milwaukee Sentinel, the Burlington (Ia.) Hawkeye, the Council Bluffs Nonpareil, the Kookuk Gate City, the St. Paul Pioneer Press, the Philadelphia Bulletin, the Rochester (N. Y.) Post-Express, and the Philadelphia Evening Telegraph. These republican journals have come to the conclusion not to oppose Mr. Blaine, if nominated, but to support him, and yet are frank to say that 'will be bad politics to nominate Mr Blaine next year.' The Philadelphia Bulletin says it is no time to take risks, and that the growth of this feeling is a 'sign that the republican party has not lost its head,' and that 'no worse fate could happen to the republican organization than that one of those whirlwinds of personal enthusiasm should come over it and force the nomination of Mr. Blaine.'

Garfield had 535,000 more votes in the Northern states in 1880 than the democratic candidate, while Blaine had but 300,000 more than Cleveland in 1884, and though Blaine in 1884 had about 400,000 more votes than Garfield in 1880, Cleveland received 430,034 more votes in 1884 than Hancock in 1880. Cleveland is morally certain to be the democratic candidate in 1888, and with Blaine as the republican candidate the mugwump vote will be solid for the democracy; but with anybody but Blaine the independents are sure to divide their vote between the parties, for many of them are not satisfied with Cleveland's infidelity to stern civil service reform. Of course the same machinery, the same 'personal enthusiasm,' can be again invoked and organized to renominate Blaine that was successful in setting him up to be knocked down in 1884, but there does not seem to be any good reason why the republican party should make the same mistake next year it made then. Blaine may be the most unjustly abused man in America, but the fact remains that the independents won't vote for him, and if they won't it is absurd to renominate him.

THE STATESMAN pauses a minute and curbs its high career in order to inform us that Alexander Hamilton and John C. Calhoun are dead. Thanks, awfully, Bobby for the news, but while on the melancholy subject allow us to suggest that the grand old republican party has likewise joined the ranks of the illustrious dead, but in mitigation of our sorrows, the Hon. Ned. H. Pell still lives.

A CONVENTION of the friends of the Prohibitory Amendment has been called to meet in this city on the 25th of this month. We are informed that a programme of great interest will be rendered and that a complete orgauization of the prohibition forces will be made.

FROM all reports there will be a large immigration to Oregon this year. Douglas county's friends should make an effort to let her great resources be known.

THE Sentry is the new name given to the Talk of Salem, and it has been greatly improved. Success.

LETTER TO C. B. CARLISLE.

PORTLAND, OR., May 5, 1887.
D. S. K. BUICK, ESQ.,
ROSEBURG, OR.

DEAR SIR:—It is our purpose to make a reissue of the phamplet, "Oregon As It Is" as soon as the material can be collected. It is very important that what is written of each locality should be perfectly reliable, full and accurate, and we hope that you will favor us with such a sketch of your county. In order to make the whole book uniform, we suggest that you write under headings.

County Bounded.
Area of square miles or acreage.
Population.
Assessed value of real and personal property.
General topography.
Arable land.
Timber land.
Soil.
Productions.
Climate.
Towns.
Transportations, etc.

And any thing else which may suggest itself as being of importance to your locality and of interest to newcomers. If you can not do this will you be kind enough to ask some other reliable gentleman to do it. The limit is about 3000 words.

Yours Truly,
C. B. CARLISLE,
Sec. State Board of Immigration.

The foregoing letter is published for the general information of all interested in the development and prosperity of Douglas county; with the request that old settlers, and all in possession of any facts calculated to aid in the compilation of the sketch above referred to, will please send the memoranda to the Plaindealer office forthwith, and believing that such a statement of facts will be highly beneficial to all the business interests of Douglas county.

THE last legislature made a bad mistake in not specifying in the proposed amendment to the constitution for raising the salaries of the state officers, in not placing the amounts to be paid in the amendment. The people are not prepared to vote an amendment upon the constitution which shall each session of the legislature authorize that body to change, by either raising or lowering the salaries of the state officers. Some innocent state official might incur the displeasure of the legislature, and that body reduce his salary to a few dollars. Or, on the other hand, it might be that the state officials combine and secure a high rate of salary. The amendment should have specified the amount to be paid each officer As it is, while we recognize the fact that salaries are entirely too low for all our state officers, we think the amendment should not be passed. There are always plenty of patriots ready to serve the people in the various positions even at the present low salary.—Portland World.

THAT was a fine comment upon the motives and energies of the good people of Corvallis by Rev. Mr. Craig in his statement to the Benton Leader April 22nd, when he said that "this ado about raising subscription for the new building is simply 'gush' to create sympathy for themselves." A $23,000 sympathy is something you do not often find. Verily the Corvallis people are more sympathetic than any folks we ever met.

Mr. Nickell "Wants the Earth."

JOE BEN LANE of Multnomah county has been appointed Indian agent at the Siletz reservation, vice F. M. Wadsworth. Mr. Lane is well qualified for the position and is a member of the well known Lane family. The people of southern Oregon would have been better satisfied if C. H. Pickens of Jackson county had received the appointment, however.—Jacksonville Times.

EVEN the Albany Democrat is in tears because we are making a paper that all may read with profit, and its columns are full of prope. reading, and its ads. have no unpleasant aroma about them. We ought to "weep with those that weep" but we cannot just now.

DRAIN ECHO how is this; according to your theory; that to be a good democrat you cannot be a temperance man, to be a republican you must be a temperance man, Ergo no republican drinks any whiskey, or gets drunk. Good morning.

PATRONIZE the State Ins. Co. It owns real estate here. It pays taxes here. It loans its money here and assists in the development of the north west which is not generally true of other companies.

WE hope Bro. Nickell will deal gently with us this week in his "bull" against THE REVIEW. Our cuttlcle is thin, and you should not draw the colored fluid.

THE Kentucky democrats endorse the Cleveland administration and are favorable to Carlisle for the second place on the ticket.

DRAIN ITEMS.

The hotels are full.

Business is brisk, and times in general are lively.

Nellie Jones returned from Grants Pass recently.

Mock murder trial Friday evening at the Literary.

Miss Ella Seymour of Elkton is visting friends in Drain.

Fred J. Stark made a flying visit to Portland Thursday.

Mrs. J. M. Stark of Elkton has purchased property in Drain.

Mrs. Della E. Allen returned from Roseburg this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Lantz have returned from Clackamas county.

Grandpa Rogers came down from Grants Pass Monday night.

Large cattle yards are being built here by the O. & C. R. R. Co.

Jesse Jones who has been quite ill for some time, is now convalescent.

Lecture by J. R. N. Bell at the chapel Saturday evening May 14.

J. J. Dunten of Eugene who has been in town for a few days, left Wednesday morning.

The new quarters of our popular groceryman, Osterag & Co. presents a neat and attractive appearance.

Voltaire Gurney and Wm. Turner of Looking Glass were in Drain Saturday. They are on their way to Florence.

George Krewson whose life has been despaired of for some time, is so much improved as to be about again.

Field glasses afford a great deal of amusement which one otherwise might not receive. Everyone should be very careful.

Miss Addie Smith of Wilbur who has been visiting friends here for a few days left Monday morning for Elkton, where she will teach.

George Woodring reports snow in the mountains on Smith river. This perhaps accounts for the reason of its being so cold in our usually mild temperate locality.

Mrs. Underhill of the New Hotel, has recently received from San Francisco, a number of imported Japanese white rats, which make very desirable and attractive pets.

Drain & Co's. store presents a handsome appearance, surely that firm deserve commendation for their enterprise, they carry the finest and best assorted stock of goods in Drain, and offer great inducements to intending purchasers and the public in general.

Capt. Ben. D. Boswell of Berkeley Cal. who has been in Drain for sometime left last Friday for his home. Capt. Bosewell is extensively interested in stock raising, and intends importing immediately from his large ranch in California several car loads of blooded horses and cattle to Drain to be placed upon the ranch purchased by him while here. Capt. Bosewell is a retired army officer, a man of capital, shrewd, careful, and we predict for him success in his undertaking.

Millie Hardman has gone to Roseburg.

Joe Wright has gone to Looking Glass.

George Wells is going to eastern Oregon.

THE REVIEW is ever welcomed at our home.

Fruits of nearly all kinds do well in the foot hills here.

Miss Hattie Woodin is coming home from Roseburg soon.

Some government land to be taken up in this section yet.

Frank M. Woodin is building a new rail fence on his homestead.

Deer and fat game of all kinds plenty, lots of trout in Wilson's creek.

Fruit trees in full bloom, gardens growing and grass never better than now.

A new barn and other improvements are talked of at the Mountain house soon.

Some 700 head of cattle have been driven over this road from Coos county this spring.

It has rained off and on for five weeks and still it rains. Some snow on summit, and roads muddy.

The Mountain House is 19 miles from Roseburg, is a good place to get a square meal if you are hungry, try it.

Little Charley Wilson cut the fore finger off of his left hand lately, his mother sewed it on and it is getting better fast.

The first wagon has come out over the Coos Bay road to-day with Mr. and Mrs. Mynatt and children from Brewster valley.

Mr. J. C. McCulloch is doing all he can to put the Coos Bay road in good order. He has the good will of all the settlers along this road and his mail carriers are kind and obliging to every one.

KILLED BY THE AFTERDAMP.

"As if They Had Fallen Asleep"—Unable to Reach Some of the Dead—The Number is 176.

WHAT THE SEARCHERS FOUND.

SEATTLE, May 6.—The following is a Nanaimo special to the Post-Intelligencer: The exploring party that went down the main shaft at 6 a. m., consisting of John Bryden, manager of the Wellington colliery, Archie Dick, government inspector of mines, William Gregory, certificated manager of the Victoria Coal Company's mine, Frank Little, of the Wellington colliery, and A. Prior, a member of parliament and an experienced miner, report as follows: "We went down the main engine plane nearly as far in as No. 3 north level, where there were supposed to be twenty five white men at work. We found a lot of heavy lumber knocked out, and some small caves. Just before we got to the No. 3 level, we found some very heavy caves and crawled over the top of two of them. There was just room to get through. We crawled on top of the third cave, and could not get through. We found that, owing to the after-damp our lamps could not burn nor the men breathe. We came back a little way and crawled through a small hole, and, stepping into an air course, the first man found was A. Muir, a foreman, and just behind him

TWENTY-TWO WHITE MEN AND TWELVE CHINESE,

Lying within five or ten yards of each other. Muir evidently had been guiding the way out, the men following his lead. They evidently tried to get into the slope, but found it was caved in and had to retrace their steps to the air course Just as they had come into the air course the

AFTERDAMP STRUCK THEM

And all had succumbed. The Davy brothers were found kneeling down, with their arms around each other. They had pulled their coats over their heads to shield themselves.

There were no sign of burning. They simply had been killed by the afterdamp. The fire had not gone into the air course. All had evidently died sometime after the explosion.

The Vancouver Coal Company, under Mr. Robin's management, are sparing no expense in finding fitting interment for the dead.

BUSINESS SUSPENDED.

Business still in a suspended conditon, and will be for some time to come. To-day funerals were passing on every street almost every half hour.

The coroner's inquest will be opened to-morrow morning, under Dr. Walkem. Mr. Eberts arrived to-day to watch the proceedings on the part of the government, and Mr. Drake also arrived by the same train to represent the Vancouver Coal Company. The inquest promises to last some time.
